CHAMBER GETS DOWN TO PLANS FOR WORLD AID

Delegates Study Moves for Grappling With Debts and Tariff.

STRAWN SEES HOOVER AFTER DAY'S SESSION

Canada Takes Hand in Tilt With India and China on Silver Issue.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

With their ears closely attuned to word from their governments, leaders among the delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce yesterday centered their efforts on the task of formulating a platform of principles which will serve as an economic guide to better things for the world.

Declaration of the American government against cancellation of war debts has not eliminated that question, and what is to be said about debts is the stumbling block in the way of easy agreement.

None of the countries involved is willing to ask for amelioration of the war debts as a matter of needed relief, nor will the United States take the initiative, thereby relieving its debtors of that responsibility.

Commodity Change Cited.

German delegates attending the chamber meeting point out that the burden of the war payments, fixed in the Young plan, has been vitally changed by the decline in the prices of commodities. At the time the payments were fixed in money, the amount represented so much in commodities. The decline in commodity prices since means that she now must pay many more commodity units.

The Germans have been frank, and have won themselves sympathy, not only among American delegates, but also among the British delegates, and it was reported that the British would take on themselves responsibility for opening the question.

The question is far from the simple one such a statement of it makes it appear, and its ramifications are causing representatives of the various nations, especially the Americans, to remember the story about the camel which got its nose under the tent.

Strawn Calls on Hoover.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the American committee for the congress and newly elected president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, called on President Hoover at the White House yesterday afternoon, after several conferences with delegates to the congress. Mr. Strawn said he merely had called to pay his respects to the President.

There is no likelihood that the American delegates will concur in any declaration which will embarass the administration, and possibly further disturb conditions in the United States, and there is little doub but that Mr. Strawn discussed with the President various proposals under consideration in chamber committee meetings and conferences among delegates.

Evidence that there is no chasm between the administration and the American delegates was given by President Hoover's address of welcome to the chamber and the speech of Secretary Mellon at a luncheon given foreign bankers.

Decision Is Uncertain.

What will be agreed on finally no one would venture to predict yesterday. The whole matter is in a state of uncertainty, and the only prediction which leaders in the chamber would make was that before it adjourned the chamber would formulate a declaration of economic policy. There is a disposition to recognize the problems under discussion as of interest to all nations, and a belief that

Arson Suspected In Dement Blaze

Burning of House, Owned by Man Freed in Death, to Be Probed.

A possibility that arson may be responsible for the fire which destroyed a vacant house belonging to Paul E. Dement, of Branchville, recently freed in the death of Claude L. Hughes, is being investigated by Constable William Slater. Two other recent fires are also being investigated.

Mr. Dement's house was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning despite the efforts of volunteer firemen. Last week Mr. Dement was freed by a jury on charges of killing Hughes, a neighbor, during a fight. One of the other houses was a 10-room farmhouse in back of the experimental farm in Beltsville, and the third was a vacant house in Branchville.

SCENES AMID BACKGROUND OF APPLE BLOSSOMS

75,000 VIEW APPLE BLOSSOM PARADING

Queen Leads Procession of Colorful Floats Before Cheering Crowds.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 6.—Riding in royal state high on a throne of gold and white, Miss Patricia Dacre Morton, of Winchester, England, crowned "Queen Shenandoah VIII" yesterday by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, headed a triumphal procession today through streets lavishly decorated with American and British flags and bunting, and was acclaimed and paid homage by a crowd estimated at 75,000 persons who for the time being were her loyal subjects of the Apple Realm.

Clothed in her coronation gown of ivory satin and robe trimmed with ermine, a golden scepter in her hand and a jeweled diadem on her wavy dark brown hair, she smiled with queenly graciousness from the time the parade got under way at 2 o'clock until the Winchester fair grounds were reached nearly two hours later.

Crowds were so dense along the streets traversed by the parade, high spot of the festival, that State and local police had difficulty in keeping a way cleared wide enough for marching hosts to pass. Enthusiastic celebrants crashed the lines at numerous points and ran out into the middle of streets waving American and British flags as the queen's float passed along, and shouting, "Hail to Queen Pat," and "Long live the queen." The continuous ovations accorded her majesty were perhaps the greatest and most spontaneous witnessed since inauguration of these springtime celebrations in Winchester eight years ago.

The float on which the queen rode was fashioned after a medieval chariot with gilded spear arrows stuck in the rear on either side back of the old Winchester, England, coat of arms in black and gold. The float was covered with finely cut white crepe paper, with outlines trimmed in bands of gold.

As a compliment to the queen and her stepfather, Lieut. Gen. Edward J. Stroud, of the British marines, the royal guard of honor was composed of the Marine Band from Quantico, Va., and the Twentieth Marine Regiment Band and battalion, of Washington, the latter band the "queen's own."

Immediately following the royal float and the queen's escort were two other floats of white and yellow, carrying 35 princesses from 13 States, attired in yellow net dresses and large yellow hats with green streamers.

In the five other grand divisions were 33 bands and drum and bugle corps, cadet corps of military academies, floats representing varied industries identified with commercial apple growing, as well as by civic, patriotic, educational, financial and professional interests. Unique among the score of floats were competing orchestras of old-time musicians scraping tunes from rusty fiddles and

KENTUCKY SOLDIERS MOVE TO MINE AREA

Frankfort, Ky., May 6 (A.P.).—The first detachments of aproximately 325 Kentucky National Guard men began moving into the Harlan coal fields late today as a result of pleas from Sheriff J. H. Blair and other county officials that they could not control disorder there.

After ordering out the troops Gov. Sampson, at a press conference, declared: "A reign of terror has been precipitated by some interlopers, Communists from outside the State, who have taken advantage of the discontent resulting from unemployment."

Clashes between deputies and mine guards and groups of discontented men have resulted in five deaths near Evarts, the center of the disturbance. Four were killed yesterday morning in a fight in which rifles and machine guns were used, and commissaries and stores have been robbed and sixteen unoccupied miners' houses burned There are aproximately 20,000 miners in the county.

"Sheriff John H. Blair, of Harlan County, a former Army officer and as courageous a man as you could find," said the governor, "telephoned me

SCHOOL ROOF TERMED SAFE AS GIBRALTAR

Even Todd Backs Down on Charges of Sagging After Inspection.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS VIEW EXAMINATION

Contractor Admits That He Sighted "Weakness" 100 Yards Away.

The roof of the McKinley High School is as safe as the Rock of Gibraltar, so far as District engineers and newspapermen could determine yesterday afternoon.

Even Heron Todd, president of the Heron Todd Construction Co., who had made charges that the roof was unsafe, backed down considerably under questioning after the inspection and admitted that the roof would not likely collapse even under such stress as was applied to the Knickerbocker Theater.

A score of District officials, Heron Todd representatives, and newspapermen climbed into the attic of the 2-year-old high school yesterday afternoon and sought evidence of the alleged sagging in the roof. The most that could be found, and that was not verified by District official measurements, was a sag of five-eighths of an inch in a steel beam and the natural waves in the slate surface of the roof.

Admits Long Range Observation.

The subcontractor on the Roosevelt High School steel framework, which recently collapsed during a windstorm, said his charges were based upon observations made from a street more than 100 yards away of the slate shingles on the roof. He had never before been inside the attic.

In the presence of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, Municipal Architect Albert L. Harris, and other District officials, Mr. Todd said that the five-eighths inch sag his men claimed to have discovered was no more than to be expected in a building such as the McKinley High School and that many of the structures he had erected would reveal an equal or greater sag.

So far as the layman could determine, there was no sign of cracking concrete, bent steel columns, loosened bolts or anything that would appear to endanger the roof.

Just to satisfy all critics Maj. Gotwals instructed Col. John W. Oehmann, District building inspector, to make a plumb-line test to ascertain if the steel columns or the concrete roof-base had sagged since the school was constructed. This test probably will be made Friday in the presence of Mr. Todd and his representatives

Will Await Oehmann's Findings.

George R. Taylor, structural engineer of the Heron Todd Co., appeared more steadfast in his contentions yesterday afternoon than did Mr. Todd himself. It was he who directed an ironworker to climb among the steel rafters of the high school roof and to take numerous measurements while he made the calculations to the amazement of the District engineers and the newspapermen.

After it was all over he said that he was not sure of the methods he

BISHOP CANNON FIGHTS SENATE'S NEW INQUIRY SET FOR THIS MORNING

CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT IS CHALLENGED

Friends Report Prelate Is Anxious to Appear in Spite of His Stand.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., who so far has emerged triumphant from two investigations, last night sought to head off a third—the investigation which the Senate campaign funds committee will begin this morning.

From his room at Sibley Hospital the Southern Methodist divine sent a formal protest to the committee, challenging its authority to inquire into his affairs.

Not only did Bishop Cannon question the legality of the Glass resolution under which the Nye committee is fonctioning, but he challenged the constitutionality of the Federal corrupt practices act, in so far as presidential elections are concerned.

Committee to Go Ahead.

Nevertheless, Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, has announced that the committee will go ahead and will attempt to learn how Bishop Cannon spent that $65,300 turned over to him when he was crusading against Al Smith in the campaign of 1928.

Bishop Cannon was head of the anti-Smith forces in Virginia, and more than any one else was credited with placing the State in the Hoover column.

The $65,300 was turned over to Bishop Cannon by E. C. Jameson, a New York financier.

After Representative George Holden Tinkham (Republican), of Massachusetts, had charged that Bishop Cannon evaded the corrupt practices act by failing to make a detailed accounting of his campaign expenditures, the Senate lobby committee called the clergyman before it. Bishop Cannon, however, declined to testify, and made the committee look rather silly. That was about a year ago.

Acting Under Resolution.

The Nye committee, which now seeks to do what the lobby committee failed to do, is acting under authority of a resolution unanimously adopted at the last session of the Senate. The author of the resolution was Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, who, though a member of the same church, is a bitter enemy of Bishop Cannon.

Chairman Nye has summoned two witnesses for today's hearing, which begins at 10:30. They are C. B. Stevens, of Charlottesville, Va., and Ada Burroughs, of Richmond, Va. Mr. Stevens will testify regarding a check given him by Bishop Cannon in connection with the purchase of a house.

Bishop Cannon, it was said by his friends last night, is anxious to appear before the committee, even though he feels it has no authority to investigate his affairs.

"If Bishop Cannon demands to be heard," Chairman Nye said yesterday, "he will be heard, providing he waives immunity and agrees to submit to examination."

Studded With Citations.

The letter which Bishop Cannon sent to Chairman Nye late yesterday read like a legal brief, so studded was it with citations from various decisions.

Attacking the legality of the Glass resolution, under which the committee is proceeding, Bishop Cannon said:

"Under this resolution, complaint has been filed against me by Congressman Tinkham, from a wet Roman Catholic district of Boston, of a violation of the Federal corrupt practices act and a fraudulent conversion to private uses of campaign funds.

"I have not knowingly violated any section of the corrupt practices act, nor have I embezzled any campaign funds, but if any complaints are made against me that I have been guilty of such crimes, I deny the right of a Senate committee to investigate such complaints."

Cites Court Declaration.

The Supreme Court, Bishop Cannon said, has declared that "if crime has been committed the grand jury shall investigate; if fraud, the courts of equity and law. All the judicial power is vested in the courts by the Constitution. Implied powers do not exist in either house."

"I contend that the Senate resolution 403 (the Glass resolution) states

Alfonso Takes Hand In Spain's Election

Exiled King Makes Move to Unite Monarchists, With View of Gaining Throne for His Son Don Juan Carlos.

Paris, May 6 (U.P.).—Alfonso XIII, deposed King of Spain, has decided to move in an effort to preserve some semblance of monarchical power, it was revealed today.

Alfonso, living in exile at Fontainbleau, outside Paris, decided to ask the monarchist parties in Madrid to unite and present a consolidated ticket for the proposed parliamentary elections.

He advised, it was understood, that they combine under Sanchez Guerra, former premier, instead of going ahead on many separate tickets. Alfonso, however, was reported to feel that the monarchists would be lucky to obtain as many as 80 seats out of 400 in Parliament.

Another significant decision made by the former king, it was learned, was a determination not to seek the restoration of himself to the throne, but his third son, Don Juan Carlos, 17, now a student at the British Naval Academy.

He favors Juan because he is the only son of the family perfect physically. The Prince of Asturias, Alfonso's first son, is afflicted with a weakening blood malady. He still spends most of his days abed, except time spent motoring in the Fontainbleau forest. He insists, however, on dressing for dinner every evening and heading his own table in a room separate from his parents at their hotel.

WOOD SEES EXPENSE FORCING HIGHER TAX

House Appropriations Chief Backs Hoover's Plan to Cut Federal Costs.

(Associated Press.)

A prediction that failure of the Government to reduce expenditures to meet Federal revenues would result in an increase in taxes was made yesterday by Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee.

Urging curtailment of outlays for the naval and military establishments, the Indiana Republican said he would support President Hoover's efforts to prevent an increase in taxes by reducing expenditures wherever possible.

Mr. Wood has accepted the Chief Executive's invitation to spend the week-end at the Rapidan camp in Virginia to discuss Government finances. The conference will be the first of a series planned by Mr. Hoover to study expenditures. War Department finances will be examined this week-end.

As a means to prevent the outlay of hundreds of millions, Mr. Wood said it would be unnecessary to build up to the limits of the London naval treaty.

His statement came shortly after Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, said the next Congress would be asked to authorize naval construction costing nearly a billion dollars to meet treaty requirements.

The Pennsylvanian, who was one of the United States delegates to the London conference, said he had asked the Navy Department to give Congress its bill early in the next session. 'As soon as it is presented," Senator Reed added, "I will take up the fight for passage." He expressed confidence it would be approved.

With the Treasury deficit reaching $903,320,757 on May 4, Chairman Wood said that with declining revenues it would be impossible to meet expenditures of this proportion.

"President Hoover is making heroic efforts to stop the needless outflow of funds," the Indianian said. "Either Federal expenditures will have to be drastically reduced, or we will have to increase the taxes to meet the demands on the Treasury."

Mr. Wood, who also is chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, said the veterans had "about gone the limit" in their demands. He noted that besides the billion-dollar outlay for loans on compensation certificates, the Government was expending in excess of $800,000,000 annually for pensions and hospitalization.

Before the World War, he said, excepting the Postoffice-Treasury bill outlays, Government expenditures did

YOUTHFUL GUNMAN SOUGHT IN 2 DEATHS

New York Intensifies Hunt for Crowley After Policeman Dies.

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Police in every borough of New York set out today to capture Francis Crowley, a 20-year-old rowdy who posed as a "big shot" gunman in the cheap dance halls of Manhattan.

They wanted him to answer for two killings within a fortnight and hoped to learn what became of a 16-year-old girl who has been missing since his last shooting scrape. They fear she, too, may have been killed.

Patrolman Frederick Hirsch of the Nassau County force was the victim of the latest killing which police ascribed to Crowley. He died early today with eight bullets in his chest and arms—shot down before he had a chance to defend himself.

Since Virginia Brannen, a "taxi-dancer" was killed ten days ago and her body thrown behind a hedge in Yonkers, Crowley has been a fugitive. Today a half-dozen of his companions were rounded up and their terror-stricken accounts of his activities filled in a curious background of youthful crime.

Last night, according to the story the police pieced together, Crowley and his crowd in a stolen automobile went out for a "party." The group included Clinton Davis, 19, at whose home Crowley had been living even while police were searching for him; John McCahill, 19; Howard Singer, 20; Lizzie Kotzie, 15, and Helen Walsh, 16. They piled into the car and drove into a dark lane in North Merrick, not far from their homes.

Leaving Crowley and Helen Walsh in the machine, the others walked away down the lane. Soon Patrolman Hirsch and Patrolman Joseph Yodice, looking for tire thieves, turned into the lane.

Hirsch approached the car, called for the driver's license and turned his flashlight on the couple sitting there.

"You're Crowley," he exclaimed.

Crowley pulled a pistol and opened fire. He threw the car into gear, started down the lane, fired two more shots at Yodice and escaped.

The abandoned car was found about noon, its cushions splashed with blood. Police said the stains might be taken as an indication that some of the shots Yodice fired had taken effect or that there had been more shooting after the car left the lane. They were concerned particularly with two bullet holes in the upholstery. The bullets, apparentsy fired from the driver's seat, had spent so much of their force that they failed to penetrate the outside metal. This condition, police said, might be explained if the bullets had first passed through a body.

Klein Declares Now Is Time to Advertise

Editor's Note—Because of the great interest in The Post-Zain Amateur Ad Writing Contest, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, was asked by The Post to give his views on advertising. Dr. Klein's statement follows:

It is doubtful if there is any one in the business world today so far behind the times as to question the value of advertising. The results of this medium of trade stimulation have been too evident to make it necessary to defend it. We all have seen the phenomenal growth of various American firms which have been consistent and prolific advertisers. We all know, too, that when we are in the market for a product, be it an automobile, a radio, a hat, a collar or a can of paint, we make our decision largely as a result of advertising we have read.

While admitting the value of advertising in general, there are just now certain manufacturers and retailers who are permitting the present business depression to influence their advertising policies. They believe it desirable to reduce expenses and they find it simple to lop off a certain proportion of their advertising appropriation. This, in my opinion, is a short-sighted policy and one which will prove a decided disadvantage in the long run.

It goes without saying that an increased demand for consumer goods will put more money into circulation, and such a development will, of course, be an important factor in improving the business situation. In advertising, the business man has an unexcelled agency with which to accomplish this purpose.

In the general discussion of unemployment, many people seem to lose sight of the fact that the earning power of the great bulk of our population is unimpaired. As a matter of fact, statistics show that the savings deposits of the American people today are higher than they ever have been in our history. And another point to be remembered is that the purchasing power of the American dollar is today substantially higher than it has been for the last fifteen years.

While the present business situation admittedly leaves much to be desired, various signs indicate that

Social Leader's Dry Talk Is Wasted on Labor Chiefs

Recruit in Prohibition Ranks Journeys From Mansion to Workingmen's Headquarters in Fruitless Efforts to Win Toilers From Beer.

From her mansion at 2501 Massachusetts avenue, Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, prominent socially in Washington and New York, yesterday drove to the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor, there to try to wean the representatives of the workingman from their stand for beer. She failed.

Mrs. Patterson, a newcomer among the ranks of prohibition workers, represents the Citizens Protective League, the purposes of which "are to unite the law-abiding elements of the country against bootlegging, regardless of their opinion on prohibition, and to encourage the study of the liquor question from facts, not fancies; to study the question from the ground up, from the days before prohibition to the present time, and to acquaint the younger generation with conditions that existed twenty years ago."

Addressing the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, Mrs. Patterson declared that the laboring man, by getting behind prohibition, could "stop the clamor for alcohal" and obtain a better hearing upon economic conditions.

"Is it wise," she asked, "to ask for beer when men and women need bread? Is it fair to demand wine when shorter hours are the urgent requirement?"

Mrs. Patterson also chided Matthew Woll, vice president of the federa-

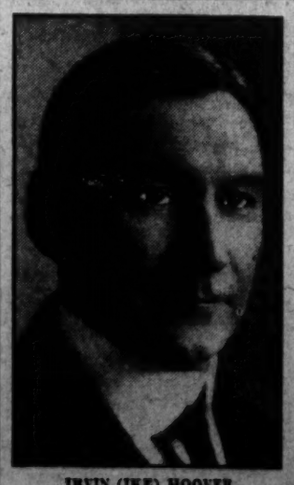
Ike Hoover Begins 41st Year In Service of White House



IRVIN (IKE) HOOVER

Chief Usher's Employment Dates From Harrison's Term in 1891.

Irvin (Ike) Hoover, chief usher of the White House, rounded out 40 years of service in that famous mansion yesterday, and was warmly congratulated by President Herbert Hoover.

"Ike"—it is hard to see how you get that out of Irvin, but that is what the White House major domo has always been called—is a native of this city. He started his career as a telephone operator away back in the days before it was believed that women had sufficient brains to do such work.

Later he became an electrician, an employe of the old Edison Electric Co. That was the job that led him into the White House. In May, 1891, no case nor subject matter about which a legislative body has jurisdiction to inquire. The resolution contemplates no legislation nor legislative duty, but is an attempt to authorize an investigation by a senatorial committee of complaints of commission of crimes, in which investigation the accused has no protection as is guaranteed in a court of law—such as the right to object to the introduction of improper testimony or to cross-examine, but the ordinary guarantees of court procedure are not operative.

"Irrelevant, unwarranted and false statements can be placed unchallenged upon the record and made a report to the Senate and be scattered broadcast by the press without restriction."

Corrupt Practices Act.

Bishop Cannon attacked the constitutionality of the Federal corrupt practices act so far as it affects presidential elections on the following grounds:

Congress in the Constitution is given the power to set the date of elections, but does not have the power to limit expenditures in a presidential election, because the presidential electors are appointed by the State Legislatures.

The point the bishop makes is that while Congress may provide for an accounting of expenditures by senators and representatives, it can not govern expenditures in connection with presidential electors, for the reason that these are State appointees and therefore subject only to State laws.

Though Bishop Cannon appears to be losing the confidence of many of his churchmen, there are still plenty of them standing behind him, according to reports reaching The Post.

The letter of the Rev. F. J. Prettyman, of Baltimore, attacking the fairness of the "trial" which Bishop Cannon underwent here recently, has kicked up considerable of a furore, and quite a number of local pastors have denounced Dr. Prettyman. It has even been suggested that charges be preferred against him with the church conference, charges based on insubordination and ill temper.

other musical contraptions. The "Atlantic Greyhound" of stage coach days was shown in comparison with a modern de luxe motor coach. Another group of fiddlers displayed a live opossum chained to a tree with a hunter in the act of shooting him. Local fraternal organizations were represented by highly artistic floats.

Veterans Groups Present.

Veterans organizations predominated in the military divisions. Those from Washington and vicinity included the Twentieth Marine Battalion and Band, Overseas Band and Bugle Corps, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Victory Post No. 4, Drum and Bugle Corps, American Legion; Vincent Costello Post Drum and Bugle Corps, American Legion; Arlington County, No. 139, American Legion; Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion; Drum and Bugle Corps. Other organizations from Washington vicinity included the Alexandria High School Corps of Cadets, Alexandria, Va.; Arlington County Cadets Band and Battalion, Clarendon, Va., and Washington-Lee High School Cadet Corps, Ballston, Va. Other veterans organizations came from Hagerstown, Cumberland, Frederick, Havre de Grace, Md.; York, Pa.; Fairmont, W. Va., and from various cities and towns of Virginia. Dr. Lewis M. Allen was grand marshal of the parade.

Arriving at the Winchester Fair Grounds, "Queen Shenandoah" and her court were escorted to royal boxes erected near the grand stand, where the parade was reviewed as it entered and passed around the mile track. However, the queen left her royal box before the entire procession had passed. She complained of feeling chilly, and attendants, fearing she would contract a cold, advised her to return to the home of her official hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Hunter H. McGuire. It was stated there two hours later that Miss Morton was feeling quite well again. She sent word that it was a matter of extreme regret that she felt the necessity of leaving the reviewing stand.

Threatening weather prevailed throughout the day, but no rain fell. A haze enveloped the surrounding country during the early morning, and only occasionally did the sun break through the rather menacing clouds. However, principal highways and secondary roads were choked with travel until early afternoon, when the queen's triumphal parade began forming. Highway officials said they had not completed checks kept on several roads leading from Washington, but that it no doubt would set a new record.

The high arched gymnasium of the Shenandoah Valley Academy, splendid with American and British flags intertwined, palms, potted plants and cut flowers, was the scene tonight of the queen's ball, the final event of the two-day celebration. The Staunton Military Academy Orchestra furnished the music for the ball which was attended by high Government, State and local officials.

The queen, recovered from her indisposition while viewing the parade in the afternoon, attended the ball in her honor but did not participate in the dancing.

Students in Pageant.

A second presentation of the festival pageant, "The Fruit of the Gods," by 1,000 Winchester students, with musical score by the Handley High School Orchestra, drew a crowd of 30,000 during the late forenoon.

As the city's lights and special illuminations were turned on crowds thronged the streets, infested by fakirs, traveling lunch wagons and toy venders, and another night of festivity was on. Dances were being held in a dozen public halls.

As she lays aside her royal robes, crown and scepter and her title as Queen Shenandoah VIII, Miss Morton leaves tomorrow for Washington, where she will be guest of the English-Speaking Union until Sunday. She then goes to Philadelphia for a banquet by that city's branch of the same organization, and with her mother, Mrs. E. J. Stroud, sails for home shores May 15.

DR. CHRISTIE HEADS PHYSICIANS' SOCIETY

Dr. W. G. Morgan Tells of Work in Drafting Regulations on Alcohol's Use.

Dr. Arthur C. Christie was elected president of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia last night at the third session of the annual meeting.

Others selected as officers are: Dr. James A. Gannon, first vice president; Dr. Mary O'Malley, second vice president; Dr. Coursen B. Conklin, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Henry C. Macatee, delegate to the American Medical Association for two years; Dr. Frank Leech, alternate delegate, and Dr. C. R. L. Halley, member of the program committee for three years.

Members named to serve on the executive committee for thre years are Dr. William H. Hough, Dr. Edward Y. Davidson and Dr. Wallace M. Yater.

Perfect Freedom Asked.

Physicians should be unhampered in the use of any medicinal agent by act of Congress, but in order to be worthy of the trust reposed in them, it is absolutely necessary that none should abuse the privileges of prescribing alcohol, Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president of the American Medical Association, declared at the afternoon session yesterday.

However, complete freedom for physicians in prescribing alcohol can not be expected at this time, he told the society in describing the work of a committee of the association which is now at work on a draft of regulations which it is hoped will meet the approval of prohibition authorities as an amendment to the Volstead act. The object of the committee's work is to give the physician much greater freedom than is accorded him under the present law.

"After a long and exhaustive study of the situation as it applies to medicinal alcohol, I have come to the conclusion that some regulatory measures for the safeguarding of the profession, as well as the public, are vitally necessary," Dr. Morgan declared.

"I would that the situation were otherwise, but it is necessary for us to recognize conditions as they are and map a course of action in accordance therewith.

Problem Carefully Studied.

"Perhaps no question vexing the profession during the last half century has been so critically studied by the board of trustees of the American Medical Association. I feel certain that they are in whole-hearted accord with the desire of the profession to be relieved of the crippling restrictions to the daily practice of medicine.

"However, after considering every possible angle we are forced to recognize that we can not get through Congress a bill which does not carry with it a protective regulation," he said.

Dr. John B. Deaver, of Philadelphia, who had been invited to address the society yesterday on the subject of chronic peptic ulcers, was prevented by illness from attending. His son, Dr. J. Montgomery Deaver, however, read his father's paper.

The meeting was opened with about 200 professional men from Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia in attendance, with an address by Dr. William H. Hough, president of the District society.

Technical Papers Read.

Dr. W. Warren Sager presented a paper on several cases illustrating the treatment of abcesses in the pleural cavity.

The novel method of treatment of syphilis of the nervous system by artificial infection with the malarial fever parasite was explained by Dr. Walter Freeman. The malaria is later halted by the usual administration of quinine, he explained. This treatment has been used at St. Elizabeths Hospital for the last several years, according to Dr. Freeman.

Dr. A. B. Moore illustrated various causes of bleeding from the stomach and the intestinal tract, with illustrations of conditions by X-ray films.

Three patients were presented by Dr. Harry H. Kerr, illustrating some of the results possible in modern surgery of the sympathetic nervous system, in conditions which heretofore had been considered incurable.

New Test Described.

A new test for pregnancy, which to date has been almost 100 per cent accurate, and in which white mice and rabbits are used in the application of the test, was described by Dr Joseph J. Mundell.

Dr. J. Russell Verbrycke, jr., showed an instrument for stretching of the spasm at the entrance of the stomach, which prevented patients from eating. He claimed that the cure in these patients was more speedy and more spectacular than any other medical or surgical condition, the patient being able to eat comfortably five minutes after treatment.

Motion pictures which showed the effects upon the rest of the body of chronic prostatic obstruction, if not relieved, were presented by Dr. W. Calhoun Stirling.

A hospital conference will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a public meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at which Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the District Commissioners, will preside.

At the open session Dr. C. Rufus Rorem will report on findings of the committee on the costs of medical care; Dr. J. J. Durrett, chief of drug control, food and drug administration, Department of Agriculture, will speak on "Some Fads in Medicine Frauds;" and Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, will speak on "The Responsibility of the Citizen for the Health of His Community."

Parents Seek More Land For Northeast Schools

Representatives of the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Northeast section were granted a hearing yesterday afternoon by the District Commissioners relative to their requests that the property bordering on Lincoln road, between T and R streets northeast, be added to the plot which includes the McKinley High School and the Langley Junior High School.

The delegation asked that the money for the purchase of this property be included in the 1933 estimates, which are now in the hands of Maj. Daniel Donovan, District auditor.

U. S. LAWYERS PAID TRIBUTE BY FRENCH

Felicitations Are Exchanged as Claudel Presents Gift Ornament.

Expressions of felicitations were exchanged between attorneys of France and the United States at an assemblage of a notable audience yesterday noon at a luncheon held by the Bar Association of the District of Columbia at the Cosmos Club.

Acting on behalf of the Association Nationale des Avocats Inscrits, an association of members of the French bar, Ambassador Paul Claudel of France formally presented an elaborate table ceramic ornament to the American Bar Association, whose national officers and executive committee members, numbering nineteen prominent attorneys, were honor guests. Approximately 300 persons were present.

Ambassador Claudel, in the presentation, pointed out that the gift was in appreciation of hospitality accorded by the American Bar Association last July and August on a visit made to the United States by French lawyers, in company with British, Scotch and Irish attorneys. The delegation spent three days in this city.

The gift, a typical expression of French high art as a sevres hunting group of three pieces, portraying a stag at bay, was accepted for the American Bar Association by its president, Charles A. Boston, of New York City. The work of art will be on exhibit at the association's headquarters in Chicago.

In the absence of George P. Hoover, president of the local Bar Association, its chairman of the committee on relations, George Maurice Morris, opened the program with the introduction of Secretary of State Stimson, who made brief introductory remarks to introduce Ambassador Claudel.

Henry Upsom Sims, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Bar Association last year, presented to the French association, through the Ambassador, an elaborate parchment conveying the American Bar Association's appreciation.

Saying this country was well prepared for war, Mr. Wood added there was a potential army of 2,000,000 trained men, including regulars, reserves and able-bodied war veterans. It could be depended upon for ten years, he said.

Noted Legal Leaders Will Address Law Club

Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School and Dean John Henry Wigmore of Northwestern Law School will speak at the annual banquet of the Edward Douglass White Law Club of Georgetown Law School at the Mayflower Hotel tonight.

On the committee in charge of the dinner are James Murphy, Arthur Salvatore, Jackson Price, Armand Jones, Maxwell J. Gruber, jr., and Thomas Claggett.

SOVIET AGAIN LEADS IN PRODUCING WHEAT

about May 20 by the United States Department of Agriculture.

It was said yesterday that Russian production for 1930 likely would be announced at 1,097,000,000 bushels, which is 246,000,000 bushels more than was produced by the United States — wheat-growing champions since Russia left the export picture during the war.

That figure would show Russia to have exceeded her greatest production mark since the days when she dominated the world export trade. That mark, established in 1913, credited Russia with a production of 1,028,000,000 bushels. It was the first time Russia reached the billion-bushel score.

The significance of the situation, market experts said, was that it might present to the international wheat conference in London on May 19 the question of reallocating world wheat areas.

During the war and for several years after, great expansion of wheat acreage occurred in the United States, Canada, Argentina, India and Australia to make up for the deficiency in Europe. European countries which in 1913 produced 1,301,000,000 bushels of wheat grew scarcely none at all. By 1930 they had their production back to 1,362,000,000 bushels.

The non-European countries, however, did not reduce production as it increased in Europe, and in 1930 produced 509,000,000 bushels more than in 1913, when Europe was fairly able to feed herself. Russia then provided almost 40 per cent of all grains consumed on the Continent. The result was that non-European countries, now wrestling with overproduction and the worst world market in a century, had a surplus last year of 384,000,000 bushels.

This wheat is held by surplus-producing countries now sending delegates to the London conference to try to discover what is wrong with the wheat market and what, if anything, can be done about it.

Canada produced 166,000,000 bushels more wheat in 1930 than in 1913; Argentina, 134,000,000 bushels; Australia, 102,000,000; the United States, 88,000,000, and India, 19,000,000.

While they were doing it European nations piled up huge import barriers to encourage production and consumption of native wheat.

Balkan countries produced more than they could find a market for and Russia slashed prices and created international consternation over her "dumping" policy to pour almost 100,000,000 bushels on the world market.

Also Russia has served notice she will continue her policy of expansion and under-selling if the latter be necessary to the sale of grain. Her plans call for 70,000,000 acres of wheat this year—19,000,000 acres more than 1930 domestic planting.

Some authorities discount Russia's ability to carry out her plans. Absence of diplomatic relations leave advices from Russia wholly unofficial but Soviet spokesmen have indicated Russia might export 250,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, equaling her prewar exports. Russia has to feed 162,000,000 persons, which leaves her surplus for export in doubt unless she determines to exploit wheat again to finance industrial enterprises.

Production in the United States which, for the first and only time reached a billion bushels in 1915 and thus far has set the high mark next to Russia, has been estimated at about 800,000,000 bushels for 1931.

IKE HOOVER COUNTS 40 YEARS SERVICE

he was assigned to install electric lights and electric bells in the White House, the first residence here to be equipped with the then amazing apparatus.

Inasmuch as the electrical equipment was too baffling for the mechanics then employed in the White House, Ike was asked to forsake his job with the Edison company, and take one at the White House.

That was in the administration of President Benjamin Harrison. Altogether, Ike has served under nine Presidents, just one shy of a third of all Presidents that the Nation has had. President Hoover is listed as the thirty-first President, but this is because there was a break in the two terms of Grover Cleveland, and he was thus counted twice.

Ike Hoover, beginning as an electrician, was made an usher in the McKinley administration, and chief usher in the Taft administration.

He has supervised arrangements for two funerals—those of McKinley and Harding. And has arranged for three weddings—those of Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth, Eleanor Wilson and William G. McAdoo, and Jessie Wilson and Francis Sayre.

After the World War, Ike Hoover made both trips to Europe with President Wilson, his task being to take care of the palaces which the war President occupied in Paris.

Today Ike Hoover is going strong. His hair is only slightly streaked with gray and he retains most of the "pep" that has always characterized him.

tion, for "making a great deal of noise" about modifying the prohibition act.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement later in which he said that the executive council gave "most courteous attention" to Mrs. Patterson's views.

But in reply, Mr. Green said, Mrs. Patterson was advised that the American Federation of Labor, at its conventions, had adopted a declaration in favor of the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer. This plan, in the opinion of most members of the A. F. of L., Mrs. Patterson was told, would promote law and order, promote temperance, and help the economic situation by giving work to thousands of persons, who would be employed in the construction of breweries and the manufacture of beer.

used and that he would rather await the findings of Col. Oehmann before making any definite statement as to teh sagging of the roof. Rough calculations, however, he said, indicated a sag of five-eighths of an inch. This might well be caused, he admitted, by ordinary settling that is common to all large buildings.

When the inspection of the under part of the roof was completed, the delegation moved to the street, where it observed for some time the waves in the roof, but found nothing more than the natural roughness to be expected from a slate surface that has been exposed to the weather for two years.

Engineers Obviously Amused.

While keeping a dignified silence during the inspection, the District engineers were obviously amused at the allegations. Their judgment was impersonal, moreover, as the building was designed by a previous administration and previous structural engineers of the municipal architect's office.

Among those who examined the high school roof were Maj. Gotwals, Mr. Harris, Col. Oehmann, Harold Marsh, structural engineer of the municipal architect's office; Mr. Todd and his assistants, and Lieut. E. K. Schilling, aid of Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

ALFONSO DIRECTS MOVE IN ELECTION

Don Juan, in England, however, is Alfonso's choice for his successor, if any. The former king sent the Marquis Luca de Tena to Madrid on a special mission to convince Sanchez Guerra that he should accept the leadership of the combined monarchist ticket, despite the fact that he and Sanchez Cerra had broken their friendship.

Sanchez Guerra, it was recalled, was premier in 1923, when he was overthrown by the dictator, the late Primo de Rivera. He went into voluntary exile in France until January, 1929, when he tried to promote a revolution in Spain, but failed. He was placed in jail for a short time.

The only inconvenience in Alfonso's request that he head the monarchists was seen in Sanchez Guerra's insistent refusal in the past to associate with the monarchists of the De Rivera dictatorship.

Alfonso feels that the restoration of the monarchy is improbable at present, it was understood. He places his hope in a possible split among the Republicans, a separatist movement, or the growth of Communism.

Toledo, Spain, May 6 (A.P.).—Cardinal Primate Pedro Segura, Spain's highest ecclesiastical authority, issued a pastoral letter today counseling all Spanish Catholics to participate actively in the coming elections, at which the members of the national assembly will be chosen. The cardinal urged the election of deputies "who will defend and guarantee the rights of the church."

The present moment, he said, was "very grave" for the church, and the recent changes in government had already damaged the church's rights. There would be no disposition on the part of the church, he said, to take a partisan stand if its rights were not infringed upon.

"As Republicans or monarchists," he said, "you can justly dissent over what form of government is best for Spain, but when the rights of your religion are menaced, it is your unalterable duty to defend them." He added that King Alfonso and his family "steadfastly kept the Catholic faith" while in power.

It was believed the cardinal's letter may have a very important influence on the Spanish political future. Many people expressed the opinion that the situation at present does not contain probability of a religious controversy, such as occurred in Mexico a few years ago, but the fear exists that strained relations may develop. The new government is withholding official comment on the pastoral until it has time to study it more carefully.

Madrid, May 6 (A.P.).—Commenting tonight on the pastoral letter of Archbishop Seguro, Marcelino Domingo, minister of public instruction, said:

"The pastoral of the cardinal primate seems to me to be not in the spirit of the church as it exists in those countries where new democracies have been established, similar to the new republic of Spain.

"The rules of the church require respect for constitutional government in whatever form it may be.

"I can not agree with the cardinal's position."

OF the many romantic figures which decorate the pages of our history none exceeds in charm, daring and tragedy William Walker, who less than three generations ago held sway over the most turbulent area in the Western Hemisphere. Caught in the meshes of international intrigue and ruthless business diplomacy, he found death at the rifles of a Central American firing squad, and today many persons in Washington, kinsmen and friends, mourn a kindly, scholarly little gentleman, the little known story of whose life is told in THE SUNDAY MAGAZINE SECTION OF THE WASHINGTON POST of May 10.

The tale is told sympathetically and with an understanding charm which makes William Walker and his breath-taking deeds live again in the imagination of the reader and it also brings to your attention another of the kings in the Caribbean, a marine who ruled in regal power until Uncle Sam ended his sway.

This is but one of the several articles which make THE WASHINGTON POST'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE SECTION for MAY 10 well worthy of your attention.

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

LA FOLLETTE TO BUY ESTATE IN VIRGINIA

Modest House on 91-Acre Tract Was Visited by George Washington.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and his bride are about to acquire an historic estate in nearby Virginia, it was learned last night.

As Virginia estates go, it is a modest one, the house having only four rooms and a kitchen. In the nearly 200 years it has been standing, however, it has been visited by many noted Virginians, among them George Washington.

The estate, which consists of 91 acres, is located 4 miles below Alexandria, and overlooks the famous Hybia Valley. Farther down is Mount Vernon.

Senator La Follette is buying the estate from Judge and Mrs. Percy S. Crewe, of Fals. Church, Va. They acquired it from Col. E. A. Beadle, retired, who had purchased it several years before from Samuel Collard, whose family had owned it since 1758.

Senator La Follette plans to live on the estate while he is here attending sessions of Congress, just as Senator Thaddeus Caraway, of Arkansas, lives on his old Calvert estate in Maryland while the sessions are on.

For a number of years Senator La Follette has lived at 2244 Cathedral avenue northwest.

Glenmont-Sandy Spring Road Is Called Menace

Condition of the Colesville pike from Glenmont to Sandy Spring was declared to constitute a serious traffic menace at a meeting of the Glenmont Center Citizens Association last night in the Glenmont School. The road is too narrow and has several extremely bad curves, it was said.

The association postponed action on a resolution to ask the State Roads Commission to straighten the road and construct shoulders until its next meeting. A report of progress was made by the committee appointed to cooperate with the tree planting group of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Boy, 5, Severely Burned While at Play in Yard

Daniel Ellis Pine, 5 years old, of East Riverdale, is in a critical condition at Children's Hospital with burns of the chest and stomach, believed to have been received when he fell into a bonfire in the back yard of his home.

There were no witnesses to the accident, and it is not known definitely how he was burned. The mother of the child fainted after the accident, and could not be interviewed, according to members of the Bladensburg unit of the rescue squad, who took him to the hospital. A fire in the back yard was burning when they arrived, squad members said.

FAIRFAX ROAD STUDY HITS MANY HAZARDS

State Highway Department Asked Improvemnets for Celebration.

In view of the George Washington Bicentennial celebration planned next year, special attention has been given highway problems in Fairfax County by civic organizations and county officials.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce has appointed a special committee, consisting of W. F. P. Reid, chairman, Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, secretary; George F. Harrison, W. J. Cleveland, Joseph Berry and Earl Saum, to consider traffic hazards and make recommendations for improvements in the State Highway system traversing the county. Recommendations are to be filed with the State Commission prior to its meeting to make allocations of fall appropriations.

Before its next meeting the commission plans to make a tour of inspection of highways in Culpeper district in which Fairfax County is located and the approaches to the Nation's Capital. Local organizations claim that many visitors expected next year from all portions of the world will gain impressions of the whole State of Virginia while traveling only through Arlington and Fairfax counties. The report of the special committee of the chamber was filed yesterday with the board of supervisors and adopted in substance. It will be submitted to the towns of Falls Church and Fairfax, the Fairfax County Pomona Grange and other organizations next week for their approval.

Hazards Are Described.

The report classifies its recommendations as covering road hazards now existing so dangerous as to require immediate attention as emergencies, and changes necessary to improve the efficiency of the highway system in this section. As Arlington and Fairfax Counties and the city of Alexandria are closely related to the life of Gen. George Washington, these organizations have stated that they believe this section of the State should be given special consideration by next year and that additional mileage should be allocated over and above what might be expected under normal conditions.

The State Highways under the first classification have been described as follows:

The Richmond-Washington highway at present is one of the most heavily traveled roads in the State of Virginia, carrying both north and south bound traffic between the Capital of the Nation and the capital of the State and points in the Southern States. The present width of the road is 18 feet, with many dangerous curves throughout. The burden of traffic at present results in daily accidents with constant toll of human life and property damage.

A portion o this road from Hunting Creek to Pen Daw Hotel should, if possible, be relocated to eliminate dangerous curves and steep grades. The new bridge over Little Hunting Creek is too narrow to carry safely normal traffic without increased traffic, incident to the bicentennial celebration. A minimum width of 28 feet should be provided.

The Kings highway from Penn Daw to the Little River Pike should be relocated, straightened and widened. On this road the location of Pullman's Store in the junction of the State route with the Telegraph road constitutes a dangerous hazard and either the building should be removed or the road relocated so as to change the point of intersection. This road will offer a desirable cut-off from the Richmond-Washington highway to and from the Masonic Memorial Temple in the City of Alexandria.

Guard rails should be erected along the Alexandria-Leesburg pike between Difficult Run Bridge and the Colvin Run culvert, which is now being widened by the State. As soon as conditions permit this portion of the road should be relocated and built to eliminate the present one-way bridge over Difficult Run. Guard rails should be erected on this road at Dranesville.

Road in Falls Church Dangerous.

There exists a dangerous hazard on the Lee highway, which will carry a heavy burden of traffic during the celebration, connecting as it does the Capital and the Valley turnpike. This burden of traffic will become more congested between the towns of Fairfax and Falls Church and it is of prime importance that the portion of the road within the towns of Falls Church and Fairfax should be widened. The junction of the Lee boulevard with this road in the town of Falls Church at Broad street will constitute a serious menace unless the existing condition on this road between Broad street and the junction of the county road leading from Falls Church to Annandale is bettered.

The Lee boulevard, it is understood, will be 40 feet in width and will join a road which is only 18 feet wide.

The present width of the Lee highway in the Town of Fairfax is 16 feet and it is imperative that this road be widened in the town and that the narrow bridge in town opposite the cemetery and in close proximity to an electric railroad track be widened.

The roads of the second classification or those which should be improved to increase efficiency of the State system in the county were listed as Chain Bridge road, which should be widened, and that portion of the road near Occoquan at the junction of the Richmond-Washington highway, which it is recommended be graveled. The Lee-Jackson highway should be widened, as this road carries a heavy bus and freight traffic, and a number of bridges on the Lee highway near Merrifield should be relocated so as to eliminate hadards, the report states.

DIED.

CULLOTY—On Wednesday, May 6, 1931, at her residence, 4108 Gault place northeast, MARGARET ELLA CULLOTY (nee Carpenter), beloved wife of Dennis Culloty.

PLANS FOR BOOKLET TO BE MADE TONIGHT

Montgomery Group to Meet and Continue Drive to Advertise County.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

The committee representing six Chambers of Commerce of Montgomery County and other civic and business bodies in the preparation of a booklet advertising Montgomery County will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Bethesda County Building. A large number of organizations in the county have been invited to participate and send representatives. Appointment of the special committee to deal with the advertising agency to be employed to prepare the booklet are announced as follows: O. M. Kile, Mohican Hills; Phil D. Poston, Silver Spring; Bernard Brislus, Rockville; Edward H. Jones, Chevy Chase, and W. I. Cleveland, Kensington.

The committee will consider the adoption of the name, "Greater Montgomery County, Inc., to designate the committee as approved by the executive committee at a recent meeting.

George P. Sacks, chairman of the finance committee, said he is optimistic regarding the possibility of raising the $10,000 fund necessary for the publication.

The booklet will contain matter exploiting the advantages of Montgomery County as a residential and business section. It is to be prepared for distribution during the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration.

The finance committee of the Montgomery County Social Service League has announced that the league's budget will be $24,100 for the coming fiscal year. The league will start a drive for contributions of $8,000 on May 8. The budget is divided as follows: Relief and service, $19,488; transportation, $4,000, and miscellaneos expenditures, $1,688.

The county commissioners will contribute $1,100 to the budget fund; fund; $1,100 is to be realized from the Junior Social Service League, benefits, donations, refunds and interest on investments, and $1,500 on the Christmas opportunities.

The finance committee is conducting the drive and is headed by W. B. Armstrong, of Cabin John. Other members are: Robert E. Bondy, of Bethesda; J. Dann Faber, Takoma Park; State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, Rockville; Lewis Meriam, Kensington; Horace E. Alexander, Chevy Chase, and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Bethesda.

Contributions will be sought by branch committees appointed to canvass each section of the county. The branch committee chairman and the districts: Mrs. Artemus Griffith, Darnestown; Robert E. Bondy, Bethesda; Mrs. Paul Dunbar, Somerset, Drummond Lane, Friendship, Chevy Chase Gardens and Chevy Chase Terrace; C. H. Godbold, Cabin John, Glen Echo and Potomac; Mrs. Paul Wire, Clarksburg; Mrs. U. D. Nourse, Poolesville; Mrs. Aubrey B. Beall, Sandy Spring; S. Prescott, Rockville; Mrs. Lawson King, Gaithersburg; Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, Damascus; J. Dann Faber, Takoma Park; George W. Davis, Silver Spring and Woodside, and George C. Shinn, Kensington and Wheaton.

Two final decrees of absolute divorce were handed down yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville, desertion being grounds in both suits.

Mrs. Margaret M. Holmes, of Chevy Chase, Md., was awarded an absolute divorce from William P. Holmes, of Frostburg, Md., and custody of the one minor child. They were married February 14, 1925, at National, Md. The wife is represented by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville.

Mrs. Annie G. Norris, of Silver Spring, was awarded an absolute divorce from John Marshall Norris. The wife charged that her husband had deserted her after threatening her life. They were married June 16, 1902, at Frederick, and have eight children, of whom four are minors. The whereabouts of the husband are unknown, the wife alleges. She was represented by the law firm of Peter, Simpson & Oxley, of Rockville.

A total of 648 instruments was filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court at Rockville in April, according to report of Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the court. They were divided as follows: 195 deeds, 120 mortgages and releases, 72 deeds of trust and 261 bills of sale.

Leo Bender was elected president and Charles Deffenbaugh, chief, at the annual election of the Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department. Other officers chosen were: John Feast, vice president; Lawrence L. Swindell, secretary; Clay V. Davis, treasurer; George F. Hamilton, financial secretary; Ernest Fayer, sergeant at arms; William J. Jouvenal, Richard D. Crompton, John T. Crawford, George Hall and Fred N. Oden, directors. Charles Deffenbaugh, Mountz Deffenbaugh, William J. Jouvenal, George F. Hamilton, and Lawrence L. Swindell were selected to represent the department at the State convention.

The annual report of Chief Deffenbaugh showed 171 fire calls in the year, of which 35 were dwellings, 94 brush fires and three rescue calls.

BOWLES ARRESTED IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Disbarred City Attorney Is Accused in Baltimore Fraud Charge.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 6.—Norman S. Bowles, disbarred Washington attorney, was arrested on an indictment charging conspiracy today when he appeared at the door of Circuit Court No. 2 for the purpose of pressing a suit involving the same transactions that led to his indictment.

He was released later on $10,000 bond, a sum fixed by Judge Joseph N. Ulman in the criminal court. Bowles also is at liberty under $2,000 bond pending a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit, in a contempt case that led Judge William C. Coleman, of the United States District Court, to sentence him to 75 days in jail last December.

William T. Lawrence, of Washington, and Vernon D. Acree, who described himself as a stock and real estate salesman, are indicted jointly with Bowles for the alleged conspiracy. Acree is held in default of $10,000 bond and Lawrence is sought by detectives.

The three men are accused of conspiring to defraud Mrs. Jessie Johnson, widow of Greenleaf Johnson, Maryland lumber dealer, of $5,000. Acree, according to John A. Sherman and Albert H. Blum, assistant State's attorneys, obtained two $2,500 promissory notes from Mrs. Johnson in a stock transaction.

Under an agreement, it was said, the notes were not to be discounted until certain losses on depreciated securities had been made good. Bowles, it was explained, obtained the notes and instituted proceedings for collection. Hearing of the suit was scheduled today, but was halted by the arrest of Bowles.

Judge Coleman found Bowles in contempt when the Washingtonian appeared in the district court and represented himself to be an attorney in good standnig although allegedly disbarred at the time.

KENTUCKY SOLDIERS MOVE TO HARLAN DISORDER AREA

this morning that he could not control the situation."

Gov. Sampson said a petition for troops was signed by all Harlan County officers, including Circuit Judge D. C. Jones, the sheriff and Commonwealths' attorney, union labor leaders and about 200 union workers. Labor leaders petitioning for trops, the governor said, included William Turnblazer, Jellico, Tenn., president of the nineteenth district of the United Mine Workers of America.

The governor said he was informed by Mr. Turnblazer that the trouble in Harlan County was not due to the United Mine Workers of America.

Outsiders Held Responsible.

"It has been a fertile field for communists and reds," said Gov. Sampson. "Outsiders from Illinois and other States are responsible for the situation. They have brought in machine guns and high powered rifles. On the other hand, the companies have mine guards who have been deputized as deputy sheriffs or constables. There must be about 200 of them. I am informed they won't let a deputy sheriff stay in Evarts. The Evarts citizens, however, are blameless."

Adjutant General W. H. Jones, jr., said Col. Daniel Carrell, of the 138th Field Artillery, Louisville, would oe in command and that the troops would consist of infantry and cavalry units, medical corps and military police, equipped with an armored tank and machine guns. Gen. Jones said Col. Carrell had instructions to take charge of Evaris and adjacent territory and to "take any necessary steps to completely estabilish law and order." It developed that mobilization of troops actually began last night, some detachments being concentrated near Harlan County.

While troops were en route a special grand jury was empannelled by Circuit Judge Jones at Harlan today and ordered to make a thorough inquiry into the lawlessness W. C. Bolling, a merchant of Loyall, was selected as foreman. Judge Jones told the grand jurors "the only things that will follow conditions like this are grief and sorrow, widows and orphans and bloodshed."

Police Look for Boy Missing in Maryland

Police have been asked to look for Casper Douglas Bickerton, 15 years old, of Colmar Manor, Md., who left his home Tuesday. The boy is reported to have been angry because punished by his father, who is proprietor of a bakery.

Parents of the boy believe he may be on his way to relatives in Virginia. While the boy is not believed to have any money, his mother said last night that he may have taken some change from the till before leaving home.

EUROPEAN ECONOMIC UNION IS PREDICTED

Austrian Minister Is Speaker at District Meeting of Rotary Club.

The recent trade pact between Germany and Austria yesterday was construed as a step toward the economic union of all of Europe, in an address by Minister Edgar L. G. Prochnik, of Austria, before an "international" meeting of the Rotary Club of Washington at the Willard Hotel.

Minister Prochnik expressed regret that the agreement had been "misconstrued by some of our friends."

"The opinion prevails among leading statesmen and economists that economic union of Europe may best be effected through forming regional units first," he said. "This was precisely what Austria did."

He added that "with all the pressure of an unfavorable economic situation, Austria would have hesitated to initiate such a decisive move right now, were she under the impression that her step will not lead her beyond the economic frontiers of the German Reich," and expressed the conviction that "Europe's economic conditions can only be restored to normalcy by an economic union of all European countries."

The speaker discussed the world-wide depression, attributing present economic problems to man's failure to adapt himself to the demands of a new machine age. He said Rotary could aid in providing a solution by contributing to international cooperation.

The meeting was attended by Rotarians from ten different European countries, and from 30 American States.

President Henry N. Brawner, jr., presided. The Austrian Minister was introduced by James Sharp, chairman of the club's committee on international service. Guests, who brought brief messages from Rotary clubs in their respective countries, included:

Senator J. Koster, Holland; Cesar Verona, Turin, Italy; Wiking Johnsson, Dr. Harold Nordenson and Vilhelm G. Lundirk, Stockholm, Sweden; Y. Hoshino, Osaka, Japan; Angelos S. Metaxas and George L. Nicolaides, Athens, Greece; Ridley Warham, Newcastle-on-Tyne, England; Maurice Phillippson, Brussels, Belgium; Dr. Ludwig von Mises, Vienna, Austria; Dr. Bernhard Grund, Breslau; Dr. Johannes Kruger, Dresden, and Dr. Richard Schmidt, Leipzig, Germany, and Dr. Charles de Kress, Budapest, Hungary.

$25,000 Suit Is Filed In Alleged Car Mishap

The Warrington Motor Co., Inc., and Wilson G. Ragsdale, said to be a salesman for the motor concern, were sued for $25,000 damages in District Supreme Court yesterday by Thomas Schooley, of Forest Glen, Md., through his mother, Mrs. Freda Schooley.

The suit alleges that on March 16, 1929, when the boy was 12 years old, he was knocked down and injured by an automobile driven by Ragsdale shortly after he alighted from a bus on the Brookville pike, between Silver Spring and Olney, Md.

CAMPBELL IS CALLED IN LIQUOR RING QUIZ

Man Who Stated Prohibition Unenforceable Will Go to Grand Jury.

Baltimore, Md., May 6 (A.P.).—Maurice Campbell, former prohibition administrator for New York, whose statement after his resignation that prohibition could not be enforced caused a storm of criticism will be one of the witnesses in the Federal grand jury investigation of an alleged Nation-wide alcohol ring in progress here.

The fact that Campbell would be called, though he has not had any part in prohibition affairs since he resigned his New York post a year ago, was learned from a Federal official, despite the fact that the names of witnesses before the grand jury have been carefully guarded. Prohibition directors and agents of several States have been summoned.

Investigation of the ring started two years ago with a raid on three alcohol cracking plants in Baltimore. Subsequent inquiry revealed ramifications from New York and New Jersey to Missouri and Kansas in the West, James M. Hoffa, assistant district attorney in charge, said. He was assisted in his inquiry by John F. Coldiron of the Attorney General's office.

No indictments were expected to be returned before late this month, with some 100 witnesses summoned. Hoffa said 125 indictments would be asked of the grand jury, including persons prominent in business and social life in New York and New Jersey. The case was termed the largest investigation undertaken by the Federal Government since the advent of prohibition.

The PALAIS ROYAL

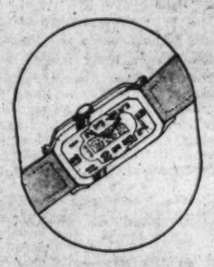
Sunday Is Mother's Day

MOTHERS have grown so used to sacrifice—so used to going without the little luxuries her heart craves—that her children may have everything they desire—that a gift of this kind will give her untold joy on Mother's Day.

Perhaps a lovely piece of jewelry—a string of pearls—a wrist watch—or toilet articles which she has gone without to buy the more practical things—or if she takes great pride in her home—there are the innumerable little tables in various shapes that add so much—or one of the much wanted and very useful coffee tables—perhaps a chair that specially appeals to her that is both comfortable and decorative—with a reading lamp—there are so many things. She may chide you for the expense, but she will love it just the same.

A lovely gift that is sure to delight her is this new Lucretia Vanderbilt Perfume, in floral odors of Gardenia, Sweet Pea, Jasmine and Muguet. The sketch gives only a slight idea of the beautiful blue satin box with silver lining. The price, $3.50.

Or Lubin's Carnation Toilet Water—with the carnations you will give her—in memory of her own particular day. And here you have the advantage of our great May Underprice Sale, for it is a regular $3 package for only $1.69.



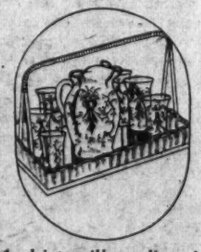
Has she a Wrist Watch? If not, why not present her with this 14-karat white gold Elgin, 15-jewel movement, that keeps such accurate time, and is so lovely to wear? And right now you can take advantage of this sale, for this regularly sells for $65 and is priced now at only $39.95.

If Mother has a group of her very own special books nothing could be nicer than this beautiful little Duncan Phyfe Revolving Book Table, of solid mahogany, with marquetry inlay. It is low and convenient—and with her favorite books beside her will give her many happy hours. The price, $25.

Or this very stunning Louis XV Coffee Table, hand carved, with burl walnut top and pie crust edge. She might hesitate to buy it for herself, but it is a wonderful addition to the home, and be assured she will like it. The price, $35.

And right here I must tell you about this wonderful new Coffee Percolator of the Urn type, in Chromium-Plated finish, with green Catlin handles. Just note the graceful shape, 16 inches tall, and best of all it requires no polish to clean. Its lustre is permanent. It holds nine cups and is guaranteed for one year. Complete with silk cord, and at the astonishing price of $9.98.

And if Mother delights in entertaining at bridge or tea she is most particular about her table. These imported all-over embroidered Argentilla Lace Sets are perfectly beautiful. They may be had in round or oval pieces, and as many as you like. One large center piece and four plate doilies cost $8.95. The center pieces are $3.95 each, and the doilies $1.25 each. They are a rich cream color.



Here's another gift that will give her much pleasure these long hot summer days. Let her serve her friends a cooling drink in one of these smart Beverage Sets in rose, green or amber glass; the pitcher and six glasses at $3.98, and the wicker glass-bottomed tray at $1.39 makes the complete set only $5.37.

A dainty silk negligee is another gift that is sure to please her. There are many styles—the plain black and blue silk ones with the newest Roman Stripes in bright colors, or a gay print that will make the years roll away and Mother will feel like a gay young thing—because Mothers do not grow old any more. You may choose any of these priced from $5.95 to $10.95, or more if you like.

She must have the proper slippers to go with it, of course. These smart Bridge Slippers of moire crepe combined with satin or all-over satin with velvet, and baby French heels are just as attractive as they can be. The price is $5.

And don't forget the bouquet of carnations, and a little note of love accompanying it. That will fill her day with happiness.

POST BRIDGE PRIZES PLACED ON DISPLAY

34 Silver Cups Are Provided for Tournament Winners Shown at Jeweler's.

R. Harris & Co., jewelers, at Eleventh and F streets northwest, will place on display in their show windows today the handsome silver trophies which The Washington Post is offering to the winners in the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, to be held at the new Shoreham Hotel on May 14, 15 and 16.

There are eight of the major prize cups, each with four smaller replicas, making a total of 34 awards. The larger cups will be awarded as follows:

To the pair winning the contract class A pair contest in two sessions.
To the pair winning the contract class B pair contest in two sessions.
To the pair winning the auction class A pair contest in two sessions.
To the pair winning the auction class B pair contest in two sessions.
To the team winning the contract class A team match in two sessions.
To the team winning the contract class B team match in two sessions.
To the team winning the auction class A team match in two sessions.
To the team winning the auction class B team match in two sessions.

The individual players in the several teams of four matches will each receive one of the smaller cups, which are miniatures of the larger trophies. Likewise the individual players constituting the winning pairs in the pair contests, will receive small editions of the major prize. The cups are beautifully engraved with the year of the event, the name of the doner and the description of the match in which they are won. When they are awarded, the winners may return them to the jewelers and have their own names engraved upon them without cost.

These prizes are worthy of the best skill that can be developed at the event, and will be an appropriate memento of the largest bridge tournament ever held in this country. Entrants in the competition and, in fact, all bridge fans are invited to view the exhibit.

Prior to the opening of the tournament the prizes will be removed to the New Shoreham Hotel, where they will be placed on exhibition for further inspection and admiration.

The United States Playing Card Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, has shipped to Washington 300 decks of bridge cards, which it is donating to the tournament. They are regulation bridge decks that are used by players the world over.

The complete list of entrants will be published in The Washington Post of Sunday, May 12. Watch for it.

Presiding Elder to Pay Confederates Tribute

Danville, Va., May 6.—The Rev. Dr. E. L. Bain, presiding elder of the Danville district of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, has accepted an invitation to make the address at the annual Confederate memorial exercises to be held here this month.

The Ladies Memorial Association, which for years has sponsored this annual tribute to the soldiers of the Confederacy, has not yet designated the exact date for this year's services.

Lam to Be Tried Today In Virginia Murder Case

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 6.—Charles Rufus Lam, 25, two-time deserter from the U. S. Coast Artillery at Fort Monroe, goes on trial for his life in Rockingham circuit court tomorrow, facing the charge of shooting to death his friend and neighbor, Robert Davis, 59, father of nine children. Furnace, an old iron ore mining settlement in the foothills of the Blue Ridge in northeast Rockingham, was the scene of the tragedy on the night of April 9.

Lam surrendered after the shooting and told officers he killed Davis to protect the honor of a 15-year-old sister. Lam visited the Davis home, he said, found Davis in the yard and shot when Davis made a move as if to reach into his pocket for a gun.

Retired Business Man, Henry Tabley, Is Dead

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., May 6.—Henry Tabley, 84 years old, father-in-law of State Senator Cecil Connor, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tunis H. Plaster, in this city. He retired from business ten years ago. Mr. Tabley's death came after a short illness.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Plaster, Mrs. Connor and Mrs. W. C. Whitmore, of Leesburg, and Mrs. Eugene Titus, of Maryland, and one son, Henry J. Tabley. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Plaster, with burial in Union Cemetery here.

Izaak Waltons Plant 3,000 Red Pine Trees

Frederick, Md., May 6 (A.P.).—Approximately 3,000 red pine trees, all seedlings from 5 to 8 inches in diameter, were planted in the Catoctin watershed near Hamburg at the fifth annual "tree planting" of the Izaak Walton League, aided by nearly two score Boy Scouts. The seedlings were obtained from the State forest nursery at College Park.

The planting brought the total number of trees, which have been planted by the Izaak Waltons in the past five years to more than 15,000. A large number of these perished during the long drought of last year and 1,500 of those just planted were replacements.

30 Will Be Graduated At Virginia U. Hospital

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 6.—Dr. Kenneth F. Maxey, professor of public health at the university, will address graduates at commencement exercises of the University of Virginia Hospital School tomorrow.

There are 27 regular members of the graduating class, and three who have affiliated for one year of special work from the Blue Ridge Sanatorium, the State's newest tubercular institution, located near Monticello. The graduates have undergone three years' study and training in the school, which is directly connected with the University Hospital.

Norfolk Wholesalers Report Trade Figures

Norfolk, Va., May 6 (A.P.).—The volume of business done by the 194 wholesalers proper located in the city of Norfolk during 1929 amounted to $74,127,757, according to a preliminary tabulation of the data collected in the census of distribution taken in 1930, released here today by the Bureau of Census, United States Department of Commerce.

These wholesalers employed 2,216 men and women, paid them $3,836,414 in salaries and wages, and carried stocks at the end of the year whose cost value amounted to $4,666,680. The 1930 population of Norfolk, according to the census was 129,710.

Bust Will Honor "Sea Pathfinder"

Maury Memorial Will Be Unveiled in New York Next Thursday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 6.—Dr. John W. Wayland, head of the department of history and social science of the Harrisonburg State Teachers College, is in receipt of an invitation from New York University to attend the unveiling of busts of Matthew Fontaine Maury, James Abbott, McNeill Whistler, James Monroe and Walt Whitman at the Colonnade of the Hall of Fame at University Heights May 14.

Dr. Wayland's latest publication, "The Pathfinder of the Seas," dramatizes the personality and achievements of Matthew Fontaine Maury, a Virginian.

The bust of Maury, donated by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be presented by Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, president. Prof. S. A. Mitchell, director of the Leander McCormick Observatory, University of Virginia; Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Rear Admiral Walter R. Gherardi will offer tributes to Maury.

B. & O. Reduces Shop Forces.

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 6 (Special).—Eighty-four maintenance-of-way employes at the local shops of the Baltimore & Ohio will be furloughed indefinitely on Monday, according to notices posted today. The action will reduce the number of workers at the shops here to about 80, most of whom are classed as motive power employes.

Harris Is Elected By World Kiwanis

Miami Meeting Approves Amendments to By-Laws and Constitution.

Miami, Fla., May 6 (A.P.).—Delegates to the fifteenth annual convention of the Kiwanis International today elected William O. Harris, of Los Angeles, president and approved seven of eight proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the organization. Mr. Harris succeeds Raymond Crossman, of Omaha.

Other officers chosen are Andrew Gaul, Hamilton, Ontario, vice president for Canada; Harper Gatton, Madisonville, Ky., reelected vice president for the United States; and Walter R. Weiser, Daytona Beach, Fla., reelected treasurer. The international secretary is appointed by the international trustees with the incumbent, Fred C. W. Parker, of Chicago, under contract for another year. Nine international trustees were nominated, with six of the nine to be chosen tomorrow for a two-year term on the board.

Nominated today were Carl E. Endicott, Huntington, Ind.; Herbert A. Moore, Dubois, Pa.; Edmond C. Van Diest, Colorado Springs, Colo.; David H. Edington, Mobile, Ala.; H. S. Hatfield, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Russell S. Perkinson, Petersburg, Va.; James M. Lynch, Florence, S. C.; Frank C. Huntington, Oneonta, N. Y., and H. B. Aven, Bingham Canyon, Utah.

Now is the time to install JANITROL

$20 now and not another cent 'til next September will give you Automatic Gas Heat

The new low rate for house heating (working out around 75 cents) has put Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of the average man.

AS OUR good fren' Maurice Chevalier would say . . . "R-r-right NOW" . . . is the time to install a Janitrol Gas Conversion burner in your present heating plant.

You are probably sick and tired of hearing about your furnace, with its dust, dirt, ashes and unsightly ash cans. You no doubt want to look forward to summer—a season free from furnace cares—and don't ever want to see another coal shovel.

But wouldn't you rather think of this unpleasant problem now and correct it, than put up with it another winter? It's really a simple problem to solve.

A telephone call to NAtional 8280 will bring a reliable estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas, the modern fuel. Janitrol can be installed inexpensively in your present heating plant in a single day—the day you pick to clean up your cellar. It will then be ready for the heating season next fall—free from dirt now and for evermore.

Twenty dollars down and not another cent 'til next September will put a Janitrol in your present heating plant. The total cost of installation is only $200. There is no extra charge for financing.

NOW is the time to install Janitrol. Call NAtional 8280.

A RED SPOKESMAN.

Col. Hugh L. Cooper's suggestion that the great commercial nations hold a conference with Soviet Russia with a view to promoting trade with that country was received with the coolness that it deserves. He would have the world believe that the Soviet dictatorship is only an awkward, overgrown boy who is out of funds and needs help to get a start in life, but who has remarkable possibilities when he grows up. Why shouldn't the nations of the world get together and give him a lift?

Col. Cooper is well qualified to speak for the Communist regime, since he has directed some of the largest engineering projects in Russia and stands at the head of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce. Perhaps he was sent back to America for the specific purpose of appealing to the hated capitalistic interests. At any rate, he has "abundant proof" that a conference to agree upon a basis of trade with Russia would be welcomed by the Moscow clique. He might have gone further. Unquestionably a chance to sell slave-made goods to the world on the terms that are accorded free nations would make the Communist leaders wild with joy.

In spite of the efforts of Col. Cooper to camouflage the real purpose of his suggestion, it is quite apparent to any one who knows the difficulties under which Stalin's dictatorship is laboring. The Soviet needs money. It has used up virtually all the credit it can secure in other countries. The dumping program has raised some capital, but the needs of the reds are urgent, and the nations are beginning to raise embargoes against Soviet products. In desperation the Soviet turns to the capitalistic nations that it has sworn to destroy, and suggests that a trade agreement be negotiated.

It is hinted that the Muscovites might quit their program of dumping commodities on the world market at undercompetitive prices if other nations would allow the Soviet additional credit. Col. Cooper uses this argument to conjure up visions of a $3,000,000,000 trade with Russia. He ignores the possibility that the red dictators would resume their dumping program as soon as they had received the desired credit. That would be a master stroke for the Soviet Union, since any kind of blow, whether fair or foul, is justified by the Communist regime when that blow is aimed against capitalism.

The fundamental reason why the nations are erecting embargoes against Russian goods is ignored by Col. Cooper. Countries that have attained a respectable standard of living will not subject their people to competition with slave and convict labor. If the prospects for trade with the Soviet were three times as fabulous as Col. Cooper's imagination pictures them to be, the menace to free labor would be three times as great. "State capitalism," as the colonel calls it, has reduced the Russian people to the status of mere cogs in a ruthless economic machine. Inasmuch as trade can not be carried on with the Soviet Union without forcing the workingmen of America into competition with that class of labor, it could result only in degrading the American standard of living.

It is not surprising that one who thinks the people of this country and Europe so devoid of common sense should find it necessary to circulate in pamphlet form the speech he had planned to deliver before the International Chamber of Commerce.

DOESN'T LIKE HIGH WAGES.

When European industrialists come to this country and attempt to measure economic conditions by their own standards they succeed only in making themselves ridiculous. The lecture of Aloyse Meyer, president of the European steel cartel, on the reduction of wages, takes on the aspect of a rural grocer telling the manager of a metropolitan department store how to run his business. So far as wages are concerned, it is quite apparent that Mr. Meyer is still floundering about in a welter of nineteenth century theory.

The limit of high wages has been exceeded in the United States, according to this European manufacturer, and he thinks this explains the efforts of American industrialists to increase tariff rates! Evidently this is merely his way of saying that European industrialists would like to have the tariff lowered so that they could flood the American market with goods made by pauper labor. High wages in America have brought about an efficiency with which Europe can not compete. They have given the United States a purchasing power that is the envy of the world. If the United States would only go back to nineteenth century standards the contrast would not be so annoying to European industrialists, who do not pay their workingmen enough to live on decently.

Mr. Meyer's brilliant discovery that high wages in America were one of the causes of the depression is so fantastic that it must have brought smiles from a considerable portion of his audience. Analysis of economic trends prior to the depression leads to the inescapable conclusion that the failure of wages to increase as rapidly as production was one fundamental cause of overproduction and the consequent maladjustment. But Mr. Meyer apparently has never troubled his head about the necessity of maintaining purchasing power as well as producing capacity.

It is discouraging indeed to realize that European industrialists are depending upon the obsolete practice of grinding labor into the dirt to pull them out of the depression. Retrogression toward a lower standard of living will be inevitable if they persist in this mistaken policy.

This narrow, selfish point of view stands out in sharp contrast to the words of wisdom that came from Secretary Mellon in his address to foreign bankers. "Purchasing power, insofar as America is concerned," he said, "is dependent to a great extent on the standard of living which obtains in this country. That standard of living must be maintained at all costs."

European industrialists can not cure their own ills by trying to convince the United States that wages are too high. Let them try the experiment of paying better wages and stimulating the workers to greater efficiency and productiveness.

AMERICAN PHILANTHROPY.

The redistribution of privately acquired wealth through benefactions for the public good is peculiarly American. At least nowhere in the world is private philanthropy practiced with anything like the generosity that it is in this country. Gifts of all kinds during the year 1928 reached a total of $2,230,000,000, according to a survey recently completed by the New York Trust Co. In 1929 they exceeded $2,500,000,000. Many public benefits established by individuals take the form of permanent foundations. There are now nearly 200 such institutions in this country, such as the Harkness Commonwealth Fund, the Carnegie Foundations and the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research.

Gifts and bequests for education amount to upward of $150,000,000 a year and the Y. M. C. A. receives an average of about $10,000,000 annually for the extension of its permanent equipment.

Count J. H. von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, once spoke of this American trait as follows:

> To the European the finest thing in this country, next to the spirit of self-reliance that so strongly prevails, is the marvelous generosity and benevolence of those who have amassed riches through the open opportunity that exists here for all who have industry and ability.
> One finds this expressed in gigantic gifts to hospitals, to libraries, to schools and universities, to private scientific research and to charity. With no compulsion at all, your rich men seem to feel an obligation to give back to the common good some of their accumulation, and the results are magnificent. In times of disaster or catastrophe your people pour out their money in seeming prodigal fashion to relieve the suffering. It is an inspiring spectacle. A people animated by these impulses, the result of the spirit of individualism that is the dominant note of your life, truly is a noble people.
> Now, there is none of that in Germany. We never think of digging down in our own pockets to relieve distress, to promote public welfare, &c. I wonder if the burden of taxation which you are beginning to take on will not crush out of you, as it has crushed out of others, that which Europeans like myself regard as the finest result of the civilization you have erected here.

American generosity is not a matter of either riches or taxes. Local taxes have increased enormously since the war and so have benefactions. Charitable gifts are not limited to the wealthy by any means. Nation-wide organizations enroll all classes in their membership. The Red Cross has about 11,000,000 members and it is growing at the rate of half a million more every year.

In most other countries gifts and bequests are confined strictly to relatives and small charities are limited to the poor at the door and religious offerings with a view largely to the welfare of the donor's soul. The spirit of broad public benevolence must be, in reality, an American creation.

UGLY TOWNS.

Some poignant criticisms of American life and manners have been made by Gilbert K. Chesterton, but none of them was ever truer or more deserved than his recent comments on the lack of beauty, nay the downright ugliness, of some American towns and villages. During his last visit he traveled through many parts of rural America and was distressed by the ugliness he found.

A row of red brick villas in an English town, Chesterton says, may be "as hideous as human half-wittedness could invent or endure, but they are different. They are complete, they are rounded and finished with an effect that may be smug, but it is not raw." On the other hand, he finds American ugliness not complete even as ugliness. "It is broken off short; it is ragged at the edges; even its worthy objects have around them a sort of halo of refuse."

This indictment does not apply to all American villages, but it certainly does conjure up visions of many a slovenly town with ill-kept yards and streets, broken walks and rank weeds. Heterogeneous architecture and unsightly billboards disfigure main streets. In view of the fact that many towns flourish on tourists' trade it is surprising that the average ragged town does so little to make its appearance pleasing.

Civic pride can be developed in the smallest towns, and its effect upon the spirit and character of such communities is surprisingly favorable. Among neglected places in most towns and nearly all rural districts are the public school yards. They can cultivate flowers and shrubs without undue encroachment upon playgrounds. The children themselves may profitably be interested in beautifying school grounds.

It is surprising that more attention is not given to railway yards and stations. The railway entrances to towns and cities are notoriously their most uninviting sections. Expenditure of limited amounts on improvement of such areas would make towns immeasurably more attractive. Unfavorable first impressions are often hard to overcome. Towns and villages have much to gain from beautification of their communities.

"King battles for better schools in District of Columbia." We thought that was mighty generous in the King of Siam, but it appears that it is King of Utah who is coming to the rescue.

Those who are worrying about the stock market ought to remember that the harder it falls the higher it will bounce.

Cal. Coolidge turns thumbs down on the suggestion that he be chosen Speaker of the House. No Speaker can draw $3 per word.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 6.—Without considering at all the financial or moral obligation of foreign governments to pay their debts to our Government or the obligation of our Government to collect them, it is interesting to see what is involved in the argument that the debts should be cancelled to increase trade. Fundamentally this means the most enormous subsidy to foreign commerce that was ever proposed. This has a strange sound in the vocabulary of those who advocate that trade should be free and unrestricted. We would be involved in subsidizing the trade of foreign people out of money collected from our own people.

If this policy is to be adopted, if our taxpayers are to begin paying the taxes of foreign people supposedly in order to increase their power to trade with us, there is no reason to limit the process to those who happen to owe our Government. The principle would require a broader application. It would be logical to select all countries where an argument could be made that if our Treasury would bear a part of their tax burden they might enlarge their commerce with us. If we adopted this principle logically we should open our Treasury to all the world.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Another indication of the tendency of no small fraction of the astronomers to return from mental excursions to the most distant reaches of space and to study the heavenly body closest to our own dooryard is a recent investigation by Mr. T. L. MacDonald, of the British Astronomical Association, reducing the man in the moon to statistics. The markings which sketch these "men," "women" and other objects which all races have imagined to be pictured on the full moon's face consist, of course, of the flat plains, mountain ranges and gigantic craters which even 10 cents' worth of vision through a small street telescope will show to the inquirer. Early astronomers called the flat plains "seas," not without benefit to vividness of lunar nomenclature, for it is to this period of moon study that we owe such names as the Sea of Tranquillity or that of Serenity. These names, indeed, are better than their makers knew, for the dry moon's "seas" have all the tranquillity and serenity of death.

Neither seas nor storms disturb the moon. Its surface, recent physical analyses of moonlight have shown, is composed largely of material like pumice, probably a finely powdered volcanic ash. A gentle breeze would hide miles of moon surface under a dust cloud. Even a good-sized street sweeping machine probably would raise a smudge easily visible on earth. The obstacle is that there is no wind to make the breeze nor any air to hold in suspension dust that a sweeper or a volcanic explosion might lift. Yet this, like most of our knowledge of the moon, is merely negative information. We know a lot that the moon is not, but little about what it is.

This is the aim of Mr. MacDonald's study. The diameters of the enormous ring mountains scattered by scores over the moon's surface and which often are called craters may be measured in a telescope. Their heights may be measured also by observing how far their shadows stretch along the ground at lunar sunrise or sunset. This Mr. MacDonald has done, with resulting statistics of the average shapes of the ring mountains for comparison with the height and width ratios probable for volcanoes. On the whole, Mr. MacDonald's statistics seem to support the crater theory of the moon mountains rather than alternative theories that these rock rings were made by impact of large meteorites or in other ways. The chief interest of the study, however, is not any firm conclusion which it has reached, but its indication that the amusing resources of the moon for scientific amateurs are by no means exhausted. By such efforts we may learn for certain some day whether the features of the man in the moon were graven by missiles from space or drawn by pencils of volcanic fire.

Bull markets have a hard time getting a good start. Speculators are not too proud to take small profits these days.

They can drive automobiles 40 miles an hour now in New York. Yes, of course, they always did, but the law has just caught up with the speedometers.

It was an irate man who got wet on a "fair-and-warmer" day picnic who writes in that "the only thing the weather man makes about the weather is mistakes."

"George F. Baker's death did not affect the stock market." So, unless you are the head of more than one New York First National Bank and 40 other big corporations, and have more than 91 years to devote to it, don't try to make a dent in Wall street by dying.

The success of O'Neill's before-and-after dinner "Strange Interlude" is responsible for his new "Mourning Becomes Electra," which will require three days. Tickets probably will be sold to include board and lodging.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CURIOUS EFFECT OF GOLF.

He shot one round in seventy-three,
But that was twenty years ago,
And never since that day has he
Contrived to get a score so low.
The fatal sevens still spoil his card,
The sixes come with frequency,
And all his golfing joy is marred
Forever by that seventy-three.

Though many a hundred score he makes,
And oft his best is eight-eight,
In rage and pain his head he shakes
Because his shots aren't always straight.
Though twenty years have come and gone
Since that one day from trouble free,
He calmly says to every one:
"I ought to shoot in seventy-three!"

Despite the countless games he' lost,
And all the faulty strokes he's played,
He still remembers, to his cost,
That once a perfect score he made.
The blundering rounds are swept aside,
The best is all he cares to claim.
For twenty years the man has cried:
'Somehow I'm sadly off my game."

He would not let the worst he's done
Remain to prove his lack of skill.
"Some bad days come to every one,"
He proudly says and always will.
But once good fortune came his way
And since upon the starting tee
For twenty years we've heard him say:
"I ought to shoot a seventy-three."

Would the Moon Seem Brighter if You Paid for It and Called It Yours?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE philosophy of America is materialistic.

In other words, the thing a typical American desires most is material.

He wishes to get rich, to buy all the things advertised in the magazines, to ride in a car 20 feet long, to live in a great house and dress like an Englishman with ancestors.

There are two kinds of philosophy—the materialistic, which Americans have chosen, and another which, for want of a better name, must be called spiritualistic.

Intentionally, or by a subtle process of absorption, you will adopt one or the other. Everybody does.

If you leave the choice to environment and chance, you will of course adopt the philosophy accepted and practiced by the majority of your fellow Americans.

In that case you may miss your chance of happiness, for the materialistic philosophy can be a curse as well as a blessing.

It has made America a rich and powerful Nation, and therefore deserves some measure of praise, but it has one fatal defect.

The successful practice of it requires material. A materialist without material is forlorn and wretched. And his quest for happiness never is quite successful, for his philosophy is without a fixed goal and the more material he acquires the more his desires expand.

If you become a materialist and yet fail to acquire the 40 acres or the corner lot or the collection of nuisances that seems important to you, a covetous and resentful spirit will make your life bitter and you will consider yourself a failure.

The spiritual philosophy, on the other hand, requires nothing that is beyond your reach.

You may acquire land and buildings and bonds, for these things are worth while if used as a means to an end instead of an end in themselves, but your happiness will not depend on such things.

You will realize that a rose garden can be enjoyed by a passer-by as well as it is enjoyed by the man who must prune and cultivate it; that the owner of a property, like the renter, has only a lifetime interest in it; that the ability to buy a great painting confers less right of ownership than the ability to enjoy it.

The spiritual philosopher travels lightly and enjoys the scenery and the sunsets; the materialist spends his time worrying about the baggage.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Minneapolis Journal.

When the present tariff act was on its final passage two years ago, the arguments advanced against it by Democrats, by insurgent Republicans and by amateur economists supporting the Senate coalition's position, were three in number. The act was going to raise outrageously the prices paid by the American farmer for manufactured commodities. It was not going to protect his own domestic market, except on paper. And its interference with international trade was going to be fatal to business.

The tariff act's increased rates on manufactured commodities have not raised the farmer's living costs. Virtually all the commodities that it was confidently predicted would go up in price—have gone down in price.

Nor have the fears on which the second argument against the act was based been realized. To say that present tariff rates are not genuinely protecting those branches of agriculture that keep their production down to domestic needs, and hence on a protectable basis, is to say something that is not true. Early in April, before a domestic milk glut brought the present butter slump, butter of 92 grade was bringing 38 cents in New York, when Danish and Amsterdam butter of the same grade was selling for 28 cents and less in London. Flax sells for $1.56 in Minneapolis, when it is only 95 cents in Buenos Aires; corn for 60 cents in Chicago, when it brings only 34 cents in Buenos Aires.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Neks Suggests That Promotions in the Government Service Be Regulated More in Accordance With Service Rendered.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It makes a difference whose ox is gored.

Secretary Wilbur and other members of the Cabinet have decided that there should be no salary promotions for their employes during the coming year. They think that the employes are generally well paid and that the reduction in the cost of living is a virtual promotion.

The Federal Employes Union deplores this decision on the ground that anything that interferes with promotions is iniquitous.

It is true that most Government employes are paid generously, have comparatively short hours, and do have a decided advantage just now in the decreased cost of living. Most of the clerical and stenographic force receive better salaries than those paid by commercial establishments. The administrative officers, too, are well paid. Why can not the Federal Employes Union recognize this fact instead of demanding general promotions?

Many of those employed in the investigative and scientific work are decidedly underpaid. Why can not administrative officers recognize this fact instead of advocating a blanket suppression of promotions? Why should not an administrative officer make it his business to see that just promotions and demotions are made? Of course it is easier to make a general rule and thus avoid personal criticism, but are not administrative officers paid for attending to details of administration?

C. NEKS.

Minister Suggests That Publication of Names of Bootlegger's Customers Would Do Harm and Not Help Anybody.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hear that the "Man in the Green Hat" is threatening to make public his list of customers in the Senate and House, in revenge for being sent to jail. It is not a crime to buy liquor, and so it would be cruelly unjust to senators and representatives who have patronized the Green Hat bootlegger to expose their names. They have not broken the law. The publication of their names would hold them up to public criticism and might ruin them at home, but what good would it do? So long as the sale of liquor is stopped by the incarceration of the Capitol bootlegger the ends of justice are served. Let us not be fanatical.

REV. J. K. L.

Nurse Wants to Know What Expert Employed on Hospital Job Receives $50 Per Day.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Several times recently I have seen in The Post news items to the effect that an expert has been engaged by officials in charge of the erection of the new Children's Tuberculosis Hospital for the trifling sum of $50 per day and expenses. The Post did not inform its readers as to how many hours was to constitute a day's work, and what was to be the pay for overtime. That is the trouble with newspapers in handling news of such importance—they do not give enough details.

Now, having spent nearly twenty years of my life in and around hospitals and having done almost everything that one can do around a hospital, except perform a major operation, and I have assisted in them, I would like for you to inform me through the columns of The Post just what a man would do about the erection of a hospital that is worth $50 per day and expenses; don't forget the expenses. Fifty dollars a day is $1,500 a month, $18,000 per year, enough to build a ward on a hospital. No wonder hospital service comes high.

Why it is impossible to find such an individual in Washington, the heaven of heavens of experts, the place that is famed the world over for men who know it all, who write the books and bulletins that other experts study, who can give advice on any and all subjects, from bathing the baby to building the Panama Canal. Has it come to the point that there isn't an expert in Washington who can build a hospital without having to hire a New York expert at $50 per day and expenses? In view of such a distressing state of affairs, I will offer to do it myself for half that and furnish my own liquor.

A NURSE.

Junior High School Class Could Honor Lincoln by Digging Dandelions From Memorial Grounds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If one will carefully dissect a dandelion blossom and examine it and a seed ball, under a microscope, he will be well repaid, for its beauty is all its own. The whole plan of its development is changing from bud to the ripened seed, floated away on its own carrier to where it may land, to continue the propagation of its kind. While a single plant is beautiful and is worthy of study and admiration, when reproduction has succeeded year by year, without interruption, the dandelion becomes a nuisance. At this moment these words are verified on the lawn about the Lincoln Memorial, and the nearby lea. It has so devastated the lovely green as to monopolize the space, in spots. The dandelion always prevents the growth of grass in so large a measure that when it has been destroyed the lawn actually has a leprous appearance. It is easily reclaimed, however, by prompt seeding and showers. If one of our junior high schools could send down a volunteer committee of a hundred or so of the students, each armed with a kitchen knife, these plants could be cut half an inch below the surface, and the whole lawn cleaned in an afternoon. Application to the Department of Parks for permission to do this would be granted readily, and the principal or teacher who would offer this service would make a patriotic contribution to the beauty of the city and the boys and girls who do it will feel that they are honoring the memory of one of God's noblemen.

WINNERS

At the Horse Show—May 13th to 16th

Winners are winners because they are better horses—or better riders—or better fashions. You would not expect a plow-horse or a novice at equitation to win . . . nor a smart woman to wear any thing less than the winning fashions. And—that brings us to Woodward & Lothrop, where only winners in fashion are found, fashions that will be worn by the smartest women attending The Horse Show.

AD WRITING CONTEST BEGINS FIFTH PERIOD

Amateurs Given Variety of Ideas in Competition for $1,000 Prize.

The fifth period of the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest is now under way. Are you trying to win that $1,000 prize? The time is fast approaching when we all will be waiting for the announcement of the prize winner. It may just as well be you! All you need to do is write ads and keep on writing ads. The more you write the more chance you have to win. Be sure and write about each of the 35 concerns. We list a few of the most important things about some of these concerns daily. They may help you. Read them.

Power Is Fertile Field.

In writing ads about the Potomac Electric Co. do not write about appliances, write about power. Tell about the reductions this concern has given the people of Washington for seven consecutive years. The rate is 58 per cent lower now than in 1924. Because of the low rate here, Washingtonians have a greater opportunity to use more electric appliances to lighten household duties and have more modernly equipped homes.

Refrigerator Has 24 Points.

In writing about the Westinghouse refrigerator, for which Edgar Morris Sales is the agency, list one or all of the 24 reasons why this refrigerator is superior in both appearance and performance to others on the market. Explain the convenience of a Westinghouse. Mention that a small down payment places one in the home. Remind the public that a two year warranty stands back of every Westinghouse refrigerator. Edgar Morris Sales will be glad to give you additional pointers for your ads.

Neat Appearance at Small Cost.

Every one knows the value of good personal appearance. In your ads about Starlight Dry Cleaners & Dyers, Inc., stress the fact that their expert cleaners and dyers make it possible for you always to present a neat appearance at small cost. Their prices are right and fit every one's purse. Let them serve you.

At a luncheon held yesterday at the Carlton Hotel for firms participating in the contest, the guests were served with National Pale Dry Ginger Ale.

The millions of bottles sold of National Pale Dry Ginger Ale tell their own story. This delicious thirst-quenching beverage also is a health builder for old and young. Your dealer sells it. Be sure and drink a bottle before writing your ads about this famous beverage.

ADVERTISING URGED AS AID TO BUSINESS

Rizik Brothers—$1,000 additional to the winner of the grand award of $1,000 if the prize winning ad is written about their concern.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IF YOU happen to see a couple of small, round, grey-green objects rolling about anywhere, they will probably be my eyes, which popped right out of my head yesterday afternoon during a friendly visit to my office of Malini, the world's greatest prestidigitator, card manipulator and sleight-of-hand artist. There ought to be a law about this fellow.

Malini, in case you have never encountered him upon any of his Washington visits, during which he usually makes the National Press Club his headquarters, is the only magician of whom I am aware who performs his miracles without the aid of lighting effects, stage equipment or paraphernalia of any kind. Digital dexterity is his only "prop." The most baffling and exciting feats of legerdemain he will execute right under your very nose, as he did under mine yesterday. I don't know yet how the coin got into his mouth, or where it went to when he made is disappear entirely—and I could have knocked it out of his hand, I was that close to him!

If you have never seen this wizard—and he seldom plays in a theater, presidents, potentates and the private guests of multimillionaires being his habitual audiences—you must. One of those rare opportunities that come so seldom will be afforded Washingtonians on Saturday night of this week, May 9, when Malini will give one public performance in the auditorium of the National Press Club at 8:30 p. m.

Malini has been around the world eight times and has appeared before practically all of the crowned heads and world figures resident on the globe during the past 30 years. He is in a class absolutely by himself in his chosen field, and if you miss him Saturday night, don't say I didn't tell you!

The Fox Theater's music jubilee, one of the most ambitious and most successful of the observances of National Music Week, reaches its final series of programs today, when three more Washington groups will make their appearance.

At 3:45 this afternoon the Wilnor Glee Club, of the Wilson Teachers College, will be heard in a brief program. At 6:45 the Christiani Orchestra will be heard and at 9 o'clock the National City Christian Church choir.

Yesterday's contestants included the Business High School Orchestra, the Western High School Orchestra and the American University Glee Club, under the direction of Harlan Randall.

Announcement of the cup awards to the best instrumental and senior and junior choral groups will probably be made on Sunday, with the actual bestowal of the trophies at the theater Monday night.

Altogether, some twenty musical organizations will have been heard at the Fox during the week, only two or three of them stipulating that they were not in competition for the cups.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, noted birth control advocate, who will lecture in the Washington Auditorium next Tuesday night, at least has the courage of her convictions.

Following her local appearance Tuesday, Mrs. Sanger will proceed to Atlanta, Ga., where on Thursday she will meet the Honorable Richard B. Russell, State Supreme Court Justice, in public debate. Judge Russell is the father of eighteen children.

This debate is the first of its kind ever staged in America and the arguments Mrs. Sanger will advance against Judge Russell will be publicly heard for the first time when she appears here Tuesday.

When it is announced that Columbia Pictures' production of "Dirigible" is to be presented at the Metropolitan Theater as a road show attraction, it means that only two performances a day will be given—at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m.

And when the Warner Bros.' executives declare that "The Public Enemy," next attraction at the Earle, is the grimmest and most completely realistic of all the gangster pictures, they are willing to back it up by giving an extra performance—as will be done at the Earle Friday night at a special public preview presentation, beginning at 11 o'clock.

Next week's complete roster, by the way, will be as follows: Earle, James Cagney and Jean Harlow in "The Public Enemy" and vaudeville bill; Palace, Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan in "Shipmates," Montgomery's first starring vehicle, and Loew's Vaudeville Revue; Fox, Tallulah Bankhead and Clive Brook in "Tarnished Lady," and Fanchon & Marco's "Moonlight Revels, RKO-Keith's, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "Gun Smoke;" Rialto, May Robson, Lawrence Gray and James Hall in "Mother's Millions;" Metropolitan, Frank Fay in "God's Gift to Women;" Columbia, Harry Carey and Edwina Booth in "Trader Horn," second week.

One disgruntled correspondent wants to know why, if I really am so anxious to know what "Born to Love" was called as a silent picture, I don't dig around and look it up for myself.

I thought of that, but I've been too busy with my May-pole dancing!

Rules for the Contest

1. The contest can be entered at any time before midnight of Wednesday, May 27, by sending an ad to Post-Zain Amateur Ad Editor, The Washington Post, Washington, D. C.
2. It is open to everyone except professional advertising men or women or the employes of any newspaper.
3. The Post will award $1,000.00 in cash for the best ad submitted during the entire contest, to be eligible for this award. Entrant must have written at least one ad on each concern listed.
4. Write about one or all of the concerns. Submit as many ads as you can. Lots of weekly prizes every week.
5. Each ad submitted must be on a separate piece of paper. Write your name and address also telephone number plainly on the back.
6. Contestants are under no obligations and do not have to be subscribers to The Post to compete.
7. The names of judges will be announced this week. Their decisions are final.
8. All ads are the property of the concern about whom they are written and may be used by them as they see fit.
9. Remember contest closes May 27, 1931.

Wife Charges Cruelty In Filing Divorce Suit

Alleging that her husband, Harold E. McCarthy had treated her with extreme cruelty and that "he was hopelessly addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquor," Mrs. Margaret McCarthy yesterday filed suit for divorce.

Mrs. McCarthy said that they were married in Baltimore in 1917, and that twin boys, John and Talbert, now 13 years old, had been born to them. She asserted she had been compelled to leave her husband in 1927.

G. W. U. Glee Club Will Give Concert

Singers Will Present Full Program Tomorrow at Mayflower Hotel.

The George Washington University Glee Club will appear tomorrow night at 8:45 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel in the first full program presented under its own auspices this year.

The concert will be directed by Dr. Robert Howe Harmon, with Grace Ruble Harmon as accompanist. The repertoire includes choral music of the world's great composers. The club last year won recognition as national intercollegiate champions, and this year placed high in the national competition.

The concert will open with two devotionals, "Prayer of Thanksgiving," and "Lo! How a Rose E'er Blooming." Barytone solos by Henry Nestor make up the second group. Jesse Stimson, student conductor, will take the baton for the third group, featuring numbers used in this year's competition. The Women's Glee Club will present the fourth group on the program, led by Margaret Gilligan. The final group will be given by the combined men's and women's clubs.

Secretary Hurley Reaches Tulsa.

Tulsa, Okla., May 6 (A.P.).—Secretary of War Hurley arrived here by airplane today from Fort Smith, Ark. A Fort Smith pilot flew the Cabinet member here. The Secretary's plane, forced down at Russellville, Ark., a few days ago, was expected here later today to carry him back to Washington.

2 Night Mail Pilots Killed in Fog Crash

Bodies Found in Wreckage on Side of Mountain in California.

Burbank, Calif., May 6 (A.P.).—Lost in a heavy fog, Art Starbuck and Charles R. Parmalee, night air mail pilots, crashed into a mountain side and were killed early today. Their bodies were found in the wreckage of their Pacific Air Transport Co. mail plane 8 miles north of here.

Company officials said they were in touch with the plane by radio about midnight shortly before it crashed. Because of the dense fog, scouting planes could not lead the lost ship to its base. Shortly after dawn the fog lifted somewhat. Two planes took off and soon found the wrecked plane.

Officials of the transport company said Parmalee was flying with Starbuck to learn the route and that Starbuck had been ordered not to try to land at Burbank because of the fog. The plane was flying to Los Angeles from San Diego.

District Boy on College Board.

Frank J. Luchs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton J. HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sarnecky

Pandora's Box

PANDORA, A BEAUTIFUL GIRL, FASHIONED BY THE GODS, WAS SENT TO EARTH BEARING A BOX WHICH SHE WAS FORBIDDEN TO OPEN, AS A DOWRY. IN A MOMENT OF CURIOSITY, SHE OPENED THE BOX AND PERMITTED ALL THE ILLS THAT HAVE SINCE BESET MANKIND TO ESCAPE. THAT, SO THE GREEK MYTH SAID, IS RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL OUR TROUBLES.

Georgia Crackers

YEARS AGO, PEOPLE IN GEORGIA AND FLORIDA ATTACHED A DRY, SOFT PIECE OF BUCKSKIN TO THEIR WHIP-LASHES. BY SNAPPING THESE WHIPS, THEY COULD MAKE A SOUND LIKE A PISTOL SHOT. THE WHIPS AND THE PEOPLE WHO USED THEM BECAME KNOWN AS "CRACKERS"—AND THE NAME STUCK.

To Make The Fur Fly

THIS PHRASE IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN ORIGINATED BY A NEWSPAPER MAN SOME SIXTY YEARS AGO WHEN HE LIKENED A QUARREL IN A POLITICAL CONVENTION TO TWO TOM-CATS HE HAD SEEN FIGHTING WITH FUR FLYING EVERYWHERE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

CHILDREN, FIVE TO SEVEN.

CHILDREN five to seven years of age are greatly neglected, in the opinion of Dr. H. A. Harris. We have used gallons of ink in spreading the gospel about care of babies. Hours are spent weekly in talking about the problems of adolescence since Stanley Hall started us at it 27 years ago. Dr. Lucas and some other physicians got the Parent-Teacher Associations "all het up" about children two to six years.

Dr. Harris says there are three spring-up ages and three filling-in ages. The springing-up ages are: Under 1, 5 to 7, and puberty. These are the ages of weedlike growth. Babies under one, children in their first year in school, and boys and girls in the period of puberty grow like Jack's beanstalk. They can wear one suit today, but tomorrow they must use the wearing apparel of the next older. There are physical and mental considerations that are especially important during these quick-growing years.

The filling-in years are one to five, seven to eleven, and the period of adolescence. It is during these years that the body consolidates its gains. The space between the bones and strings that make up the body in these rapid growth periods is filled in with material of one sort or other. In the rapid growth the protoplasm of the body is more jellylike. In the filling-in years it is more substantial.

The best way to handle children is not the same in the filling-in periods. There are peculiarities of the child seven to eleven that should be borne in mind. Until seven the child is interested in himself. His talk is of himself and so are his thoughts. As he approaches that age he begins to be socialized.

The process starts by recognition of the rights of his brothers and sisters when he is lucky enough to have such. Presently he begins to see that his parents have some right to the sun. In the seventh year schooling is begun and socializing speeds up. Competition begins to be dominant. Before the end of the period cooperation really competes with competition. This is also a period of some physical importance. The child is exposed to schoolroom contagions, including the communicable minor disorders. It is a period of great susceptibility to tooth decay.

CHANCES ARE GOOD.

Mrs. A. M. C. writes: I am 25 years old and in the first stages of tuberculosis. Is there any cure? I am drinking a quart of milk and two raw eggs daily.

REPLY.

Your chance of being cured should be good. You had better go to a sanitarium and stay in bed until they advise you to get out. Rest is more important than diet in the cure. You also need fresh air, preferably clean air, right living, and medical and nursing care.

CURING A BUNION.

W. O. writes: Let me give you my cure for bunions. It is so simple you would hardly believe it. Merely rubbing good turpentine on it night and morning, with an occasional dab of iodine cured mine. The turpentine must be rubbed on it religiously and iodine dabbed on about once every couple of weeks. It takes a long time to cure it—a year—but it certainly is worth it.

REPLY.

I wonder if you did not wear a different type of shoe and otherwise indirectly treat your bunion during that year.

I can see how your remedy might help the corn and other changed soft tissues, but I can not see how it would put the bones back in place. Probably, too, your bunion may not have been much of a twister.

Many Envoys Greet Visitors From Abroad

Dinners and Receptions Given for Business Delegates.

LIKE Alice in Wonderland the groups of prominent visitors from foreign countries here for the sixth congress of the International Chamber of Commerce found glamour of various aspect last night as embassy and legation doors opened wide for their entertainment. All over the area in fashionable Washington dotted with the marble houses that mark "embassy and legation row" lights flashed and music and dancing or informal receptions held sway as the chiefs of missions and their chatelaines received the delegates and families.

Motors hummed all evening along the avenues leading to the homes of foreign envoys and earlier in the evening several embassies and legations were the scenes of dinners given in honor of the representatives who are receiving signal honor here in tribute to their lofty position abroad in the realm of business administration.

At the French Embassy last night the Ambassador and Mme. Claudel entertained at dinner for 30 representatives of the French republic in town to attend the sessions. The Ambassador and Mme. Claudel also will entertain at tea for the French delegates on Friday, including also some officials of the departments of state and commerce.

The dinner which the Minister of Denmark and Mme. Kristiani gave last night was one of the charming affairs incident to the events heightening the week's festivities. Their guests included members of the Danish contingent and a few others.

Those representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, Judge and Mrs. Chandler P. Anderson, the acting Chief of the Bureau of Western European Affairs, State Department, and Mrs. P. de L. Bruce, Mr. Alfred Mathews, assistant director of bureau, Department of Commerce, and Mrs. Matthews; Mr. Edward L. Bacher, managing foreign commerce department, United States Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Bacher.

Among those from Denmark were Mr. Krnst Meyer, of Copenhagen, president of the Danish national committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, and Mme. Meyer; Mme. Dessau, Mr. Holger Fink, Mr. Olaf Nielsen, Mr. Harald Knudtzon, Mr. Emil Hertz, Mr. Th. Juncker, Mr. M. Raffenberg, of Copenhagen, secretary to the Danish national committee; Mr. and Mrs. Oesterheld.

Others at the dinner were the Counselor of the Danish Legation and Mme. de Wichfeld, Mr. C. E. Christiansen, president of the Danish Club in Washington; Mr. A. G. Bojsen, former secretary of the Danish Legation, and Mr. Emil Opffer, of New York.

The Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter also entertained a group of the delegates at dinner, their guests including, besides the members of the legation staff, Mr. Walter Stucki, chief of the commerce division at Berne; Mr. Julliard, Mr. Martin, Mr. Oder, Mr. Heutich, Dr. Gyr, and three members of the staff of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris, Mr. Arnaud, Mr. Boissier, and Mr. Barbey.

The dinner which Mrs. Frederick H. Brooks had planned for last night in honor of a few of the visitors was canceled.

It was a busy day yesterday for the William B. Bullitt household family. Mrs. Bullitt, serving as chairman of the committee composed of the wives and daughters of the delegates, is about as engaged a hostess as that who presided yesterday at the sessions of the program in the interest of economic relations. Mr. Bullitt, worth a fortune president of the International Chamber and a member of its council.

In addition to the buzz of the day festivities Mr. and Mrs. Bullitt worth entertained at dinner last night for the visiting delegates. This noon Mrs. Butterworth will give a luncheon in her apartment on Massachusetts avenue for about 30 women here from various parts of the world, and including some guests from American cities, and on Friday Mr. and Mrs. Butterworth will be hosts at dinner. Among the guests at their dinner last night were M. and Mme. Auguste Plate and M. and Mme. Van den Linden dan den Heuvell, and M. and Mme. Willem Westerman, all from the Netherlands; M. Edouard Dolleau, of France; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pillsbury, the latter from Moline, Ill., and guests during the parley of Mr. and Mrs. Butterworth; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pierson, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. James Cathcart, of Chicago.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Black, of Galveston, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Merle Thorpe, of Washington; Mr. Chadbourne of New York; Mrs. A. C. Pratt, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mr. Henry Coit MacLean, and Mr. and Mrs. John O'Leary, of Chicago.

Mrs. George B. Pillsbury and her daughter, Miss Elisabeth Pillsbury, have returned to Washington from California, where they have spent a month. They will remain here until the end of June, going then to Martha's Vineyard, where they will spend the summer months.

The Queen Elisabeth Chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire of the U. S. A. will entertain at a bridge party at Annie's Tea Shop on Saturday evening at 9 o'clock.

Planning a brief visit in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Hoyer-Millar have come from New York where they arrived on the Majestic Tuesday, to be the guests of the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Glover, at Westover, on Massachusetts avenue.

Having come to this country primarily to see her grandparents, and other members of the Glover family, Mrs. Hoyer-Millar, formerly Miss Elisabeth van Swinderen, will be here with her husband ten days, when they will return to Europe, proprietory to going to Cairo, where Mr. Hoyer-Millar, a member of the British Diplomatic Corps, will assume the duties of second secretary of the British embassy.

Their marriage took place in London the middle of last month and was one of the important events of the spring season there. Mrs. Hoyer-Millar is the daughter of the Netherlands Minister to Great Britain and Mrs. van Swinderen, and before her marriage was a popular debutante of the season with her grandparents.

A card party will be held at Mc-Kendree Chapel, 2600 Sixteenth street, tomorrow evening for the benefit of Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, Brenwy, Md.

The fourth meeting of the Wardman Park Supper Club was held last night. These dances have been so successful that it has been decided to have another meeting next Wednesday. Among those present last night were Miss Clara Bolling, Miss Juliet Bowie, Miss Emiacah Cale Davis, Miss Evelyn Howe, Miss Mary Frankham Henry, Miss Bertha Marsh, Miss Mary Bennington Shinn, Miss Mary Ruden, Miss Helen Shaw, Mr. Marshall Beverly, Lieut. Paul Caraway, U. S. A., Mr. George Riggs, jr., Mr. Harry Poulter, jr., Mr. Frain Stumm, Mr. Homer Tatum, Lieut. James C. White, U. S. A., and Mr. Robert F. Kelley.

Among the hostesses who will entertain at a bridge tomorrow at the National Woman's Country Club following the meeting of the Mrs. Hollister Sturges, of Chicago; Mrs. Clarence Patterson, and Mrs. Jacob Miss Van den Bosch; Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman and Mrs. David Skinner.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE names of Pascock and Pascoe in most cases originally given as a nickname to proud persons. This was not always true, however, because it has been found that some families who bear this name were originally so-called because they lived at or near a residence which displayed a picture or an image of a peacock as a means of identification.

The personal name "Rufus" is of Latin origin. It means "red," and was obviously first given as a nickname.

Although there is evidence that the early Romans, like all ancient races, had the single name system, they very soon found it convenient to adopt a system resembling our own. In fact, the names of the Roman patrician class was perhaps the most precise and elaborate ever used by man. They ordinarily had three names, although in some cases a fourth name was also given. Their "praenomen" or forename corresponded to our personal name (also called baptismal name, Christian name, etc.). Their second name was called "nomen." It designated the name of a "gens" (clan), and might be called the clan name. Their third name, called the "cognomen," corresponded to our modern family name. "Marcus Tullius Cicero" and "Caius Julius Caesar" are examples of names ordinarily borne by Roman citizens. In some cases a fourth name was given. This was called the "agnomen," or additional name, and it corresponded to our modern nicknames. When the Roman Empire was overthrown, the patricians who bore such names as are described above were either killed or willingly dropped their names to hide their identity. Thus there remained only the common people who were known by single names as had been the case with the Early Romans, and as continued to be the case with the northern conquerors.

COMMERCIAL television is so near at hand that before the end of next year several television transmitting stations will be installed in the New York area, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told stockholders at their annual meeting this week. He declared that this new scientific achievement promises "a great industrial development."

"Last year," Mr. Sarnoff pointed out, "I said that perfected television would come within five years. Since then a decade of our work in the last six months has brought the goal some years nearer. But television is a stupendous sound broadcasting. The two services will be complementary."

An all star Radio Guild cast will be heard in "Peter Ibbetson," when that work is presented tomorrow at 10 o'clock, 2:15 p.m. Constance Collier will be "The Duchess of Shirley." Alfred Hickman will be Clifford Walker, "Colonel Ibbetson," and Florence Malone, "Mrs. Deane."

WHEN Phil Cook departs from Washington for a few days he is off for free feeling it a hardship to have to feed his programs to the network each night during his stay, the announcers and engineers haven't gotten so much enjoyment out of putting on a program in a long time.

Admiral William H. Standley, Phil Cook creates a happy atmosphere wherever he is. He is thoroughly enjoys doing his program and it shows. Even the engineers at the studios have been crowded with spectators each night during his week at WRC.

So much has been written about Phil Cook's work before the microphone that it is not at all necessary to go over it again. Suffice it to say, only add our opinion, after watching him for the first transatlantic broadcast of grand opera on Wednesday, May 13.

It is recalled that a little more than a year ago part of "Pinafore" was heard in this country, a retransmission from the Dresden Opera House.

THE first of the series, "Realities of Romance," will be presented tomorrow morning (WRC, 10:30 o'clock). The life of Anne of Austria, mother of Louis XIV of France, will be the first in the series.

The German playwright, Vicki Baum, and notables of the Drama League of America will be guests of honor tomorrow night (WRC, 8:30 o'clock). Miss Baum is the author of "Grand Hotel."

Appearing in dual role of entertainer and master of ceremonies, Will sing "Out of the Dusk to You," accompanied by Rudolf Schramm's orchestra, tonight (WRC, 10 o'clock).

Tomorrow night William L. Abernethy, state attorney and announcers, will be heard with the male quartet which he directs (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

A PRESS release from the Columbia Broadcasting System announces that as part of "Pidelio" was heard in this country, a retransmission from the Dresden Opera House.

Both networks will furnish descriptions of the Kentucky Derby run on Saturday, May 16.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. from 3:15 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:45 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The astrological aspects of May 7 are negative, and denote things you should not be done rather than individual things that should be done. Routine work should occupy your attention; speculation avoided; no risks accepted, and travel, if possible, eliminated.

Children born on this May 7 will be slow both in mental and physical development. They will, however, tread the path of sure and steady progress. By no means brilliant, they will win through by their stick-at-itiveness, and will outstrip many who enjoy a better equipment.

Born on May 7, you seem to assume a gruffness of manner in order to hide a tender heart and a kindly spirit. For those who have not glimpsed beneath the surface, your aspect is forbidding and your mannerisms ungracious. You could achieve much more if you would give natural expression to your better actions, and not endeavor to suppress them. Courtesy begets courtesy, and kindness is generally reciprocated. Why be ashamed of feelings that if known, would only do you credit?

You possess no ordinary degree of intelligence, and are the soul of integrity. You art sentimental and romantic, but persist in masquerading as an iceberg. Your mate, if you have one, could tell a different tale. Your children, if you have any, know that your bark is loud, and that your bite is harmless.

You are keen on helping others. The assistance you so freely give is robbed of much of its charm by the way in which it is offered. You are a hard worker, but a poor executive. You can never bring yourself to say the word of encouragement that means so much to workers, although you are the first to recognise good service by monetary reward. A little praise often secures more than six increase of pay.

Successful people born May 7:

1. William Bainbridge—naval officer.
2. Anton Seidl—musician.
3. Col. Albert L. Mills—soldier, surveyor and U. S. Military Academy; West Point, N. Y.
4. Robert Browing—poet.
5. Lord Castlereagh—English statesman.
6. Joe Cannon—Former Speaker of Congress.

DEPUTIES DEMAND FIRM NAVY STAND

Government's Hand May Be Forced as London Parley Resumes.

Paris, May 6 (A.P.).—Simultaneously with the return to London of Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, the naval affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies took action today which may force the government's hand in naval negotiations.

Massigli carried with him new instructions, presumably to bring about some sort of compromise at the conference of naval experts of Italy, Great Britain and France in London.

The naval affairs committee, in substance, voted for insistence upon the French thesis in regard to replacement of superannuated vessels during negotiations for the naval treaty.

Firm Stand Is Demanded.

The committee also laid plans for action on the 1931-1932 naval building program, which has been sidetracked since February due to attempts of France and Italy to reach an accord.

Two members of the committee were appointed to visit Minister of Marine Charles Dumont to insist that Massigli and his collaborators in London should not give in on the French view toward the Franco-Italian accord of March 1.

The 1931-1932 naval building program has not yet been voted on by the committee, but it was understood after today's meeting that this will be done and the bill will be placed before the chamber as soon as possible.

Program Subject to Change.

The measure calls for a total of from 42,000 to 45,000 tons. The largest unit would be a 23,000-ton battle cruiser and two small cruisers of 7,500 each. There also would be smaller craft. This program, however, is still subject to alteration.

Some anxiety is shown by the committee over the building program, it being pointed out that 1931 is almost half gone and the construction plan has not been voted on.

Britain Still Is Hopeful.

London, May 6 (A.P.).—Europe's disturbed naval situation took a turn for the better today when Arthur Henderson, the foreign minister, announced in the House of Commons that Great Britain still hoped for settlement of the technical difficulties which have delayed an Anglo-French-Italian agreement.

While the House was still in session, Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, came back to London with new instructions from the French government and is ready to continue conversations with the British and Italian experts. Thus, it appeared that recent reports the conference had reached a hopeless deadlock were in error.

Representatives of the three nations are to confer tomorrow, but British officials tonight made no promise of definite progress toward a settlement this week.

Defense Committee Meeting Called.

Another important development in disarmament, from the British viewpoint, is a special meeting of the committee on imperial defense called for tomorrow morning with Ramsay MacDonald presiding.

This committee is considering the general question of disarmament with a view to presenting a united front devoid of party considerations. It is already planning for next year's conference at Geneva and tomorrow's meeting will be its third.

Hope Sinks in Italy.

Rome, May 6 (A.P.).—Italian official circles today saw little hope in further negotiations toward the proposed tripartite naval accord, which are to be held in London.

Italy was represented as unresponsive to suggestions that her naval experts ought to have new instructions to deal with the probable new plan which Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, took to London.

It was said the only new instructions the experts will have will be a copy of Italy's note to France definitely refusing to admit the latter's right to replace over age tonnage except as mentioned in the proposed accord. Italy was said still to be willing to execute the agreement, but unwilling to have it altered.

Meat Cutter Sued for Divorce.

Stephen H. Bowles, a meat cutter, was sued for a limited divorce by his wife, Lula T. Bowles, yesterday in District Supreme Court. Her husband deserted her December 14, came back two days later for his clothing, and has since continued to live apart from her, she claims.

Briton Says Study Shows World Is Going to Pieces

Death of Sun Is Predicted Within 150,000 Billion Years; Universe, Almost on Its Last Legs, Faces End by Explosion.

Mount Wilson Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., May 6 (A.P.).—Sir James Hopewell Jeans said today he is convinced that what has been learned about cosmic rays is proof the universe is going to pieces.

The noted British astronomer addressed a gathering of astronomers, physicists and mathematicians at the Carnegie Institution of Washington Library here.

The sun, he said, has passed through one-third of its life. He predicted its death 150,000,000,000 years from now.

Expanding with explosive force, he said, the universe is doubling its size every 14 billion years.

His topic of discussion was the time-scale. All major problems of the structure of the universe depend upon this, he said. He revealed that all studies revealed two time scales, one estimating the life of the universe between 10 and 100 billion years, known as the short time scale, and the other between 10,000 billion years, the long time scale. He favors the latter estimate.

The age of the earth, estimated from radioactivity of rocks, he said, is believed to be 30,000,000,000 years, with analysis of meteorites suggesting the age of the solar system to be about the same.

On the basis of the theory that the universe is being constantly built up by synthetic changes of atoms, the short time scale would fit in, he said. Believing the universe is being annihilated, however, he accepts the long time scale.

First Lady to Place Stone at Cathedral

Exercises at North Porch to Be Held Thursday of Next Week.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, as chairman of the National Women's Committee for the Washington Cathedral, will lay the first stone for the north porch of the edifice at special exercises next Thursday at the cathedral.

The stone she will place will be a block of white limestone, typical of the several hundred to be used in constructing the porch. Actual laying of the stone will be preceded by the annual meeting of the National Cathedral Association, and followed by pilgrimages to recently completed portions of the cathedral. Afterward there will be a reception in the bishop's garden.

Earlier in the day the national executive committee for Washington Cathedral will be guests of Undersecretary of State Castle, a member of the committee, and of the Cathedral Chapter, at a luncheon. Bishop James E. Freeman will preside at the annual meeting and conduct the stone placing exercises.

George V 21 Years on Throne.

London, May 6 (A.P.).—The Union Jack waved over all public buildings today and a 21-gun salute was fired at every naval and military station in the country in honor of the twenty-first anniversary of the accession of George V to the British throne. The king himself spent the day quietly at Windsor with Queen Mary, taking a walk in the afternoon about the castle grounds.

Letts Will Start New Duties Today

Former Iowa Representative Will Take Oath as District Justice.

The oath of office will be administered today to F. Dickinson Letts, former representative from Iowa, who has received a recess appointment to the vacancy in the bench of the District Supreme Court created by resignation Monday of former Justice Wendell P. Stafford.

Mr. Letts yesterday paid his first visit to the District Courthouse. He merely contented himself with looking over his prospective office and with meeting court attaches. Chief Justice A. A. Wheat held an impromptu reception for Mr. Letts, introducing him to other justices and lawyers.

Following the administering of the oth today, Mr. Letts will take up his judicial duties. He has intimated that his work at the Department of Justice can be quickly cleared up and he plans to plunge into the duties, now before him.

Four Postal Telegraph Workers Are Rewarded

G. M. Parker, J. W. Andrews, W. L. Jones and H. Clear, branch managers of the local Postal Telegraph organization, yesterday received special merit awards in the company's Lookout Club for 1930-1931.

The local managers were 4 of 74 chosen for special recognition out of the 600 members of the club. Congratulations from W. C. Daviet, division general manager, and C. B. Allsopp, vice president, accompanied the awards.

Like Color . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

THE artist stands before his canvas with color-laden palette. Blues, greens, white and touches of warmer tones are blended by his inspired brush as the waves of the seascape take form. His genius tells him that only through the blending of just the right colors is the ideal result achieved. Otherwise his most painstaking effort could only result in a monotone, wholly lacking in brilliance.

Artistry and genius have their place in the making of CONOCO Gasoline. CONOCO engineers long since have found that the ideal gasoline is a balanced blend of the three types containing the elements most desired in a motor fuel. There is highly volatile Natural Gasoline, to give quick starting. There is Straight-run Gasoline, to give power and long mileage. There is Cracked Gasoline with its well-known anti-knock quality.

Like the artist with his colors, CONOCO refiners take these three types of gasoline in balanced proportions and blend them. The result is as pleasing to the car owner as is a Rembrandt to the art connoisseur. Of course the genius of "knowing how" is the vital element and it is here that CONOCO refiners excel.

Convince yourself of the merit of CONOCO Blended Gasoline. Try it today. You will find this triple-test motor fuel wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

TwentyGrand In Dazzling Workout

Timed in 1:38 2-5 for Mile and Becomes Preakness Choice.

Banner Crowd Sees Equipoise Speed Mile in 1:39 2-5.

By J. B. SNODGRASS,
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 6.—Insofar as a workout can tell the story of the Preakness three days in advance, the speed flashed by the Greentree Stable's Twenty Grand at this course this morning should go a long way toward the solution of the big race Saturday.

Twenty Grand, with Marshall Lilly up, and 130 pounds in the saddle, was circling the hilltop course in one of the greatest trials ever seen here, before the largest crowd at the sidelines was fully aware what was taking place, and when the St. Germans colt easily made the mile in 1:38 2-5, he became the Preakness favorite. On he swept for a mile and a furlong in 1:51 2-5, finishing out the mile and a quarter in 2:05 3-5 pulled up.

Fractions of the Twenty Grand trial were: 0:23 1-5; 0:36; 0:49 2-5; 1:01 2-5; 1:13 3-5; 1:25 2-5; 1:38 2-5; 1:51 2-5; 2:05 3-5; eased up. Anchors Aweigh broke three lengths in front of Twenty Grand and went the mile and a quarter in 2:07.

Crowd Gives Equipoise Warm Welcome.

The largest crowd of the week was here today principally for the workout of C. V. Whitney's Preakness and Derby candidate between the first and second races. Shillick rode Equipoise, and there was a warm greeting for the colt when he stepped on the track, accompanied by Totem, Workman up. The work was good, but the star was hampered somewhat by the inability of Totem to keep up. The colt went a mile in 1:39 3-5, a mile and a furlong in 1:52 3-5 and went on for the mile and a quarter, the Derby distance, in 2:07 pulled up.

The horse broke at the eighth pole and skimmed the rail. When Workman began pulling up at the mile and an eighth Equipoise plied up a tride tired, but the work was pronounced good.

The throng watched the work with rapt attention. Fred Hopkins, trainer of Equipoise, was pleased with the work.

Surf Board Works In 1:53 2-5.

Surf Board—McAtee is coming here to ride him in the Preakness—was brought out at 6 o'clock and worked a mile and an eighth in 1:53 2-5. James Rowe, Greentree Stable trainer, after the great trials of his charges, looked like a man in a poker game with four aces.

Surf Board's fractions were 0:24 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 0:59 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:53 2-5, taken in hand toward the latter part of the trial.

Seagram Stable's Soil Gills opened the eyes of many. He went along in 0:23 3-5, 0:35, 0:47 4-5, 1:00 3-5, 1:14, 1:27, 1:40 1-5, 1:52 3-5 and 2:06.

Cards Beat Bucs, 6-5, In 13th; Gelbert Star

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 6 (A.P.).—Gelbert, who tripled and then scored on a single by Martin in the thirteenth inning, gave St. Louis a 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh. Grimes and Meine fought it out on the mound, although Grimes left the scene in the last half of the thirteenth as Pinch Hiter Mosolf, batting for Meine, singled. Lindsey relieved Grimes and with Gelbert, saved the game. The latter came through with a fine assist in the Pirates half of the final inning with the bases loaded to bring the battle to a close.

Hunter Wins Woodmont Medal

Youth's 74 Lowest in Qualifying, Beating Out Maj. Noyes.

Harry Pitt Unable to Make Top Flight With 82 Card.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE medal for low gross score in the qualification round of the Woodmont invitation golf tournament yesterday was won by J. Monro Hunter, jr., son of the professional of the Indian Spring Club, with a card of 38—36—74, five strokes over par, and one stroke lower than the 75 of Maj. E. A. Noyes, Army-Navy, which led the field last Tuesday, the first day of qualification.

Hunter, who is still mang the juniors, played consistently good golf. He lost a stroke by overplaying the sixth green and another stroke by hooking almost to the tennis courts on the ninth, but saved a stroke with a birdie 2 on the eighth. On his homeward journey a drive into the ditch on the fourteenth and a hooked iron shot on the seventeenth were errors that added two strokes, but he managed to secure a par on the eighteenth by playing out of a trap so close to the pin that he holed out with one putt.

Drive Off Fairway On Two Holes.

On only two holes, the sixteenth and the eighteenth, were Hunter's drives off the fairway, and he putted confidently and accurately throughout the round. His card:

Out ..... 4 4 5 4 4 6 4 2 5—38
In ..... 4 3 4 6 3 3 5 4 4—36—74

Other players from whom low scores were expected, including James G. Drain, the 20-year-old winner of the Washington Club tournament, and John C. Shorey, winner of the Woodmont event last year, fell by the wayside, Drain with 81 and Shorey with 79, eight 5s on the latter's card without a single birdie telling the story.

One of the unusual scores was made by Warren L. Heap, Manor, who, after going out in 41, piled up 10 strokes on the par 3 fifteenth hole, and then played the last four holes in par figures for a total of 87. Another odd card for the first nine was turned in by Richard H. Lunn, Burning Tree, as follows: 3 3 6 5 5 8 4 2 4—40.

Maj. Noyes Withdraws From Tourney.

The withdrawal of Maj. Noyes from the tournament left four players tied at 82 for two places in the first sixteen. John Rafferty, Georgetown University, not being present, was automatically placed in the second sixteen, leaving Harry G. Pitt, Manor; his brother, Thomas S. Pitt, Argyle, and Louis Fuchs, unattached, to fight for the coveted position.

Harry G. Pitt lost out when he played his second shot into a trap and was still in the trap with his third, after using a putter instead of a niblick, and holed out in 6. Tom Pitt survived with a par 4 and Fuchs with a 5. Scores as high as 93 qualified in the fourth and last sixteen, but C. A. Bennett, Congressional, lost out in the draw.

The pairings and times of play this morning are as follows:

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

IN 1337 King Alphonso IV died and Pedro I was crowned king of Portugal. His first thought on ascending the throne was to avenge the death of his wife, Inez de Castro, who had been killed by three assassins when Pedro was heir to the throne. After doing away with the assassins, Pedro amazed the country by ordering the body of his wife exhumed, and caused the celebration of a magnificent coronation ceremony at which the mummy was crowned queen of Portugal. Every religious and civil rite was observed, and after the weird ceremony Pedro ordered all those who would have rendered homage to the living queen to humbly kiss her hand. After this, Pedro had the body of Inez placed in a beautiful mausoleum at the monastery of Alcobaca, with all ceremony due a queen.

ROBINS BEAT GIANTS, 1-0, ON 4 HITS

Lombardi's Fly in 7th Decides Box Duel, Evens Series.

BROOKLYN, May 6 (A.P.).—A timely fly to the outfield by Ernie Lombardi, Brooklyn's big rookie catcher, provided the Robins with the only run of the game today as they defeated the Giants, 1 to 0, and squared their four-game series.

Lombardi's winning wallop came in the seventh, when he pinch hit for Babe Phelps, and brought Bressler home from third base. The Giants' closest approach to a score came in the same inning, when Leach tried to score from first on Terry's long double and was nipped at the plate.

The winners made only four hits off the combined delivery of Walker and Heving. Phelps held the Giants to 5 safeties.

Tigers Pound Chisox Pitchers to Win, 9-4

Detroit, May 6 (A.P.).—Detroit pounded three Chicago White Sox pitchers for eleven hits, including four doubles, to win today's game, 9 to 4, and take a 2-to-1 lead in the four-game series.

Roy Johnson, Detroit right fielder, got two doubles and drove in four runs. He also hit a single.

Tom Bridges started on the mound for the Tigers and was touched for all the Chicago hits. He was relieved by Art Herring in the eighth, after he had walked two men—his eighth and ninth—with none out. The White Sox errors helped the Tigers.

AL SIMMONS HERO AS A'S WIN, 10-3

Slugger Gets Seventh Straight Hit in Defeat of Boston.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6 (A.P.).—Displaying their finest attack of the season, the Philadelphia Athletics today clubbed the Boston Red Sox into submission by a score of 10 to 3, winning the series, two games to one. The Mackmen batted three Red Sox pitchers for eighteen hits that included six doubles and two home runs.

Al Simmons made five hits for a perfect game at bat, running an unfinished string of consecutive safeties in two days to seven straight. Jimmy Foxx broke out of his prolonged slump with a home run and a double and Mickey Cochrane hit two singles and his third home run of the year.

Nats Acquire Scarritt of Red Sox

Outfielder Is Claimed on Waivers; Hitting Weak This Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Russell Scarritt, Boston Red Sox outfielder, has been claimed by the Nats on waivers and will join the Washington Team in Detroit for the opening game in the West tomorrow, Manager Walter Johnson announced tonight. Scarritt will leave directly from Philadelphia, where the Red Sox played today.

Scarritt, a left-handed hitter, has been acquired to bolster the reserve strength of his outfield, Manager Johnson said. He does not intend inserting him in the outfield immediately, but with Sam Rice and Sam West not in best condition, the new acquisition is scheduled to see action soon.

While with Boston during the seasons of 1929 and 1930 Scarritt failed to justify his hitting promise. With St. Paul in 1927 and 1928 he batted .33 and 3.54, respectively. His average last year was .294. In eleven games this season he has fallen down dismally at bat, with 6 hits in 39 ppearances for a puny average of .154. Scarritt, however, is regarded as one of the cleverest defensive outfielders in the league. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 162 pounds.

Nats Leave for Detroit Series.

Manager Walter Johnson and his charges hustled away from New York immediately after today's game, heading for Detroit, their first stop on their first 1931 invasion of the West. For a team with championship hopes, the Nationals have proven to be somewhat of a disappointment to date, but even with their mediocre play at intervals, they have managed to keep up close to the leaders and it would not have to be much of a spurt to put them at the head of the heap.

It was in the Western sector that the Nationals did their poorest work last season and, if the coming jaunt is not a successful one, they will have to do some mighty tall stepping thereafter to get back in the running.

"The dope has upset completely," they reason. "We didn't do as well in the East as we did last season, which means that we'll do better in the West than we did then. In other words, last year's doings are being just reversed."

Nats Need Right-Handed Pitching.

This may be the answer—for superstitious folks, at least—but the Nationals had better not pin their faith on such illogical reasons. What they need is for some of their right-handed flingers to round to form. If this happens, the Nats may simply breeze through the West, but it is a certainty that they can't do it if handicapped by the in and out pitching they have been getting from their squad of orthodox hurlers.

In order to speed up the return of form of Irving Hadley and "General" Alvin Crowder, Manager Johnson this morning decided to return Bryant Turner, who has been used as a batting practice pitcher, to the Hagerstown Club, and Crowder and Hadley have been told to work themselves back into condition on the hill in the pregame stick drills and not, as has been the case recently, at a cost of several lost games charged against the club in the standing.

Nats to Play 14 Games In West.

Fourteen games will be played by the Nationals on their swing through the "wild and woolly" sector. Tomorrow will be an off day, with a four-game set opening in Detroit on Friday. Lloyd Brown, who has lost several heart-breaking efforts, will draw the pitching assignment for the Nats in their first battle of the season with Bucky Harris' Tigers.

The series in the Ford city ends next Monday, and then come three games with the Indians in Cleveland, four with the Browns in St. Louis and three with the White Sox in Chicago. Instead of coming home, the Nats then hop to New York for a single game on Saturday, May 23; jump to Washington the following day for a Sabbath game with the Red Sox and the two teams then journey to Boston for four games. This brings the Nats home on May 29, an open date, and they open a long home stay the next day with a Memorial Day double-header with the Yankees.

As both teams have an open date on Monday, June 1, the Nats will hold over the Yankees for a game on that date, a play-off of the 14-inning tie staged in Griffith Stadium last April 28.

Arlett's Fifth Home Run For Phils Beats

DEPUTIES DEMAND FIRM NAVY STAND

Government's Hand May Be Forced as London Parley Resumes.

Paris, May 6 (A.P.).—Simultaneously with the return to London of Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, the naval affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies took action today which may force the government's hand in naval negotiations.

Massigli carried with him new instructions, presumably to bring about some sort of compromise at the conference of naval experts of Italy, Great Britain and France in London.

The naval affairs committee, in substance, voted for insistence upon the French thesis in regard to replacement of superannuated vessels during negotiations for the naval treaty.

Firm Stand Is Demanded.

The committee also laid plans for action on the 1931-1932 naval building program, which has been sidetracked since February due to attempts of France and Italy to reach an accord.

Two members of the committee were appointed to visit Minister of Marine Charles Dumont to insist that Massigli and his collaborators in London should not give in on the French view toward the Franco-Italian accord of March 1.

The 1931-1932 naval building program has not yet been voted on by the committee, but it was understood after today's meeting that this will be done and the bill will be placed before the chamber as soon as possible.

Program Subject to Change.

The measure calls for a total of from 42,000 to 45,000 tons. The largest unit would be a 23,000-ton battle cruiser and two small cruisers of 7,500 each. There also would be smaller craft. This program, however, is still subject to alteration.

Some anxiety is shown by the committee over the building program, it being pointed out that 1931 is almost half gone and the construction plan has not been voted on.

Britain Still Is Hopeful.

London, May 6 (A.P.).—Europe's disturbed naval situation took a turn for the better today when Arthur Henderson, the foreign minister, announced in the House of Commons that Great Britain still hoped for settlement of the technical difficulties which have delayed an Anglo-French-Italian agreement.

While the House was still in session, Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, came back to London with new instructions from the French government and is ready to continue conversations with the British and Italian experts. Thus, it appeared that recent reports the conference had reached a hopeless deadlock were in error.

Representatives of the three nations are to confer tomorrow, but British officials tonight made no promise of definite progress toward a settlement this week.

Defense Committee Meeting Called.

Another important development in disarmament, from the British viewpoint, is a special meeting of the committee on imperial defense called for tomorrow morning with Ramsay MacDonald presiding.

This committee is considering the general question of disarmament with a view to presenting a united front devoid of party considerations. It is already planning for next year's conference at Geneva and tomorrow's meeting will be its third.

Hope Sinks in Italy.

Rome, May 6 (A.P.).—Italian official circles today saw little hope in further negotiations toward the proposed tripartite naval accord, which are to be held in London.

Italy was represented as unresponsive to suggestions that her naval experts ought to have new instructions to deal with the probable new plan which Rene Massigli, head of the French naval delegation, took to London.

It was said the only new instructions the experts will have will be a copy of Italy's note to France definitely refusing to admit the latter's right to replace over age tonnage except as mentioned in the proposed accord. Italy was said still to be willing to execute the agreement, but unwilling to have it altered.

Meat Cutter Sued for Divorce.

Stephen H. Bowles, a meat cutter, was sued for a limited divorce by his wife, Lula T. Bowles, yesterday in District Supreme Court. Her husband deserted her December 14, came back two days later for his clothing, and has since continued to live apart from her, she claims.

Briton Says Study Shows World Is Going to Pieces

Death of Sun Is Predicted Within 150,000 Billion Years; Universe, Almost on Its Last Legs, Faces End by Explosion.

Mount Wilson Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., May 6 (A.P.).—Sir James Hopewell Jeans said today he is convinced that what has been learned about cosmic rays is proof the universe is going to pieces.

The noted British astronomer addressed a gathering of astronomers, physicists and mathematicians at the Carnegie Institution of Washington Library here.

The sun, he said, has passed through one-third of its life. He predicted its death 150,000,000,000 years from now.

Expanding with explosive force, he said, the universe is doubling its size every 14 billion years.

His topic of discussion was the time-scale. All major problems of the structure of the universe depend upon this, he said. He revealed that all studies revealed two time scales, one estimating the life of the universe between 10 and 100 billion years, known as the short time scale, and the other between 10,000 billion years, the long time scale. He favors the latter estimate.

The age of the earth, estimated from radioactivity of rocks, he said, is believed to be 30,000,000,000 years, with analysis of meteorites suggesting the age of the solar system to be about the same.

On the basis of the theory that the universe is being constantly built up by synthetic changes of atoms, the short time scale would fit in, he said. Believing the universe is being annihilated, however, he accepts the long time scale.

First Lady to Place Stone at Cathedral

Exercises at North Porch to Be Held Thursday of Next Week.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, as chairman of the National Women's Committee for the Washington Cathedral, will lay the first stone for the north porch of the edifice at special exercises next Thursday at the cathedral.

The stone she will place will be a block of white limestone, typical of the several hundred to be used in constructing the porch. Actual laying of the stone will be preceded by the annual meeting of the National Cathedral Association, and followed by pilgrimages to recently completed portions of the cathedral. Afterward there will be a reception in the bishop's garden.

Earlier in the day the national executive committee for Washington Cathedral will be guests of Undersecretary of State Castle, a member of the committee, and of the Cathedral Chapter, at a luncheon. Bishop James E. Freeman will preside at the annual meeting and conduct the stone placing exercises.

George V 21 Years on Throne.

London, May 6 (A.P.).—The Union Jack waved over all public buildings today and a 21-gun salute was fired at every naval and military station in the country in honor of the twenty-first anniversary of the accession of George V to the British throne. The king himself spent the day quietly at Windsor with Queen Mary, taking a walk in the afternoon about the castle grounds.

Letts Will Start New Duties Today

Former Iowa Representative Will Take Oath as District Justice.

The oath of office will be administered today to F. Dickinson Letts, former representative from Iowa, who has received a recess appointment to the vacancy in the bench of the District Supreme Court created by resignation Monday of former Justice Wendell P. Stafford.

Mr. Letts yesterday paid his first visit to the District Courthouse. He merely contented himself with looking over his prospective office and with meeting court attaches. Chief Justice A. A. Wheat held an impromptu reception for Mr. Letts, introducing him to other justices and lawyers.

Following the administering of the oth today, Mr. Letts will take up his judicial duties. He has intimated that his work at the Department of Justice can be quickly cleared up and he plans to plunge into the duties now before him.

Four Postal Telegraph Workers Are Rewarded

G. M. Parker, J. W. Andrews, W. L. Jones and H. Clear, branch managers of the local Postal Telegraph organization, yesterday received special merit awards in the company's Lookout Club for 1930-1931.

The local managers were 4 of 74 chosen for special recognition out of the 600 members of the club. Congratulations from W. C. Daviet, division general manager, and C. B. Allsopp, vice president, accompanied the awards.

Like Color . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

THE artist stands before his canvas with color-laden palette. Blues, greens, white and touches of warmer tones are blended by his inspired brush as the waves of the seascape take form. His genius tells him that only through the blending of just the right colors is the ideal result achieved. Otherwise his most painstaking effort could only result in a monotone, wholly lacking in brilliance.

Artistry and genius have their place in the making of CONOCO Gasoline. CONOCO engineers long since have found that the ideal gasoline is a balanced blend of the three types containing the elements most desired in a motor fuel. There is highly volatile Natural Gasoline, to give quick starting. There is Straight-run Gasoline, to give power and long mileage. There is Cracked Gasoline with its well-known anti-knock quality.

Like the artist with his colors, CONOCO refiners take these three types of gasoline in balanced proportions and blend them. The result is as pleasing to the car owner as is a Rembrandt to the art connoisseur. Of course the genius of "knowing how" is the vital element and it is here that CONOCO refiners excel.

Convince yourself of the merit of CONOCO Blended Gasoline. Try it today. You will find this triple-test motor fuel wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

TwentyGrand In Dazzling Workout

Timed in 1:38 2-5 for Mile and Becomes Preakness Choice.

Banner Crowd Sees Equipoise Speed Mile in 1:39 2-5.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 6.—Insofar as a workout can tell the story of the Preakness three days in advance, the speed flashed by the Greentree Stable's Twenty Grand at this course this morning should go a long way toward the solution of the big race Saturday.

Twenty Grand, with Marshall Lilly up, and 130 pounds in the saddle, was circling the hilltop course in one of the greatest trials ever seen here, before the largest crowd at the sidelines was fully aware what was taking place, and when the St. Germans colt easily made the mile in 1:38 2-5, he became the Preakness favorite. On he swept for a mile and a furlong in 1:51 2-5, finishing out the mile and a quarter in 2:05 3-5 pulled up.

Fractions of the Twenty Grand trial were: 0:23 1-5; 0:36; 0:49 2-5; 1:01 2-5; 1:13 3-5; 1:25 2-5; 1:38 2-5; 1:51 2-5; 2:05 3-5; eased up. Anchors Aweigh broke three lengths in front of Twenty Grand and went the mile and a quarter in 2:07.

Crowd Gives Equipoise Warm Welcome.

The largest crowd of the week was here today principally for the workout of C. V. Whitney's Preakness and Derby candidate between the first and second races. Shillick rode Equipoise, and there was a warm greeting for the colt when he stepped on the track, accompanied by Totem, Workman up. The work was good, but the star was hampered somewhat by the inability of Totem to keep up. The colt went a mile in 1:39 3-5, a mile and a furlong in 1:52 3-5 and went on for the mile and a quarter, the Derby distance, in 2:07 pulled up.

The horse broke at the eighth pole and skimmed the rail. When Workman began pulling up at the mile and an eighth Equipoise plied up a trifle tired, but the work was pronounced good.

Surf Board Works In 1:53 2-5.

Surf Board—McAtee is coming here to ride him in the Preakness—was brought out at 6 o'clock and worked a mile and an eighth in 1:53 2-5. James Rowe, Greentree Stable trainer, after the great trials of his charges, looked like a man in a poker game with four aces.

Surf Board's fractions were 0:24 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 0:59 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:53 2-5, taken in hand toward the latter part of the trial.

Seagram Stable's Soil Gills opened the eyes of many. He went along in 0:23 3-5, 0:35, 0:47 4-5, 1:00 3-5, 1:14, 1:27, 1:40 1-5, 1:52 3-5 and 2:06.

Cards Beat Bucs, 6-5, In 13th; Gelbert Star

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 6 (A.P.).—Gelbert, who tripled and then scored on a single by Martin in the thirteenth inning, gave St. Louis a 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh. Grimes and Meine fought it out on the mound, although Grimes left the scene in the last half of the thirteenth as Pinch Hiter Mosolf, batting for Meine, singled. Lindsey relieved Grimes and with Gelbert, saved the game. The latter came through with a fine assist in the Pirates half of the final inning with the bases loaded to bring the battle to a close.

Hunter Wins Woodmont Medal

Harry Pitt Unable to Make Top Flight With 82 Card.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE medal for low gross score in the qualification round of the Woodmont invitation golf tournament yesterday was won by J. Monro Hunter, jr., son of the professional of the Indian Spring Club, with a card of 38—36—74, five strokes over par, and one stroke lower than the 75 of Maj. E. A. Noyes, Army-Navy, which led the field last Tuesday, the first day of qualification.

Hunter, who is still mang the juniors, played consistently good golf. He lost a stroke by overplaying the sixth green and another stroke by hooking almost to the tennis courts on the ninth, but saved a stroke with a birdie 2 on the eighth. On his homeward journey a drive into the ditch on the fourteenth and a hooked iron shot on the seventeenth were errors that added two strokes, but he managed to secure a par on the eighteenth by playing out of a trap so close to the pin that he holed out with one putt.

Drive Off Fairway On Two Holes.

On only two holes, the sixteenth and the eighteenth, were Hunter's drives off the fairway, and he putted confidently and accurately throughout the round. His card:

Out ..... 4 4 5 4 4 6 4 2 5—38
In ..... 4 3 4 6 3 3 5 4 4—36—74

Other players from whom low scores were expected, including James G. Drain, the 20-year-old winner of the Washington Club tournament, and John C. Shorey, winner of the Woodmont event last year, fell by the wayside, Drain with 81 and Shorey with 79, eight 5s on the latter's card without a single birdie telling the story.

One of the unusual scores was made by Warren L. Heap, Manor, who, after going out in 41, piled up 10 strokes on the par 3 fifteenth hole, and then played the last four holes in par figures for a total of 87. Another odd card for the first nine was turned in by Richard H. Lunn, Burning Tree, as follows: 3 3 6 5 5 8 4 2 4—40.

Maj. Noyes Withdraws From Tourney.

The withdrawal of Maj. Noyes from the tournament left four players tied at 82 for two places in the first sixteen. John Rafferty, Georgetown University, not being present, was automatically placed in the second sixteen, leaving Harry G. Pitt, Manor; his brother, Thomas S. Pitt, Argyle, and Louis Fuchs, unattached, to fight for the coveted position.

Harry G. Pitt lost out when he played his second shot into a trap and was still in the trap with his third, after using a putter instead of a niblick, and holed out in 6. Tom Pitt survived with a par 4 and Fuchs with a 5. Scores as high as 93 qualified in the fourth and last sixteen, but C. A. Bennett, Congressional, lost out in the draw.

The pairings and times of play this morning are as follows:

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

IN 1337 King Alphonso IV died and Pedro I was crowned king of Portugal. His first thought on ascending the throne was to avenge the death of his wife, Inez de Castro, who had been killed by three assassins when Pedro was heir to the throne. After doing away with the assassins, Pedro amazed the country by ordering the body of his wife exhumed, and caused the celebration of a magnificent coronation ceremony at which the mummy was crowned queen of Portugal. Every religious and civil rite was observed, and after the weird ceremony Pedro ordered all those who would have rendered homage to the living queen to humbly kiss her hand. After this, Pedro had the body of Inez placed in a beautiful mausoleum at the monastery of Alcobaca, with all ceremony due a queen.

ROBINS BEAT GIANTS, 1-0, ON 4 HITS

Lombardi's Fly in 7th Decides Box Duel, Evens Series.

BROOKLYN, May 6 (A.P.).—A timely fly to the outfield by Ernie Lombardi, Brooklyn's big rookie catcher, provided the Robins with the only run of the game today as they defeated the Giants, 1 to 0, and squared their four-game series.

Lombardi's winning wallop came in the seventh, when he pinch hit for Babe Phelps, and brought Bressler home from third base. The Giants' closest approach to a score came in the same inning, when Leach tried to score from first on Terry's long double and was nipped at the plate.

The winners made only four hits off the combined delivery of Walker and Heving. Phelps held the Giants to 5 safeties.

Tigers Pound Chisox Pitchers to Win, 9-4

Detroit, May 6 (A.P.).—Detroit pounded three Chicago White Sox pitchers for eleven hits, including four doubles, to win today's game, 9 to 4, and take a 2-to-1 lead in the four-game series.

Roy Johnson, Detroit right fielder, got two doubles and drove in four runs. He also hit a single.

Tom Bridges started on the mound for the Tigers and was touched for all the Chicago hits. He was relieved by Art Herring in the eighth, after he had walked two men—his eighth and ninth—with none out. The White Sox errors helped the Tigers.

Richards, Priming for Tilden Match, Beats Doeg Four Sets

NEW YORK, May 6 (A.P.).—The two leading exponents of professional and amateur tennis in the United States met on the floor of the Seventeenth Regiment Armory today and the man who gets paid for his play won.

The two players were Vincent Richards, holder of the world's professional championship, and John Hope Doeg, the tall young Californian, who holds the United States amateur title. They played four sets and Richards won all. The scores were 6—0, 7—5, 6—1, 6—4.

Considerably heftier around the waistline than he was five years ago when he quit the ranks of the Simon Pures to tour with Suzanne Lenglen and Mary Browne, Richards still is light of foot and with a perfection of stroke that approaches the ultimate in tennis form.

The match was merely a tune-up practice for Richards' meeting Saturday night with William Tatum Tilden 2d, but Vinnie and Doeg whanged away at the ball as if it was a championship match at Forest Hills.

After his match with Doeg Richards played a two-set match with Berkeley Bell, winning 6—1, 6—1. Bell had not played for several weeks and was obviously in the need of more practice.

Slugger Gets Seventh Straight Hit in Defeat of Boston.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6 (A.P.).—Displaying their finest attack of the season, the Philadelphia Athletics today clubbed the Boston Red Sox into submission by a score of 10 to 3, winning the series, two games to one. The Mackmen batted three Red Sox pitchers for eighteen hits that included six doubles and two home runs.

Al Simmons made five hits for a perfect game at bat, running an unfinished string of consecutive safeties in two days to seven straight. Jimmy Foxx broke out of his prolonged slump with a home run and a double and Mickey Cochrane hit two singles and his third home run of the year.

Nats Acquire Scarritt of Red Sox

Outfielder Is Claimed on Waivers; Hitting Weak This Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Russell Scarritt, Boston Red Sox outfielder, has been claimed by the Nats on waivers and will join the Washington Team in Detroit for the opening game in the West tomorrow, Manager Walter Johnson announced tonight. Scarritt will leave directly from Philadelphia, where the Red Sox played today.

Scarritt, a left-handed hitter, has been acquired to bolster the reserve strength of his outfield, Manager Johnson said. He does not intend inserting him in the outfield immediately, but with Sam Rice and Sam West not in best condition, the new acquisition is scheduled to see action soon.

While with Boston during the seasons of 1929 and 1930 Scarritt failed to justify his hitting promise. With St. Paul in 1927 and 1928 he batted .33 and 3.54, respectively. His average last year was .294. In eleven games this season he has fallen down dismally at bat, with 6 hits in 39 ppearances for a puny average of .154. Scarritt, however, is regarded as one of the cleverest defensive outfielders in the league. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 162 pounds.

Nats Leave for Detroit Series.

Manager Walter Johnson and his charges hustled away from New York immediately after today's game, heading for Detroit, their first stop on their first 1931 invasion of the West. For a team with championship hopes, the Nationals have proven to be somewhat of a disappointment to date, but even with their mediocre play at intervals, they have managed to keep up close to the leaders and it would not have to be much of a spurt to put them at the head of the heap.

It was in the Western sector that the Nationals did their poorest work last season and, if the coming jaunt is not a successful one, they will have to do some mighty tall stepping thereafter to get back in the running.

"The dope has upset completely," they reason. "We didn't do as well in the East as we did last season, which means that we'll do better in the West than we did then. In other words, last year's doings are being just reversed."

Nats Need Right-Handed Pitching.

This may be the answer—for superstitious folks, at least—but the Nationals had better not pin their faith on such illogical reasons. What they need is for some of their right-handed flingers to round to form. If this happens, the Nats may simply breeze through the West, but it is a certainty that they can't do it if handicapped by the in and out pitching they have been getting from their squad of orthodox hurlers.

In order to speed up the return of form of Irving Hadley and "General" Alvin Crowder, Manager Johnson this morning decided to return Bryant Turner, who has been used as a batting practice pitcher, to the Hagerstown Club, and Crowder and Hadley have been told to work themselves back into condition on the hill in the pregame stick drills and not, as has been the case recently, at a cost of several lost games charged against the club in the standing.

Nats to Play 14 Games In West.

Fourteen games will be played by the Nationals on their swing through the "wild and woolly" sector. Tomorrow will be an off day, with a four-game set opening in Detroit on Friday. Lloyd Brown, who has lost several heart-breaking efforts, will draw the pitching assignment for the Nats in their first battle of the season with Bucky Harris' Tigers.

The series in the Ford city ends next Monday, and then come three games with the Indians in Cleveland, four with the Browns in St. Louis and three with the White Sox in Chicago. Instead of coming home, the Nats then hop to New York for a single game on Saturday, May 23; jump to Washington the following day for a Sabbath game with the Red Sox and the two teams then journey to Boston for four games. This brings the Nats home on May 29, an open date, and they open a long home stay the next day with a Memorial Day double-header with the Yankees.

As both teams have an open date on Monday, June 1, the Nats will hold over the Yankees for a game on that date, a play-off of the 14-inning tie staged in Griffith Stadium last April 28.

Benny Kauff, Under Landis Ban, Back in New York Seeking Job

NEW YORK, May 6 (A.P.).—Benny Kauff, the outfielder who was ruled out of baseball by Commissioner Landis a decade ago after a brief but sensational career, is back in New York—looking for a job.

"I could play ball again," the New York Sun today quoted him as saying, "but they won't let me. I'm only 42 years old and I'd like to swing on that lively ball, which is funnier than the ball we had in the old Federal League. But I know I never will, not as long as Landis is on the job. One jam—and I was through for life. But it's too late to holler 'foul' now.

"I never did anything wrong in baseball, although they tried to get me to. They tried to bribe me in Chicago and I went right to Matty (Christy Matthewson), who was my roommate, and told him about it. Never mind who tried to bribe me—I'm no squealer."

Kauff was barred from baseball after his trial on the charge of stealing an automobile, although he was acquitted by a jury on this accusation.

Kauff rose to stardom as an outfielder and heavy hitter with the Indianapolis and Brooklyn clubs, of the outlaw Federal League, in 1914-15. He was much sought after when this circuit broke up and was obtained by the New York Giants at a reported price of $30,000, a sensational figure at the time. His four years with the McGraw men were marked by erratic work and finally banishment.

Fischer Unable to Hold Two-Run Lead in First; Ruth Hits 3d Home Run

Lary, Cronin, Bluege Also Hit for Circuit in Slugfest.

Nats Pound Johnson Out in Fifth in Vain Bid for Tie.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, May 6.—In a game featured by four home runs and plenty of thrills, the Yankees gained the series edge over the Nationals here this afternoon by taking the odd game of the set of three by a 10-to-7 count. Among the fourbaggers was Babe Ruth's fourth of the season and No. 3 for Joe Cronin. Ossie Bluege and Lynn Lary, who also were credited with homers, do not have enough to start numbering them.

Each team used three pitchers, Johnson starting with Carl Fischer, and then calling on Fred Marberry and Lloyd Brown to finish. Henry Johnson, Phil Weinert and Roy Sherid toiled for the Yankees. The Nationals gave Fischer a two-run lead in the opener, but the Yankees went one to the good in the third and thereafter were always in the van, but mighty nervous on two occasions when the Nats pulled up to within a run of them.

The game came near putting Babe Ruth out of commission again, for he collided with Jimmy Reese in the third while chasing Manush's near Texas leaguer. The Babe was temporarily knocked out, but finally "shook it off" and remained in action until relieved by a pinch runner in the sixth.

Cronin's Homer Scores Manush.

With two dead, Manush coaxed a pass in the first and the Nats found themselves in a two-run lead when Cronin's looper down the left field foul line cleared the low wall guarding the stands by only a matter of inches.

Fischer could not stand prosperity, though, and the Yankees got these two runs back and another besides in the second canto. Chapman opened by singling past Cronin, Lazzeri walked, and later in the frame, Dickey and Johnson contributed doubles.

In the fifth, the Yankees doubled their total. Reese's opening double and Ruth's homer accounted for two of these runs, while Bluege presented them with the third. With one gone, Chapman singled and went all the way to third while Fischer was throwing out Lazzeri. Then Lary sent Bluege a high fly. The third-sacker, who missed one just like it in Washington against the Mackmen last Sunday, and who had been charged with an error in the second today by dropping a high foul off the Yank ahortstop's bat, ran in circles under this one and let it drop safely to the ground. It went as a hit, and Chapman, of course, scored.

West Barely Misses Homer On Foul.

West missed getting a homer in the right field stands by a small margin with one down in the sixth, the wind carrying the ball foul, and he then singled. Here Bluege atoned for his poor work by cracking out a homer into the left-field stands. Spencer walked and Bolton, up for Fischer, was safe on Gehrig's fumble. When Myer singled Spencer home with the third run of the round, Weinert replaced Joh

RED RONALD WINS PIMLICO FEATURE BY A LENGTH

Place Horse Carried Wide by Stablemate of Winner.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 6.—H. Tiller Archibald's Red Ronald won the Pimlico Graded Handicap class B, feature of the card here today. He beat Gay Pal by more than a length, while Inferno Lad was third and Minesweeper fourth. Just Believe was the other starter. The time was 1:12 3-5. The winner paid $8.50. J. Guerra had the mount.

Gay Pal was the favorite, and had top weight, 125 pounds, with Workman. He ran his race in the paddock. Inferno Lad stumbled and Gay Pal snapped at another horse in the running. Not content for the jockeys to fight on the track, the horses have begun it.

Two jockeys were suspended for the meeting for rough riding in the third race, Legere and McGinnis, who rode the two Seagram horses, which were disqualified after Solace had won.

The largest crowd of the week was here, many coming to see the workouts of Preakness horses. Favorites suffered in most of the races. The track was fast, but late in the day it grew cloudy.

Solace Loses Purse For Foul.

The Seagram Stable's Solace finished first in the Pimlico Graded Handicap, class A, but was disqualified. This also disqualified Seagram's Preakness candidate, Khorasan, which finished third. The action of the stewards gave the race to Golden Prince, former Coffroth Handicap winner, which finished a nose back of Solace. Sister Zoe got the place and Chlo Boy third.

The stewards held Solace ran Golden Prince too close on the far stretch and that Khorasan carried him wide at the turn. The winner, ridden by Kurtsinger, paid $7.70. Dark Hero, Preakness and Derby horse, notoriously a bad breaker, was left at the post. The time was the fastest of the meeting, 1:11 2-5.

Walter M. Jefford's Derby candidate, Ironclad, by Man o' War-Violet Mahoney, won the fourth race by two and a half lengths from Hurrybye, by the famous English horse, Hurry On and Valley Forge was third. Hurrybye is eligible for both the Preakness and Derby. Ironclad took the lead on the back stretch from Annapolitan, and drew away. Hurrybye became the contender. Miss Madelyn was virtually left. The winner paid $12.10. The time was 1:45 2-5 for a mile and 70 yards.

Fair Beth Outlasts Field in Second.

E. K. Bryson's Fair Beth, the favorite, won the second race, with Serio in the saddle, having a margin of a length at the finish. Very High was second and Snooty third. The time was 1:47 3-5 for a mile and one-sixteenth. Buddha was fourth and closed strong. Snooty set the pace from a good start, with Very High getting close on the first turn. Fair Beth moved up on the far turn and outlasted the field in the final drive. The winner paid $7.00.

LOCAL STICKMEN POINT.

Three times a week practice sessions are being staged in Potomac Park by the team representing the Washington Lacrosse Association, pending the opening of the season.

Present plans call for the initial contest to be played May 23 at Griffith Stadium against the 1928 Johns Hopkins Olympic team.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL ADVANCE (entry), $3.90, $2.70, $2.50; ZONDA, $3.80, $3.50; TOWEE, $10.30.

GENERAL ADVANCE, stoutly urged from start, raced SOUTH TOUR into early submission, saved a lot of ground entering the home stretch, withstood a stiff drive willingly and outstayed ZONDA. Latter, sent into a forward position at once, moved up with a bold challenge at final furlong pole and, with more energetic handling, would probably have won. TOWEE, always well up, showed a good turn of speed, but was under a steady restraint in the final quarter mile.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:16. Winner, G. Bryson's ch. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR BETH, $7.00, $5.00, $3.30; VERY HIGH, $14.80, $6.70; SNOOTY, $3.80.

FAIR BETH, outrun to the first turn, was shuffled back, worked his way up on the outside, closed with a rush when straightened out in home stretch and, wearing VERY HIGH down, was up in the final strides. VERY HIGH had a lot taken out of him racing SNOOTY into submission, but weakened after shaking off the latter at top of home stretch. SNOOTY, hard ridden all the way, broke fast and saved ground at all the turns.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:51½. Winner, A. Bartelstein's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLDEN PRINCE, $7.70, $4.50, $3.50; SISTER ZOE, $15.60, $9.00; CHLO BOY, $5.50.

SOLACE was rated off the pace the first half mile and, saving ground entering home stretch, slipped through on inside, stood a long hard drive in game fashion and just lasted long enough to stall off GOLDEN PRINCE. Latter, slow to begin, gradually improved his position, closed with a good burst of speed on the outside. KHORASAN set a very fast pace first half mile, but tired in last furlong. CHLO BOY ran out at top of home stretch. Kurtsinger claimed a foul and it was allowed. The officials claimed that GOLDEN PRINCE was interfered with by the winner at the far turn.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Reistertown. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:35. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IRONCLAD, $12.10, $8.30, $5.50; HURRY BYE, $7.00, $6.10; VALLEY FORGE, $11.40.

IRONCLAD went to the front in the run down the back stretch and drew away into a long lead rounding the far turn and held his opposition safe remainder of journey. HURRY BYE, in close quarters rounding first turn, was taken to the outside on back stretch and moved up stoutly. He hung after going half a mile and Coltiletti began working on him rounding the far turn. He was driving hard at the end to stall off VALLEY FORGE. Latter finished gamely under punishment. MARGARET MC was shuffled back at first turn.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class B. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:05. Off at 5:10. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RED RONALD, $8.50, $3.60, $3.20; GAY PAL, $3.10, $2.40; INFERNO LAD, $3.00.

RED RONALD, showing a good turn of speed, drew away from his opposition and opened up a commanding lead rounding the far turn. He was tiring at end and had to be ridden out to stall off GAY PAL'S rush at the end. Latter, outpaced in early stages, raced on the outside entire trip. He lunged over and attempted to savage INFERNO LAD at sixteenth pole. Latter moved up stoutly coming into home stretch but weakened right at the end. JUST BELIEVE tired badly and was eased up.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Govans. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:44. Off at 5:48. Winner, K. E. Hitt's blk. g. (5), by Sun Briar—Olga Virginia. Trained by T. Rodrock. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:38 4-5, 1:43 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUNVIR, $3.30, $2.80, $2.30; CHATTY, $4.40, $3.00; ESSARE, $3.20.

Watters rode a very confident race on SUNVIR. He kept him under restraint until rounding the far turn, where he moved up stoutly and easily disposed of CHATTY in the stretch run. Latter, showing lot of speed, drew away into a commanding lead after passing the half-mile pole, but tired when the winner challenged. ESSARE, very slow to find his foot, was hustled along most of the trip.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class C. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:21. Off at 6:22. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ONE CENT, $25.90, $9.20, $4.80; NAE BREEKS, $14.30, $9.70; SKID, $3.90.

ONE CENT, away fast, drew clear in the first furlong, saved ground and, holding on with good courage, withstood NAE BREEKS. Latter, kept forwardly placed, made a determined bid at third furlong pole and was slowly wearing the winner down. SKID, slow to get going, moved up fast leaving the back stretch, but could not menace the leaders in the final drive. SUNEROS, well up from the start, finished with good energy. ROCKSLIDE closed a good gap. SUN MEDDLER was messed about from the start. He finished wide. REDOUBTABLE stopped.

Schoolboy Aces Enter Princeton Net Play

The pick of the local and nearby scholastic tennis players will participate in the annual Princeton University invitation tournament it was seen yesterday when Western, Devitt and Episcopal sent in the names of their representatives. The tournament will be run off Friday and Saturday of this week at Princeton.

Jackie Lynham, of Western; Leonard Nicholson and Ricky Willis, of Devitt, and the Taylor twins of Episcopal, make up the local representation. They plan to leave Friday.

MILBURN BLANKS PRINCETON AS MARYLAND WINS

Tigers Beaten, 8-0; Held To 6 Hits

Chalmers and Berger Share Limelight With Hurler.

Princeton Nine Guilty of Seven Errors in Poor Showing.

Special to The Washington Post.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 6.—With Harry Milburn in rare form, his teammates' batting eyes in apple pie order, the University of Maryland had an easy time in taking the measure of Princeton here today, the Southern nine coming out on top by the score of 8 to 0.

Princeton was unable to solve the offerings of Milburn, the best Harry Hooper's men could do being to gather six scattered hits, while the visitors collected nine of timely variety. Hooper started Ted Moles on the mound and withdrew him in the fourth in favor of Wes Weltman.

Tigers put up a very ragged game of ball, committing no less than seven errors. Chalmers and Berger were the shining lights for Maryland. Only two Princeton players reached third during the game and one of them was nipped at the plate trying to score.

Old Liners Score At Start.

The visitors broke in the scoring column in the opening frame and made it two up in the second, on a walk, single and error. Airtight ball prevailed until the fifth inning, when the Maryland nine went to work on Princeton for two more runs, in which four Princeton errors played a prominent part in the inning.

Once again the ball game settled down to an interesting affair, with both nines playing scoreless ball. However, in the ninth inning Princeton blew up, and the parade was on for the extent of four runs. Wes Weltman had been pitching good ball up to this frame, when the Southern batters went to work on him, aided by the locals' errors.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 6.—Twenty golf events are scheduled for members of the Belle Haven Golf and Country Club for the 1931 season, it was announced today by the golf committee, T. E. Sebrell, jr., chairman; W. J. Waller and J. Randall Caton.

On Saturday, May 16, the Belle Haven twelve-man team will take part in the first Tri-State tournament. This event will be held over the Alexandria links. Clubs in the Tri-State this year are Winchester, Purcellville, Martinsburg and Alexandria.

The officers of the Tri-State Association are: Donald L. Weems, Winchester, president; T. E. Sebrell, jr., Alexandria, vice president, and Charles Campbell, Martinsburg, W. Va., secretary-treasurer.

The second Tri-State tourney will be held at Purcellville, Va., on June 13; third at Martinsburgh, W. Va., on June 27, and the final at Winchester, Va., on July 11. Handsome trophies will be awarded the winning team after each tourney.

Tentative plans for a home-to-home golf tourney with the Winchester Golf and Country Club are pending. It is proposed to have the first engagement in Alexandria on July 25 and the second at Winchester, September 12.

On September 26 to October 3, the Men's Club championships will be featured. The semifinals in the championship tourney will be played on October 14 and the finals, 36 holes, on October 18.

The annual Gazette handicap tourney is listed for 18 holes, medal play, and will be featured on Saturday, May 30, Memorial Day. A trophy will go to the winner of the low gross score and also the winner of the low net score. This tourney is expected to attract many entries.

The Belle Haven Bowl will be up for competition from July 1 to 4. This trophy must be won three times to become the permanent possession of a member. Qualification rounds will feature in this play. It is announced by the committee that the tourney will end on July 19.

An 18-hole handicap tournament to win the prize offered by the Lindsey-Nicholson Corporation will be held on Saturday, June 20. While the president's cup, handicap play, will feature on September 5 and 6, 36 holes, medal play, with club handicaps, will apply.

A team of twelve players to represent the Belle Haven Club in tristate competition will be selected by the golf committee from players with the low handicaps. Chairman Sebrell states the team players will be announced within the next ten days.

Tom Ryan is professional of the Belle Haven Club. He has the links in great condition and predicts 1931 will be the best season ever for golf activities at the local organization.

Austin, Mrs W. C Mansfield

ST. JOHN NETMEN WIN.

St. John's tennis team improved its status in the prep school net league yesterday at Friends School by taking their hosts into camp by the margin of five matches to none. The result came as a surprise, since Friends had taken a 3-2 decision over the Cadets when the two schools met earlier in the league.

The feature match of the day brought together Buchanan and O'Boyle, respective No. 1 players, with the decision going to Buchanan, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Singles—Buchanan (S. J.) defeated O'Boyle, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4; Smith (S. J.) defeated Austin, 6—3, 6—2; Jones (S. J.) defeated Robertson, 6—2, 6—4. Doubles—Buchanan and Smith defeated O'Boyle and Austin, 6—2, 7—5; Jones and Scheele defeated Robertson and Clark, 6—0, 6—2.

Business Nine Bows To Alexandria, 10-5

Alexandria High's Baseball Team scored a 10-5 victory over Business High yesterday afternoon in a game which was started on the Ellipse and finished on diamond No. 4 at the Monument. The game was featured by wholesale errors.

Alexandria broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning, after the game was changed to diamnod No. 1, by scoring three runs, greatly aided by Business' errors.

Business played without the services of Mastromarino, regular catcher; Jacobson, shortstop; Frayden and Esenstadt, outfielders, all of whom failed in their studies during the last advisory. Fratantuono and Flynn, regular outfielders, were also absent.

Lighted Tennis Courts Due Here Next Week

Work on the reinstallation of the floodlights bordering the tennis courts and miniature golf course at the Monument Grounds will start today, it was announced yesterday by the Welfare and Recreation Association. The lights will be put in operation the first part of next week.

For the remainder of the month the lights will be turned on at sunset and off at 10:30 o'clock. Next month the hours will be from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Net Tourney Blanks To Be Issued Today

Entry blanks for the annual City of Washington tennis championships will be issued today by the committee of the Washington Lawn Tennis Association in charge. Blanks may be secured at Spalding's, the Tennis Shop or at the ticket booths near the public courts. The committee will circulate blanks to local colleges, high schools and preparatory institutions.

Championships in five classes are at stake: Men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

The Jock McLean Trophy, emblematic of the men's singles championship of the city, will be at stake, as will the D. C. Crain Trophy, the prize awaiting the women's singles champion. Bob Considine is holder of the McLean prize, while the Crain bowl is held by Josephine Dunham.

TO GIVE OUT PRIZES.

The Washington Ladies' Duckpin Bowling League will distribute prizes to its winners Friday night at 8 o'clock at a meeting of the league to be held at Columbia. Election of officers is also on the docket.

Insco Regains Backers After Speedy Workout

Louisville, May 6 (A.P.).—Insco, hope of the West for the Kentucky Derby until defeated last Saturday at Churchill Downs by Pittsburgher, made such a great showing in today's workouts that his followers were ready to pin their faith on him again.

The bay colt was given a speed trial for five eighths of a mile, which he covered in 0:59 4-5 seconds. He was caught at the quarter in 0:23 1-5 and the half in 0:47 flat. It was the best showing of the day.

Pittsburgher also was given a workout, but was not pressed. His time was clocked at the half in 0:49 2-5 and at three-quarters in 1:15 2-5.

Spanish Play, who came second to Pittsburgher last Saturday, was sent over the mile in 0:49 1-5, 1:15 3-5 and 1:42 3-5. He then galloped out another eighth in 1:57.

Don Leon was breezed over a mile in 0:26 2-5, 0:52 3-5, 1:20 3-5 and 1:46 3-5.

Sandlotter Hurls No-Hit Game in Minor Debut

High Point, N. C., May 6 (A.P.).—Ivan (Lefty) Young, 20-year-old High Point sandlotter, had a regular job with the High Point Piedmont League Club today.

He got a tryout against the Raleigh Capitals, the league leaders, yesterday, and convinced Dan Boone, Pointer manager, with a no-hit game, that he should join the regulars. Only three men reached first base, all on errors, and the Pointers won, 4 to 0.

STAUNTON BOY HONORED.

TECH BEATEN IN TRACK MEET

Maryland Cubs Win, 74-43; Piggott in Hero Role.

THE Maryland freshmen vanquished Tech High, of Washington, 74 to 43, in a track and field meet yesterday at College Park.

Superiority on the track in which the yearlings scored 41 points to 22 for Tech was the deciding factor. In the field events Tech made a decidedly better showing, counting 21 points to 33 for the Old Liners.

Piggott, who counted 13 points, was the leading scorer. He broke the University of Maryland record in winning the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.1 seconds. The previous mark was held by Ed Pugh and Leroy Sheriff at 16.2. Piggott tied the record in the recent meet with the Catholic University freshmen. Piggott also won the 220-yard low hurdles and was second in the javelin.

VIRGINIA NINE TRAVELS.

Charlottesville, May 6.—Virginia's baseball team leaves tonight to play Tri-State League contests with N. C. State and North Carolina tomorrow and Friday, and an extra game with the Tarheels on Saturday in Greensboro.

The Cavalier Nine is especially anxious to redeem past misfortunes on the diamond by winning these games in Carolina, especially the last two contests in the series with the charges of Coach Ashmore from Chapel Hill. The Carolina-Virginia baseball series dates back to 1891.

PRIMO CITES 9 CONTEST DEFENSES

Asserts Contract With Garden Is Illegal in Affidavit.

NEW YORK, May 6 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, and his managers, William Duffy and Leon See, filed affidavits in Federal Court today in answer to the plea of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois for an injunction restraining the Italian from boxing Jack Sharkey at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, June 10. Hearing on the injunction is scheduled for Friday morning in Federal court here.

Carnera, in his reply to the claim that he had been signed by the Garden January 13, 1931, for a September match with the winner of the Max Schmeling-Stribling bout in Cleveland, July 3, set up nine defenses. See, in his affidavit, quoted Federal Statutes which declared prize fighting illegal under penalty of five years' imprisonment and asked to be excused from the agreement on this and other grounds.

Carnera, See and Duffy admitted an agreement was reached for Carnera to box the Schmeling-Stribling winner, but all held that the contract now is not binding.

Chief among Carnera's defenses was his claim he was not informed that both Stribling and Schmeling were suspended in New York State and that it was illegal for him to enter into a contract to fight either of them here. He also charged the whole transaction was a subterfuge and the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois a "dummy" corporation through which the New York Garden completed a transaction that otherwise would have violated New York State athletic commission rules.

He said that forfeits called for under the contract had not been posted and there was no guarantee to him that either Schmeling or Stribling would agree to meet him in the ring. The Illinois Madison Square Garden Corporation itself was illegal, he said, in that its president, William Saxe, is a New York resident while the laws of Illinois definitely require that all officers of fight promotion corporations be legal residents of the State of Illinois.

STETSON WALKS THE FIRST TEN MILES!

Style 1084—On the Kenmore last with custom type toe. In black calf—also carried in brown calf. $12.50

A man is only as good as his feet. Youth crumbles at the foundation, not at the top. Why, then, should you, craving and utilizing all the silken amenities of life, endure periodic agonies of "breaking in" new shoes and a slow-up in your pace when it's all so unnecessary? You can step into a Stetson Shoe Shop today and into a PRE-WALKED shoe. You can cover the next ten miles without raising a blister, pain or pang. All because Stetson has wrought a comfort revolution . . . softened, flexed and limbered the fine imported leathers in its marvelous system of progressive shoe assembly. Machines, and not man, do the "breaking in." A master idea in shoe craftsmanship, yes . . . but what a blessing on your feet, so vital to your success! What size, Sir?

And the folks will tell you that Chesterfield won them and continues to win smokers on its unvarying and dependable good smoking quality. Mild, ripe, choice tobaccos, mellowed by natural ageing, are blended and cross-blended to give to Chesterfield smoke an aroma, flavor, and smoothness that is just what smokers want. No mere claims will stand up against genuine quality, and more and more Chesterfield smokers are proving this for themselves every day.

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

STOCK MARKET HIT BY CREDIT CHANGES

Steel Drops Lowest Since 1924; Professional Selling Features Dealings.

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Changes in the credit markets rather than on the stock exchange furnished the outstanding financial developments today.

Share trading was highly professional and attracted attention chiefly because bears succeeded in driving U. S. Steel to the lowest price since 1924, not allowing for the stock dividend in 1927, and American Can to a new minimum for the year. The general list acted indifferently in the face of these industrials' weakness, dragging along with such lethargy that shorts covered toward the close. Final prices averaged fractionally higher. Sales totaled 1,500,000 shares.

Another reduction in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's bill buying rate and cuts by dealers were followed by a lowering of the rediscount rate by the reserve banks of Boston and Philadelphia. This, of course, revived discussion as to whether the local bank, whose bill rate is now ⅞ of 1 per cent under the rediscount figure, will follow suit at tomorrow's meeting of the directors.

Aims of Cheap Money.

It is apparent that one of the immediate aims of a cheaper money program would be the extension of aid to the investment market, where the conditions are none too favorable for new financing, either domestic or foreign.

Lower rates here would also tend to force money to centers where it is needed, both in this country and abroad. The effect on the stock market would probably be relatively unimportant, since funds have long been available on very favorabe terms.

Steel's low was 110¾, down 3½, so that it finally broke the minimum touched in 1927 after the 40 per cent stock dividend was deducted from the quotation. On the rally Steel came back to 112¼ for a net loss of 1⅜. American Can made virtually a complete recovery of a 2⅝-point loss.

Prominent shares gaining from a fraction to about a point net included American Telephone, General Electric, Anaconda, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and Radio. Rails were steady to firm with the exception of Canadian Pacific, which anticipated the dividend action by selling into new low territory. Shell Union Oil preferred was weak. That company's earnings statement, published after the close, showed substantial deficits for 1930 and the first quarter of this year.

Ingot Production Drops.

The steel reviews reported a moderate decline in ingot production. Iron Age estimating activity at 47 per cent of capacity against 48 a week ago. Favorable aspects noted by that publication included the April gain in pig iron output, sustained improvement in the automobile industry, better demand for pipe and indications that greater resistance to the downward seasonal trend was appearing. Early estimates on U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage statement, to be published Saturday, mentioned a probable reduction of 75,000 to 100,000 tons.

The strongest commodity was corn, which rose 1 to 2⅝ cents on the lower temperatures in the Southwest. Wheat improved nominally in response to bullish Canadian weather and hail damage in Kansas. Cotton again followed stocks, closing 8 to 14 points higher on a late rally.

Sterling cables responded to the cut in bill rates here by making a new 1931 high. Other foreign currencies were slightly mixed.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 6 (A.P.).—Corn took the lead in the grain markets today and scored a brisk advance that overcame a laggard tendency of other cereals. Cold, wet weather, a big hindrance to corn planting, did much to stimulate buyers. Eastern interests trying to purchase corn for immediate use found that the grain was tightly held and that apparently beyond question the future delivery market had been oversold.

Corn closed buoyant at the day's top level, 1 cent to 2½ higher, wheat unchanged to ¾ up, oats ⅝@⅞ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

A large share of the increased buying which accompanied the jump in corn prices came from previous speculative sellers who discovered that they had overreached themselves. Adding to eagerness of buyers was announcement that corn primary arrivals were meager, totaling but 428,000 bushels, against 734,000 a week ago, and 596,000 at this time last year, with today's primary receipts barely half as much as the shipments. Another source of anxiety to corn bears was the fact that offerings of corn to fill May delivery contracts were especially scarce.

Preceding the development of strength in the corn market, absence of wheat buying had a temporary bearish effect on all grains. Winter wheat crop prospects were flattering, about the only flaw in the outlook being too rank growth in some sections southwest. Bears contended that selling pressure on wheat would increase as the time drew nearer for the beginning of the 1931 domestic harvest, and that supplies on hand were too large to permit much leeway for bulls. Virtual absence of export business in North American wheat was also noted, and stop loss selling at Liverpool on account of a large offering of Russian wheat.

Corn strength, however, dominated every one of the grain pits at the finish. Forecasts of fair, warm weather in Canada pointing to drought continuance were a subordinate bullish factor. Oats were helped by a better cash demand.

Provisions were responsible to upturns of big values and gains.

BONDS HOLD STEADY IN NARROW TRADING

Market Is Quiet, Recording Sales of $9,316,000; Rails Are Firm.

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—The bond market wavered back and forth narrowly today and closed steady. Activity increased moderately. Sales totaled $9,316,000, compared with $8,835,600 on Tuesday. Nevertheless, the trading in most groups was quiet throughout the day. Really active issues were few.

Foreign obligations provided most of the wide changes. German 5½s were one of the most active issues of the group, and reflected selling pressure, but recovered most of their loss by the close. Cables from Berlin attributed recent weakness in German internal bonds to governmental financing. Kreguer & Toll 5s and United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland 5½s of 1937 were more active than usual, and closed firm.

Greater interest appeared in railroad obligations, many of which showed temporary firmness. Outstanding strength appeared in the refunding 4½s, the Illinois Division 3½s of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Northern Pacific series D 5s. Atchison General 4s, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4¾s, New York Central 4½s of 2013, Delaware & Hudson Refunding 4s and Pennsylvania General 4½s closed with slight gains. A number of rail issues eased off, however, so that the group as a whole made little progress. Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 were active and easy throughout the session.

Price movement in most other domestic corporate obligations were of the narrowest proportions. Dealers reported that the trading in the over-counter-market continued dull except in the better grade of rail issues.

Loans of the United States Government closed with small irregular gains after quiet trading. In view of the recent increase in outstanding short-term government debt and substantial premiums which outstanding bonds command there is beginning to be some discussion of the possibility of long-term financing in the next few months.

BANKER CHIEF SEES END OF TRADE ILLS

Rome Stephenson Declares Business Will Improve at Early Date.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Broadcasting from this city last night, President Rome C. Stephenson, American Bankers Association, declared that the worst of the depression is over, and the time is at hand when the country really can begin to reconstruct its economic life.

Speaking on "Saving Your Future," Mr. Stephenson said he could not conscientiously predict that the return of prosperity was actually in sight, but he did feel that the general situation had taken a turn for the better.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Stephenson laid particular stress on the necessity for saving by the individual, expressing the belief that the best way to build for the Nation as a whole a stronger economic situation was through the structure of individuals working, earning and saving.

Saving Is Urged.

"Saving a goodly part of their earnings above what the daily requirements of life compel them to spend is the only way the great mass of workers can make permanent and secure for themselves a part of the fruits of their work and earnings," he said.

"Saving is not hoarding. Money rightly saved is not idle. It is put to work creating out of the industry of today security for the future. We hear often the cry those days of 'Spend more!' Savings, insurance, investments—all three of these are splendid ways to spend more."

Anticipating the approach of hot weather, a train entirely air-cooled and air-purified will be placed in service on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad about May 20, for the first time on any rail system.

The train to be air-conditioned is the "Columbian," running between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. All of its equipment, consisting of a smoking lounge car, observation sun-room car, latest type parlor cars, individual seat coaches and colonial dining car, will be equipped with the air-purifying system, both east and west bound.

Device Purifies Air.

The apparatus not only regulates the temperature of the air but also controls the humidity and purifies the air, cleansing it of all particles of dust, cinders and smoke. The air is circulated without creating drafts.

The temperature is automatically controlled by a thermostat and the apparatus functions both while the train is running and when it is standing still.

Clyde H. Miller, heating engineer, associated with Rome Radiation Co., was elected a director of Washington Permanent Building Association yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders to succeed the late Henry H. Bergmann. All other officers and directors of the association, which recently celebrated its fift'eth anniversary, were reelected.

They are: E. J. Sacks, president; John Henderson, vice president; C. J. Bergmann, treasurer; Hermann H. Bergmann, secretary; John Waldman, C. Ramling, John H. Clipper, James R. Ellis, C. Chester Caywood, Max Walten, Joseph N. Saunders, directors.

Dodge President to Speak.

Truman S. Morgan, president F. W. Dodge Corporation and American vice president of the Interantional Federation of Building & Public Works Contractors, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Associated General Contractors of America tomorrow night. His subject will be "Selling Construction to Federal, State, Municipalities, Public Utilities and Private Owners."

Contractors from all parts of the United States are in attendance at the spring meeting of the association, which is being held in the Washington Hotel and which is to cover tomorrow and Saturday.

The first issue of a monthly current business survey published by District National Bank is now in circulation. It is a well prepared and edited publication.

The Manor Club has been selected as the place for the annual meeting of the Bond Club of Washington May 22, according to anouncement yesterday.

Firm Buys $1,000,000 Of Stutz Motor Stock

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6 (A.P.).—E. S. Gorrell, president of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of America, Inc., announced today that L. L. Harr & Co., investment bankers, New York City, have purchased more than $1,000,000 of the common stock of the organization.

Mr. Gorrell also said the company, by keeping pace with the dealer requirements and avoiding overproduction, had been able in the last twelve months to retire $193,000 of its bonds and provided for its annual sinking fund requirement on the bond issue to October 1, 1932.

Listed Stocks in April Drop $4,866,406,010

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—The market value of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange declined $4,866,406,010 in April to a total of $48,469,988,485 as of May 1.

The drop in the value of listed securities was the sharpest decline since last November, when the drop was a little more than $5,000,000,000. It reduces the total value of all listed shares to the lowest since 1927, despite the large increase in listings in that period.

Reynolds Tobacco Firm Elects Clay Williams

Winston-Salem, N. C., May 6 (A.P.).—S. Clay Williams today was elected president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. at a meeting of the board of directors here. He succeeds Bowman Gray, who was made chairman of the board. Mr. Williams has been chief counsel for the tobacco company for several years.

Mr. Gray succeeds W. N. Reynolds as chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Reynolds requested that he not be reelected, and he was made chairman of the board's executive committee. Vice presidents elected were James A. Gray, T. H. Kirk, Hanes Lassiter and C. W. Harris, all of Winston-Salem.

LEWIS SAYS FOREIGN LOANS DRAIN NATION

Extension of Liberty Bonds Second Suggestion to Relieve Taxes.

Chicago, May 6 (A.P.).—Senator James Hamilton Lewis proposed tonight that the United States cease lending money to foreign governments and extend the time for paying off Liberty bonds in an effort to relieve the "burden" of the American taxpayer.

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the Chicago Bar Association, Senator Lewis pointed to a Treasury deficit which he said amounts to approximately $1,000,000,000 and to Liberty bonds of $3,000,000,000 due in 1931.

"This situation," he said, "now threatens to work a tax and drain on the American of such proportions as to bankrupt his business, destroy his credit, close down his establishments and lock the gates of his manufactures.

"We ask—what profiteth a free government if in its privileges it ravages its business creator, and impoverishes its breadwinners—merely to be heralded as the richest monied nation in the world. Such an oppressive result weaves for itself the show of communism and anarchy and threatens the loss of the soul of America."

To remedy the situation, Senator Lewis suggested that the Nation and its financiers stop lending money to foreign governments.

He proposed that in case of real need on the part of an appealing nation, this country advance the supplies which otherwise would have been bought with American money.

"Thus we supply the wants, we keep our money and contribute trade to our home people," he said. "As these supplies come only from our surplus, we can wait for the payment for these."

Senator Lewis further proposed that the United States "cut off and cut away the excess billion of taxes caused by the superfluous Government machinery and political bureaus."

Red Cross Anniversary Draws Original Member

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross has found one "original member" to help celebrate its golden anniversary. Not one of the 51 persons who signed its constitution 50 years ago has responded to the Red Cross appeal for surviving founders. But a charter member of the first Red Cross chapter has reported and received a special invitation to attend the anniversary banquet here April 21.

He is Dr. Benjamin P. Andrews, of Dansville, N. Y., where the first Red Cross chapter was formed, winning for that town the distinction to be one of two postoffices to be accorded first sale of the Red Cross commemoration stamp. The other is Washington, where the national organization was formed.

Wife Burned as Cleaner Used Becomes Ignited

Mrs. Anna Silverman, 29, of 1923 Benning road northeast, sustained burns about the hands and face yesterday, afternoon when clothing she was cleaning with gasoline suddenly burst into flames.

Neighbors heard Mrs. Silverman's screams, and investigating, called fire apparatus and the Casualty Hospital ambulance, which took the young woman to the hospital. After treatment she returned home. Other fire damage was confined to the kitchen by responding firemen. Joseph Silverman, husband of the burned woman, said the damage would total about $50.

Merrick and Aguilar To Address Air Group

Lieut. Louis M. Merrick, operations manager of Bolling Field, and Col. Francisco J. Aguilar, military attache of the Mexican Embassy, will speak on aeronautical progress at a meeting of the International Air Legion on Tuesday night at Hamilton Hotel.

Lieut. Merrick, who has just returned from an 8,500-mile cross-country flight, will speak on aviation progress in other sections of the country. Col. Aguilar will speak on international air commerce.

Mrs. Longworth Goes To Home at Cincinnati

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth has personally answered many hundreds of condolences sent her on the death of her late husband, Speaker Nicholas Longworth, and has acknowledged all of the thousands received. More than 2,000 telegrams and a far greater number of letters went to her.

For more than two weeks she has been here quietly arranging her affairs and having removed from the Speaker's office the personal belongings of her late husband. She planned to return last night to Cincinnati to spend the remainder of the spring with her daughter, Paulina, who is in school there.

Equipment Firm Fails.

Philadelphia, May 6 (A.P.).—A receiver in equity was appointed today for Hale & Kilburn Co., car makers and manufacturers of automobile, motor bus and trolley car equipment. Trustees for the holders of the outstanding $894,000 bonds of an original issue of $2,000,000, instituted suit because the company had failed to pay instalment interest of $26,820 due June 1, last. The bill of particulars did not give liabilities and assets of the company.

$185 in Jewelry Stolen.

Joseph Friedman, of 5425 Thirty-ninth street northwest, reported to police yesterday that his home had been entered and jewelry valued at $185 stolen.

CHAMBER TO STUDY WORLD AND PLANS

conflicting opinions can be brought close enough together to find expression in a general statement concurred in by all, though that statement fails to give the complete views of any group.

The matter was being threshed out in scores of conferences yesterday, including gatherings of delegates on the Charles Macalester, which carried most of the delegates and their guests to Mount Vernon after a lunch which followed the plenary session of the chamber in the morning.

The threatened battle over Russia seemed dead yesterday. Mr. Strawn expressed the opinion that delegates would not desire to bring the matter up for discussion at the group meeting, which is to be held at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. This is the meeting which was ended without completing the programs Tuesday because of the precipitation of a discussion over silver.

Silver Issue Discussed.

Silver came in for a brief mention yesterday, when George C. McDonald, executive chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Montreal, made an invitation to delegates to visit his country the occasion for a reply to the charges made Tuesday by S. R. Bomanji, head of the delegates from India, that England was making political use of silver to the harm of his people.

"We find," Mr. McDonald said, "that Canada is not an inconsiderable factor in world overproduction. In this regard we have specialized in wheat and newsprint, and we have also done our share in copper and silver. I listened to a speech yesterday which indicated that the trouble with silver was a political one. We believe that it is an economic one, and along with Australia we feel a little more responsible for it than our mother country."

China and India want the chamber to urge the calling of an international conference to deal with the problems threatening the demonetization of silver.

Tariff Is Defended.

The plenary session of the chamber yesterday heard a forthright defense of the American tariff law by Wallace B. Donham, dean of the graduate school of business administration of Harvard University, who predicted that there would be no departure from the American tariff policy for a long time to come.

"In my judgment," he said, "our problem of stabilization at home is impossible of solution, except through our protected home markets. The future of this country, in my opinion, lies in the development of its home markets. There is no chance of destroying the stability of our social groups by reducing the standards of living. If this country did reduce its standards of living, it would become, indeed, a dangerous competitor in the world markets."

Application of American principles of mass production to other countries, Dean Donham said, would not work out so well because of differing conditions and purchasing habits of the populations in stratified societies.

Wage Problem Studied.

There has been a constant hammering throughout the session at the American theory that high wages must be maintained, and Aloyse Meyer, of Luxemburg, Germany, president of the European steel cartel, made another attack yesterday.

There was a difference between what he called real wages and nominal wages Mr. Meyer said. Real wages represented what could be purchased with money paid workers, and to introduce into Europe the American principle of high nominal wages would be hazardous, he said. What is important to the wage earner is what he can get with his wages, and not the amount of money he receives.

Germany and England adopted the principle of high wages following the war, but they have the largest number of unemployed persons in Europe, Mr. Meyer said, adding: "Without pretending that their depression is the exclusive result of high wages, nevertheless it can not be denied that they have been important contributing factors."

High Wages Attacked.

America has exceeded the limit in high wages, and that is the reason for the demand of American industries fora high tariff wall against goods of other countries, he said.

Sir Arthur Salter, who formerly was director of the economic and financial section of the League of Nations, forwarded from the Orient a criticism of the high United States tariff.

The influence of the League of Nations against high tariff barriers had been limited because its influence was limited primarily to Europe, while it "is in the other continent" that the "great new increase of tariff has been witnessed," Sir Arthur said. Attributing the prosperity of the United States to its great volume of domestic business unhindered by tariff barriers, he asked:

"Is it not obvious that this provision has increased the prosperity not only of the whole but of every constituent State? Is it not equally clear that the wider the extension of the same principle, the greater would be the extension of similar benefits?"

Employment Control Urged.

Regularization of employment was urged by Gerard Swope, of New York, president of the General Electric Co. Industry is belatedly beginning to recognize its responsibility to maintain employment on a steady basis, he said. The more nearly that is accomplished the less need there will be for unemployment insurance and for relief for unemployed through taxation and charity, neither of which were effective nor the desirable thing, he said.

Mass production has not been responsible for the crisis in German industry, according to Oskar Sempell, of the executive committee of the German Steel Cartel. More employes would have been used under the old methods of production, but the cost of production would have been so much higher that Germany's doors would have been forced open to foreign competition, which would have resulted in even greater unemployment.

The chamber will meet in plenary session at 9:45 o'clock this morning to consider topics under the head of international economic relations, including merchandising and distribution and agriculture. Some resolutions may also be considered in the session. The afternoon will be devoted to group meetings, one of which will deal with international settlements and movements of capital, in the course of which important statements are expected.

Gasoline Price Cut.

Chicago, May 6 (A.P.).—The sinclair Refining Co. today reduced the retail price of its third-grade gasoline from 8¼ cents to 8 cents in the metropolitan area. Other large companies recently began selling low-priced gasoline to meet competition from independent filling stations, but the 5-cent rate was the lowest on record for a major company.

Newfoundland Imports Drop.

St. John's Newfoundland, May 6 (A.P.).—Imports into Newfoundland from the United States fell from $1,618,534 in January and February, 1930, to $893,505 in the corresponding period this year. Newfoundland's exports to the United States, mainly newsprint, were $1,426,285, against $1,288,579 for January and February, 1930.

Gasoline Price Reduced.

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has reduced the tank wagon and service station price of gasoline one-half cent a gallon, effective today. The reduction applies to the company's entire territory, with the exception of Delaware.

Dempsey to Promote Baer Bout at Reno

San Francisco, May 6 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey's next fight promotion venture will occur at Reno, Nev., July 4, with Max Baer, of Livermore, Calif., as one of the principals, Ancil Hoffman, local promoter, said today.

Hoffman announced today the date definitely had been set for July 4. An outstanding heavyweight opponent for Baer still is being sought, the San Francisco man explained.

Hoffman said Baer's opponent would be selected from Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain; Vittorio Campolo, giant Argentine, and Jim Maloney, of Boston.

Lynch and Peck to Run In National Marathon

The national marathon race to be run from Laurel to Baltimore May 16, has attracted two Washington runners with a strong possibility of there being a third in line when the starter's gun sends the field away. Mike Lynch, that untiring gentleman who is still successfully defying old Father Time, and John Peck have definitely signified their intentions of competing, while Haskell Clark's status is doubtful at present.

Mike returned from Detroit, Mich., a week ago today, where he and Peck were scheduled to do their stuff in a marathon that was canceled at the last minute. Peck stopped over in Pittsburgh to visit on the return journey, but will be back in the city in time for the National.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau Washington, Wednesday, May 6—8 P. M. Forecast for the District of Columbia—Showers Thursday; cooler Thursday afternoon and night; Friday fair and cool; moderate to fresh southerly winds, shifting to northwest by Thursday night.

For Virginia—Showers Thursday; cooler Thursday afternoon and night; Friday fair and continued cool; moderate southerly winds, shifting to northwest by Thursday night.

The disturbance that was over the Mississippi Valley and the upper Lake region Tuesday night has moved slowly eastward and it now extends from Michigan to Alabama, the Mississippi River, Alpena, Mich., 29.68 inches. It has been attended by rather general rains in the great central valleys, the upper Lake region, and the Southern States. The far northwestern disturbances has moved southeastward with increasing intensity and it extends tonight from Alaska southeastward to Alberta and Saskatchewan, and thence southward to Mexico. Calgary, Alberta, 29.14 inches, but it has caused no precipitation of consequence in the United States except along the north Pacific Coast. Pressure remains low over the ocean east and west of Newfoundland. High pressure prevails over Maine and Nova Scotia, Chatham, 30.24 inches, and from the Hudson Bay region southwestward to northern Texas. Chesterfield Inlet, District of Keewatin, 30.18 inches, and Abilene, Tex., 30.06 inches.

The Michigan disturbance will move eastward, and it will be attended by general showers within the next 24 hours in the Atlantic States, the Appalachian region, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lower Lake region. Generally fair weather will prevail Friday in the Washington forecast district, except for showers in Maine. The weather will become cooler in the lower Lake region, the upper Ohio Valley and the Appalachian region Thursday, and in the Atlantic States late Thursday afternoon and night. There will be a reaction to higher temperature Friday in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the western lower Lake region.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds, whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay. Copyright, Apr. 1931.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

SUPERVISOR POWELL RESIGNS AT FAIRFAX

Official Quits Rather Than Fight in Court, but Plans to Run Again.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

C. H. Powell, of Baileys Crossroads, a member of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, representing Falls Church magisterial district, tendered his resignation to Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, yesterday morning prior to the regular monthly meeting of the board. The resignation, which was to take effect immediately, was accompanied by the following statement:

"I take this course because it has come to my knowledge that several citizens from my district have requested the attorney for the Commonwealth to institute proceedings to declare the office vacant, and I have neither the means nor the disposition to engage in a legal battle as to a matter with which I have intentionally done no wrong. It is my purpose to be a candidate for the position in the August primary, and thus give the people of my district an opportunity to express themselves."

The resignation is an outcome of complaints made by citizens of Falls Church District concerning the use of gravel from a pit owned by Powell. Prior to his election as a member of the supervisors, Powell had leased the pit to Harry Birch, of Falls Church. The citizens had protested to the board of the quality of the gravel. This led to the discovery that Powell had leased the pit on a royalty basis, receiving 5 cents for each yard of gravel sold.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr immediately requested the return to the county of all money received by Powell during his term as supervisor, with interest. Powell two weeks ago refunded almost $1,000 which he had received as royalty on the gravel.

Powell, through his attorney, F. Shield McCandlish, states that he does not feel his actions were morally improper, as at the time he did not know that they were legally improper. Judge McCarthy yesterday refused to indicate whom he will appoint for the unexpired termm, stating that he required time to conduct an investigation and that he would consider recommendations of the people of the district.

Among those most prominently mentioned for the office are Vernon M. Lynch, of Annandale, present school trustee from Falls Church District; Claude Oliver, of Baileys Cross Roads, and J. W. Gaines, of Annandale.

Regular monthly meeting of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors was held yesterday. A petition was presented from the Pioneer Grange at Masonville protesting the feeding of garbage to hogs in the county. The board was asked to adopt an ordinance regulating the practice. The proposed ordinance would require that in the future no hog farm could be established unless the property owners within a 1-mile radius would give their consent. Members of the board stated that the State Health Department ha ruled that garbage feeding did not constitute a menace to public health and that the board did not feel it ha a right to pass such a resolution.

The report of the State auditor showing condition of the county treasurer's and engineer's accounts was received, approved and ordered filed. The account of the treasurer showed a balance of $334,572.29, of which he was indebted to the county only $330,074.39.

Attorney Walter T. Oliver presented a claim, against the county for Charles Shifflett, administrator of the estate of his daughter, Hilda Arlene Shifflett, who was killed by a car operated by County Policeman Lewis L. Finks May 23, 1930. The amount of the claim was $5,000. Attorney Oliver stated that the clai mmust be presented to the board of supervisors before legal action could be taken. The claim alleged that there was negligence on the part of the officer in operating the car, and that efforts had been made to effect a settlement with the insurers of county employes.

County Treasurer Dr. F. W. Huddleson reported that the the present time there is approximately $140,000 in the road bond sinking fund in local banks, for which, according to an opinion of the attorney general, the county treasurer could not be held responsible, as the fund has been deposited in the banks under recommendation of the board and at the order of the circuit court. He recommended that this money be used immediately in retiring outstanding road bonds. He was authorized to advertise in financial magazines offering to redeem some of the bonds prior to maturity.

The request of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for an appropriation to assist in making a regional survey of traffic along highways in Fairfax County was tabled, as it was decided there are no funds from which such an appropriation could legally be made. A copy of the report of the special committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce recommending that certain improvements be made on State highways traversing the county was presented to the board passaed a resolution addressed to the State Highway Commission incorporating most of the recommendations of the special committee.

Approximately 500 persons attended the horse show held yesterday at the Whitefront Stables in the town of Herndon. Horses were entered from all sections of northern Virginia and Washington. The judges of the show were D. O. Furr and sons, of Middleburg, Va.

Carroll Riker, 70, of Washington, was discovered unconscious from a heart attack Monday night in his summer house, which is built in a tree at Idylwood. Riker had come to Idylwood last Friday, and his neighbors, seeing no signs of life about his house Monday evening, investigated. He was taken to Washington, where his condition is said to be improving. Riker is a retired mechanical engineer, who came from New York to Washington several years ago, making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schofield at 3534 Edmunds place. In the summer he lives at Idylwood.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr has announced the program for his agricultural hour this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock to be broadcast over Radio Station WJSV, at Mount Vernon Hills. The program will include talks by M. C. Kilpatrick, secretary of the Virginia State Poultry Association; L. C. Beemer, garden specialist from Blacksburg, Va., and the county agent, who will speak on soil improvement and the county garden contest. Musical selections will be given by Miss Edna O'Shaughnessy and Lyle Corley.

Planes to Herald Arrival of Queen

William and Mary College Event Is Scheduled to Open Today.

Williamsburg, Va., May 6 (A.P.).—Royal Queen Mary, sovereign of the May Day at William and Mary, will descend upon the ancient Williamsburg campus tomorrow with all her dazzling court and gay company. Her majesty's arrival at 3 p. m. will be heralded by a squadron of airplanes and other festivities.

Identity has as yet been unannounced, officially, and she will not be made known generally until her arrival at the scene of her brief reign. There has been much speculation as to who of the five coeds nominated will reign.

The quintet from whom the queen has been chosen included Carrie Lucas, of Herndon, Va.; Clare Hargrove, of Montclair, N. J.; Hazel Storch, of New York City; Ellen Ticer, of Alexandria, and Agnes Winn, of Victoria, Va. The four remaining after the selection of her majesty will serve as ladies of the queen's court. The election was held several weeks ago by secret ballot.

BLOOD-STAINED CAR MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Man Declares He and Friend Carried Hurt Maryland Trio to Hospital.

The mystery of the blood-stained automobile found on Monday at Eighth and R streets northwest was solved yesterday with an admission by Bradley M. Oliff that he had ridden in the car on Sunday night and had carried three accident victims to Emergency Hospital.

Oliff told police he had been invited for a ride in the automobile by a friend, whom police are now seeking, and while near Clinton, Md., they took three persons to the hospital who were hurt in an accident.

Two of the injured persons were placed in the rumble seat and one in the front seat with Oliff and his friend, which accounts for the blood stains in both seats, Oliff said.

Those taken to the hospital were Miss Elizabeth Tyndall, 36 years old, of 3620 Eleventh street; Henry Chatlin, 22 years old, of 1358 H street northeast, and an unidentified man, who left the hospital after treatment.

The blood-stained car had been stolen from Eighth and F streets on Sunday night, where it had been parked by its owner, Dr. Louis Notes, dentist, who has offices at 1104 H street northeast. It was found by Detective Sergt. Frank Alligood.

Two Suffer Injury From Hit-and-Run Car

Two men who had stopped to repair their car on Florida avenue near V street northwest early yesterday were injured by a passing automobile which failed to stop after striking them, according to police. Clarence Felke, 19, of Mount Rainier, Md., suffered a fracture of the right leg and Warren O. Berry, Second street near Eastern avenue, was cut and bruised.

The car which struck them when it came too close to their disabled automobile was going north on Florida avenue, Felke and Berry told police. They were unable to give any description, save that it was a small sedan. The victims were removed to Garfield Hospital in a passing car.

RIVER GIVES UP BODY AFTER FIVE MONTHS

Remains of John Bingham, 17, Found Floating Near Fox's Ferry.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The body of John O. Bingham, 17, who was lost December 15, was found Tuesday evening floating in shallow water on the Maryland side of the Potomac. His companion, Henry S. Florance, also 17, was found the next day after the boys were missing from their homes, dead from exposure in a partly submerged rowboat, in about the same spot the Bingham boy's body came to the surface.

Two Alexandria youths, Elwood Trenary, 13, and Woodrow English, 16, in a bateau searching for driftwood Tuesday afternoon, saw a body floating near Fox's Ferry. They returned to Alexandria and got two friends, Joseph Grover and Walter English, to go across the river with them and verify their find. The four boys later reported the matter to Sergt. Everly, who teleponed the Washington Harbor Precinct, who recovered the body.

The body was taken to the District Morgue and later identified as that of Bingham. It will be sent from the Cunningham Funeral Home to Charlottesville, Va., for burial. The boy's mother and grandmother have been buried there within the past two years.

The Bingham boy lived at 111 North Payne street and has a sister, Miss Mae Bingham, living at 53 East Linden street. His grandfather, F. X. Northrup, lives at 315 South Pitt street.

The Virginia conference on social work closed its three-day session yesterday after passing a resolution providing that contractors on public works, federal, state, city or county, pay labor the prevailing local rate. The resolution, sponsored by John Hopkins Hall, State commissioner of labor and industry, is expected to lead to action by the legislature along that line.

Dr. J. S. DeJarnette, superintendent of the Western State Hospital, Staunton, spoke on the sterilization law and its operation in Virginia, and advocated the strengthening of that law for hereditarily feeble minded. A resolution also was adopted favoring the consolidation of jurisdictions of the juvenile and domestic relations court and the trial justice court under the same judge.

Judge John L. Ingram, of Richmond, was elected president; R. C. Hough, Salem, first vice president; Miss Sue Slaughter, Norfolk, second vice president; Miss Georgianna Sinclair, Roanoke, third vice president; Arthur W. James, Richmond, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee follows: John Hopkins Hall, Richmond; the Rev. Thomas E. Mitchell, Richmond; Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith, Alexandria; Frank D. Preston and D. B. B. Bagby, Richmond. The time and place of hte next annual meeting was left in the hands of the executive committee. Invitations were received from Lynchburg, Bristol, Harrisonburg, Lexington and Staunton.

Mrs. Eleanor Barnes Travers Brown, 95, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. O. Hantzmon, 116 South Henry street. She was the daughter of the late Capt. Thomas Travers and Henrietta Ann Cook Travers, and was born here September 27, 1836, when Alexandria was in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Brown is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Hantzmon; a grandson, Carroll E. Hantzmon; two great granddaughters, Mrs. H. E. Howard and Miss Marian O. Hantzmon, and a great, great granddaughter, Barbara Ann Howard. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, from the home, conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery.

Mrs. Lydia Ann Dove, age 72 years, widow of John R. Dove, of Accotink, died Tuesday night at her home. The body was brought to the Cunningham Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements. She is survived by two sons, S. T. Dove, of Rosemont, Alexandria, and Charles Dove, of Accotink.

Scottish Rite Masons of the Valley of Virginia will meet at the Scottish Rite Club before 12:30, to attend the funeral of John W. Cross, in Manassas, this afternoon.

Andrew Jackson Lodge, No. 120, A. F. and A. M., tonight at 8 o'clock will observe a special war veterans' night, when two members who served overseas, Elliott F. Hoffman and Norman Roberts, will be the speakers. They will give short talks on their experiences, while Lieut. Roland C. Barrett, Government photographer, will show a group of interesting overseas pictures. Riley W. Nixon, worshipful master, will preside.

Plans for the spring reunion will be made at a meeting of the Washington Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite Masons, at a meeting in the Masonic Temple, Cameron street, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. The reunion is scheduled for June 8, 9, 10 and 11.

The State Highway Commission has completed widening of the bridge at Four-Mile Run, the River road, known as "the death trap," since the widening of that roadway in Arlington County and the abrupt ending at this narrow bridge. After repeated automobile accidents in the "bottle neck," the highway commission widened the bridge. Now the City of Alexandria will widen the road at the south end of the bridge.

The various city departments will be run by Boy Scouts today, a scout sitting with each head of a department in the discharge of his duties. The city council this afternoon will have Scout Jack Weaver sit with Mayor Ticer.

A dispatch from Los Angeles states that C. Keith Carlin, son of former Representative and Mrs. Charles C. Carlin, of this city, has been nominated to oppose Judge William S. Young in the election for the municipal judgeship of Court No. 3. The general election will be held in June.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, at her home, 907 Prince street.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"DAYLIGHT SAVING,"
A Drama of Home and Railroad Journeys.

Scene 1. Diningroom of an American home. Mr. and Mrs. Caspar Klopp are discussing Mrs. Klopp's trip out of town on the following day.

MR. KLOPP—What train are you taking, dear?

Mrs. Klopp—There's one around 8 o'clock in the morning, isn't there?

Mr. Klopp—I think there is.

Mrs. Klopp—But how about daylight saving? That would make it leave an hour earlier, wouldn't it?

Mr. Klopp—An hour later, I think.

Mrs. Klopp (trying to figure it out)—Is it an hour later or an hour earlier? • • • Lemme think • • • When it's 8 o'clock by our watches it means that by the railroad depot clock it is the same time as it would be if nothing had been done about it, so that as a matter of fact a train now would be leaving just as things were before anything was changed, consequently • • • Do I make it clear?

Mr. Klopp—No!

Mrs. Klopp—Well, you figure it out. I always get all mixed up every time I want to go anywhere on a train.

• • • •

MR. KLOPP (a little uncertainly) Now let's get it straight. It is now 6:45. Suppose you wanted to take a train this minute • • • well—ahem—the train would not be leaving by the time shown on our clock, would it?

Mrs. Klopp (quite vaguely)—What train are you talking about?

Mr. Klopp—No particular train, dear • • • I am speaking of an imaginary train which we will assume always left at 6:45 before daylight saving. Well, it wouldn't leave at 6:45 tonight, would it, on account of the difference in time, eh?

Mrs. Klopp (quite muddled)—Why take an imaginary train? It's hard enough to figure things out even with a regular train.

Mr. Klopp (with a heavy sigh)—All right, but it's so stupid of you. Now lissen, honey • • • You want to take the 8 o'clock train, don't you?

Mrs. Klopp (trying to concentrate) Uhuh. The one that I used to take last winter.

Mr. Klopp—Yes. Well, since you last took that train daylight saving has come in, hasn't it? • • • Don't interrupt me! • • • Now, then, when daylight saving came in what did we do? • • • We changed our clocks and watches by pushing them back one hour and • • •

Mrs. Klopp—No we didn't • • • we pushed them ahead one hour.

Mr. Klopp (who is sorry he undertook the explanation)—We turned 'em back!

Mrs. Klopp (firmly)—We shoved 'em ahead.

Mr. Klopp (working it out with his watch)—I guess you're right. Well, where was I?

• • • •

MRS. KLOPP—You were catching the train that left all winter at 8 o'clock?

Mr. Klopp (wearily)—Precisely. Now, then, when it is really 8 o'clock by the time you used last winter in catching trains, it is 7 o'clock • • • just a minute • • • I mean it is 9 o'clock by the time you are using now • • • Well, it's very simple, isn't it?

Mrs. Klopp—Then I get the train at 8 like I always did.

Mr. Klopp—Yes, . . . No! . . . The train still leaves at 8 like it always did, but it leaves at 9 by daylight saving because by railroad time it is the same time that it was in the first place, due to the fact the time was not changed in the railroad stations the way it was changed in the homes, and by simple subtraction and addition we find that everything works out okay and that so far as the railroad is concerned a train leaves the same time that it always did, only not by our clocks.

Mrs. Klopp (handing him a folder)—Here's one of the new daylight saving time-tables. I picked it up passing the station the other day.

Mr. Klopp (after consulting it for what seems an eternity)—Hah!

Mrs. Klopp—What?

Mr. Klopp—They've discontinued the 8 o'clock train. It now leaves at 9 o'clock, or by our clocks 10 o'clock. Understand, dear?

Mrs. Klopp (completely befuddled)—Who?

FAIRCLOTH DRAWS 15 MONTHS' TERM

Schatz Pleads Guilty and Also Is Sentenced to Prison in Atlanta.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 6.—Sentences of 15 months each at Atlanta were imposed yesterday by Judge William C. Coleman in the United States District Court on John G. Faircloth and Clarence F. Schatz for violations of the national banking laws.

Faircloth was found guilty last week by a jury of aiding Schatz in misapplying funds of the First National Bank of Mount Rainier, Md. Schatz, who was the principal Government witness against Faircloth, yesterday pleaded guilty when arraigned on the misapplication charge and on a count of making false entries.

Schatz was former treasurer of the Mayflower Publishing Co., of Washington, of which Faircloth was president. Schatz also was cashier of the Mount Rainier bank.

According to testimony produced at Faircloth's trial, the two men kited checks through several banks, and funds from inactive accounts at the Mount Rainier institution were shifted to the credit of the Mayflower company to take care of overdrafts.

In imposing sentence, Judge Coleman pointed out that the case was a serious one and the national banking laws must be strictly enforced for the protection of the public.

Before sentence was imposed, Simon E. Sobeloff, United States attorney, who, with O. Norman Forrest, assistant United States attorney, prosecuted the case, called the Court's attention to the aid rendered the Government by the cooperation of Schatz. Mr. Sobeloff also mentioned to the Court that the jury which found Faircloth guilty recommended mercy.

SCHOOL DATES SET IN PRINCE WILLIAM

Teachers' Institute Will Meet in Manassas on Next September 12.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., May 6.—Opening of the Prince William County schools for the next school year was set for Monday, September 14, at today's meeting of the school board. The Teachers Institute, which precedes school opening, will be held in the Manassas High School September 12.

Miss Beatrix Clark, who began her duties as rural school supervisor of the county a year ago, was reappointed for the next school year. The development of the rural schools under the supervision of Miss Clark has brought these institutions up to a high state of efficiency and the further progress of advancement in this direction which R. C. Haydon, superintendent of schools, has recommended to the school board will be carried forward under her direction.

Among other actions taken by the board were the reappointment of C. R. C. Johnson, of Manassas, as school textbook agent for the county; the setting aside of $90 received from the Manassas High School Patrons League for use of the high school librarian, and a decision to make repairs and put new fixtures in Aden School.

Those attending the board meeting were D. J. Arrington, chairman, Manassas district; Mrs. Annie G. Cline, Dumfries district; A. T. Barnes, Coles district; E. S. Brockett, Occoquan district; Mrs. Anita D. Piercy, Gainesville district; W. L. Lloyd, Brentsville district, and Richard C. Haydon, superintendent of schools, secretary of the board.

Leesburg Rotarians Go To Convention in Body

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., May 6.—The entire membership of the Leesburg Rotary Club attended the convention of the fifty-sixth District Rotary International at Norfolk, Va. The meeting will close tomorrow.

The local club is presenting E. E. Garrett, Leesburg attorney, for president of the fifty-sixth district to succeed G. Jeter Jones, of Richmond. Mr. Garrett, widely known lawyer and bank head, was president of the Leesburg Club in 1929 and 1930.

In the Chicago convention the club won the handsome international trophy awarded for attedance. This was the first time the trophy, a silver cup 4 feet high, was ever won by a club in the United States.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED FOR BEAUTIFICATION

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The launching of the beautification contest being sponsored by the Arlington County Bicentennial Council as a part of its program in preparation for the celebration next year was perfected at a meeting of the subcommittee on beautification at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Joseph Haley, in Lyon Village, last night.

The committee decided on the following competitions and rules: For the best appearing community; the best appearing street block in each community in the county; the best appearing home premises in each community; the neatest and best kept home premises in each community, regardless of landscaping and other improvements; the best appearing home premise; the best school premise; the best church premise; the best business district.

In order that all persons and communities may compete on an even basis, the rules provide that no weight be given either to the size and costliness of homes, churches, schools or communities, or superior architectural design, or superiority of natural setting. In the matter of the best appearing street, no account is to be taken of the improvements or lack of improvements, a factor not under the control of the contestants.

Suitable prizes or trophies will be awarded winning contestants. A committee on prizes and trophies is being appointed to take care of these items.

Judges will be announced soon.

Mrs. Herbert Marcey was reelected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Robert E. Lee School for the fourth term at the meeting at the school yesterday afternoon. Other officers are: Mrs. Louise Browning, vice president; Mrs. E. F. Redfield, secretary; and Mrs. Sarah A. Holiday, treasurer.

The president said she will announce committee appointments at the June meeting, at which time the newly elected officers will be installed.

The association went on record as favoring a community chest for Arlington County as proposed by the Arlington County Civic Federation.

Mrs. Lucile C. Hamlin, chairman of the research committee of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club, will speak over station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Virginia, tonight at 9:15 o'clock. Mrs Hamlin will speak on "Women in Business."

Committee chairmen of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club were announced by the president, Mrs. W. E. Willis, at a meeting of the executive committee last night as follows:

Public relations, Mrs. Katherine Cohen; legislative, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn; education, Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs; international relations, Miss Lucy Moss; publicity, Mrs. Kathleen Clark; finance, Mrs. Edith Corder; transportation, Miss Norine Kloss; independent woman, Mrs. Dorothy Potterton; emblem, Mrs. Mary Moore McIntosh; music, Mrs. Lorena Ellis; health, Mrs. Theresa Clark; research, Mrs. Lucile C. Hamlin; membership, Mrs. Jessie Hunt; program, Mrs. Pearl Sharp; dinner, Mrs. Rachel White.

The Arlington County Monarch Club tonight at 8 o'clock will hold its annual ladies' night at the Army-Navy Club in Arlington County.

Dexter Hussey, general chairman in charge of arrangements, announces the committee has completed an elaborate program of entertainment.

Large delegations will attend from Richmond, Baltimore and Washington.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Matthew Fontaine Maury School at Clarendon will meet tonight at the school at 8 o'clock to elect officers. Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, will be principal speaker.

The association will hold its last card party of the season tomorrow night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Emery, 201 Ashton avenue, Clarendon.

The Creative Arts Club of Arlington County will hold its May meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Cherriford White, Livingstone Heights. Officers will be elected.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The May dental clinic for preschool children in Washington District will be held at the Cherrydale Health Center today.

The hours will be from 9 to 12 in the morning and from 1 to 4 in the afternoon. The clinic will be in charge of Dr. C. R. Boyland, county school dentist.

Having adopted a plan to hold the May health program at the several schools throughout the month rather than centering the program in one school, the county health department announces the following dates when the program will be held:

Saegmuller School, Walker's Chapel, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock; John Marshall School, Livingstone Heights, 6:30 o'clock, May 15; Thomas Nelson Page School, at Ballston, and Woodmont School, at Maywood, 3 o'clock, May 15; Nellie Custis School, Virginia Highlands, 7:30 o'clock, May 18, and Barcroft School 2:30 o'clock, May 22.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12 o'clock at Windsor Arms, Glebe road.

Two Are Badly Hurt In Collision With Bus

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., May 6.—Dr. James M. Shelburne, pastor of the First Baptist Church and H. Lee Boatwright, tobacco dealer and father-in-law of the former Suzanne Pollard, were severely injured here this evening when the car Dr. Shelburne was driving crashed into a heavy passenger bus headed for Greensboro. Removed to Memorial Hospital in an unconscious state, the minister was found to have bad lacerations about the face and scalp and several broken ribs. Mr. Boatwright's condition was more serious. He had facial cuts and a possible skull fracture.

Jefferson Group For Celebration

Society in Charles Town Plans for Entrance in Bicentennial.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., May 7.—By unanimous vote the Jefferson Historical Society here agreed to participate in the Washington bicentennial celebration in 1932, and W. F. Alexander, business man, was designated to formulate plans for the county's part in the program.

The action followed an address by Mrs. Rose Gouveneur Hoes, of Washington, a director of the collection of Washingtoniana for the bicentennial committee.

Members of the George Washington line were intimately associated with the founding and development of this town, and both names of streets and buildings here were derived, in several instances, from these associations.
